SEVERAL GROUNDS ALLEGED

COSTS AGAINST THE CITY $334

In the Two Trials Already Held—A Case Involving $67 Occupies the Attention of Court and Jury for Many Hours—Probate Court.

Lisbon, May 28.—(Special.)—S. W. Ramsey, as attorney for the city of Salem, in the L. P. Metzger case, filed an application for a new trial with Judge Boone at 10 a. m. today. The motion is based on alleged error in the trial of the case. Error is charged in admitting evidence offered on behalf of the defendant, to which the complainant objected at the time; in rejecting evidence offered by the complainant and in the charge to the jury. It is also claimed that the verdict is contrary to law and against the weight of the testimony and not sustained by sufficient evidence. It is further claimed in the motion that since the last trial of the case new evidence, material for the city, which would not, with reasonable diligence be obtained and produced at the trial, will be furnished.

The total costs in the trial of the Metzger case amount to $334.10 and have been assessed against the city of Salem, to be paid within 20 days. In default, execution will be issued. The jury alone cost $116. The amount covers both trials.

Attorney Frank E. Grosshans, assignee of Harry J. Windram, filed application in probate court today against Lillian E. Windram for an order to sell lots 4331 and 4332 in Cambridge addition to East Liverpool. Judge Boone granted an order of private sale.

Joseph P. McClain, of Fairfield township, left no will, and Matilda McClain was appointed administrator with $300 bond.

The case of Jesse Summers against Joseph McAllister was tried by a jury in common pleas court yesterday. The jury, after being out nearly six hours, returned a verdict at 11 o'clock in favor of the plaintiff for $67.66. The defendants are from Hanover township and the dispute was over an account for hay and straw which Summers sold to McAllister. It was appealed from a justice's court.

Clerk McNutt has made the following assignment of cases for court next week, Judge Hole presiding:

Monday—Opinions in cases submitted; Firestone Bros. vs. Frank A. Shoemaker et al; Alfred Peterson vs. John Carlson.

TERRIFIC STORM IN CAMP

Correspondence of News Review.

Nowata, I. T., May 25.—Since writing you from Catoosa, we have worked to Nowata, 24 miles north of Catoosa, first camping six miles west of Clairmore. The land west of the Verdigris river is very rough, with high mountains of limestone formation, some of them resembling the pyramids in form, others truncated, a few of them covered with timber, and many nothing more than sterile altitudes.

Our next move was to Seegeeyoh, half a mile west of Clairmore mound. On this mound—a miniature Gibraltar—the Osages fought their last desperate battle with the Cherokees. The Osages were defeated and driven to the strip east of Oklahoma. There is some splendid dirt around Seegeeyoh, but some fortunes are covered with limestone and conglomerate rock. Our next move was to Oologah. This name signifies cloud. Here the land is rich and fertile.

The town is on the Missouri Pacific railroad, and seems to be thriving and prosperous, having four good stores, one hotel and one M. E. church. I met the preacher, named Clapham, and by the way he is an Englishman. He is a bright and clever old chap. Besides the sacred position he holds he is a notary public and weigher of grain. There were no external evidences indicating the preacher. Instead of the broad brimmed black hat, he wore a cloth cap, a cross between the golf and the baseball cap, a red bandana doing service for the immaculate white tie. He had a blue and white checked shirt and a pair of cayenne pepper colored overalls. I had several pleasant talks with him, found him a gentle and genial character and bristling with talent.

His makeup did not strike me as being the conventional thing, but his charity and catholicity of spirit convinced me that the old chap was sincere and very much in earnest in his field of labor.

Our next camp was at Talala—the name signifies red bird. There the soil is very rich and fertile. In the township are three striped coal mines, making splendid coke.

On May 17 we had two terrific storms. The first came on at 1:30 a. m. The wind, rain, lightning and thunder seemed to have combined all their elements of strength and lashed themselves into fury. Our tents cracked like whips, and some of us had to turn out to drive down tent pegs and secure additional guy lines for safety. I could scarcely stand on my feet. Heavy boxes of canned goods and groceries were blown over and scattered over the floor of the cook tent. The stove pipe landed squarely on the head of our chief in his cot. The vivid flashes of lightning revealed the forms of some of our boys in nearly kaftan full dress, hanging to their tent poles for dear life. At 2:30 the storm had spent its fury. The only thing in my tent that did not suffer damage was my good book, that people built on the narrow gauge principle say I never read.

Our camp was in dilapidated condition and a more bedraggled set of hoboes you could not find. At 8 a. m. the clouds looked ominous, but we packed up our traps, shook the mud of Talala creek off our feet and hit the trail for Double creek. All went well until we reached Pig creek. Our first wagon, loaded with bedding and personal effects, struck a snag and nearly careened over. Six mules could not raise or pull the load out of the creek. We cut down poles and raised the wagon bodily. Then, with a cheer that made the welkin ring, we got the wagon out.

In the midst of our troubles, a white man with a bilious colored heart, and a citizen by marriage, requested me to locate him and give him number for allotment. I came within an ace of locating him on the head with a pole axe. However, he did not get his allotment that day.

We got along without further trouble and pitched our camp on the banks of Double Creek. No sooner were we

TAX LEVY FIXED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Will Be 10.8 Mills For All Purposes on a Valuation of $5,516,830.

THE HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

On Recommendation of Supt. Rayman Will All Get Their Diplomas—Sums That Will Be Raised in Taxes for the Various Funds.

The tax levy as fixed by the board of education at its meeting last night is as follows: For tuition fund, 6.5 mills, or $35,859.39; for building fund, 2 mills, or $11,033.66; contingent fund, 2 mills, or $11,033.66; public library fund, .3 mill, or $1,655.04. The levy was based on a valuation of $5,516,830. The clerk's bond of $5,000 was accepted and filed.

Prof. Rayman recommended all the members of the high school class for graduation and on motion the president and secretary, on behalf of the board, and the superintendent and principal of the high school, on behalf of the faculty, were instructed to prepare diplomas for the members of the class.

COUNCIL MUST PROVIDE

FOR A DEFICIENCY IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY FUND.

The Board of Education Fixed a Levy Which Will Bring Only $1,655.04.

When the committee appointed to make the tax levy for the board of education reported last night it was found that but three-tenths of a mill had been provided for library purposes, which will produce an income of $1,655.04.

In case the levy as made for municipal and school purposes stands, the Carnegie library will be shy just $1,344.96 for the year 1902. From the present millage the city will have an income of over $100,000, and a majority of the taxpayers are protesting against that, so it is hardly likely that it will be increased to make up the amount needed.

Several members of the Carnegie library board were seen today, and all agreed that it would be necessary to have the full amount provided for the maintenance of that institution, and that as soon as it was needed council would be compelled to provide the money.

The income from the present levy will not begin until next December, and by that time the library will in all probability be in running order, and will, therefore, need the money pledged to its support.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL

Levy Fixed for the Ensuing Year the Same As Last Year.

The township board of education met at the office of the city clerk last evening. J. C. Croft, of district No. 3, and Wm. C. Thompson, of No. 4, were present; Hugh McFadden, of No. 5, alone being absent.

It was the object of the meeting to establish a school tax levy, and after giving the matter due consideration it was decided to make the levy the same as last year—three mills.

THREE PLAIN DRUNKS

Taken in Tow By the Police Last Night—Each Fined $1 And Costs.

Sound asleep Charles Amos and Doe Fortune were found yesterday afternoon lying on the ground in the old Fifth street cemetery. Both were helplessly intoxicated and Officer Mahoney and Patrolman Ruhe placed them under arrest. The patrol was summoned and the young men taken to the bastille, where they were held until this morning to sober up, when they were given a hearing.

Both pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs each. They gave orders on their wages and were allowed their liberty.

William Costello was arrested last night in Midway alley by Officer Mahoney. He was too drunk to navigate and the officer secured the services of the patrol to take the victim to jail. This morning he paid $1 and costs and went his way.

Duff Call, who was arrested Sunday afternoon and fined $5 and costs, was turned loose last night. He succeeded in raising the wherewithal necessary to square his account with the mayor.

AFRAID TO RISK IT

LOCAL SPORTS WILL NOT FIGHT CHICKENS ON LINE ISLAND.

The Proposed Cocking Main on May 30 Is Declared Off—Likewise the Prize Fight.

The local sporting men who engineered the proposition for the holding of a cocking main on Line Island May 30 are beginning to weaken and show a disposition to call the affair off. One of the sports told a reporter that the threat of the authorities to interfere had caused many of the outside parties who were to take part in the main to withdraw, and for this reason it looked much as if the affair would be a fizzle even if an attempt was made to defy the officers.

However, it is generally believed the main has been declared off by reason of the timidity of the local parties connected with it, and that their inclination to "take water" has caused the outsiders to become dubious. It is understood that several Wellsville sports have agreed to risk the danger of arrest, but it is not known that their offer has been accepted.

The pugilistic contest proposed for May 30 has also been cancelled. The local "bruiser" was unable to make a match.

CARBOLIC ACID

ENDS THE LIFE OF MRS. PERRY SPIKER, OF SALEM.

Not Known Whether She Took the Drug Purposely or By Accident.

Salem, May 28.—Mrs. Rachel, wife of Perry Spiker, died yesterday afternoon. As far as can be learned, yesterday morning she took a large dose of carbolic acid, but whether it was with suicidal intent or whether it was accidental, cannot be stated with any degree of certainty for Mrs. Spiker never regained consciousness after she had taken the fatal drug.

For the past six months Mrs. Spiker has been ill with nervous prostration, kidney trouble and dyspepsia. During all of this time she has been taking medicine. She leaves a husband, one son and a daughter.

Patrick Connelly Taken Out Alive After Hope Had Been Abandoned.

FIRE BELL RANG AT NIGHT

BAFFLED AND BEATEN BACK

By Smoke And Flame the Rescuers Finally Reached the Man By a Perilous Descent Through an Air Shaft And Took Him to Safety.

Salineville, May 28.—(Special.)—This city was thrown into a furor of excitement at a late hour last night as the result of a fire which broke out near the bottom of the shaft of the Big Vein coal mine. The continued ringing of the fire bell aroused almost the entire populace, who rushed to the scene of the blaze.

The report which became quickly circulated that Patrick Connelly was down in the mine augmented the excitement and great crowds gathered about the tippie in the hope that the imperiled man could be rescued before the fire reached him.

Connelly was tending a pump located near the bottom of the shaft, but as the blaze originated directly between him and the elevator, all chances of escape by the main entry were cut off. Great volumes of smoke poured out from the shaft and after repeated efforts on the part of the rescuing party to fight their way through it, the men were forced to turn back.

Then it was decided to gain entrance into the mine through an air shaft, which is located almost a mile back of the main entry; and after a leader had volunteered his services about 20 men followed him. Making their way to the small aperture, which is used for ventilating the mine, the men bravely descended by means of a ladder and with extreme difficulty made their way to the pump where Connelly was stationed.

It was with joyful surprise the rescuers found Connelly alive. During all the time the men had been at work at the top of the shaft he had battled with the flames below until almost exhausted. Connelly was taken to a place of safety and a renewed attack begun by the men who had ventured inside the mine. The fire was finally extinguished before any great damage resulted.

When the party of rescuers, together with Connelly, were finally drawn up to the top of the shaft, they were cheered to the echo. The mine has not been running lately, and consequently had become somewhat flooded with water. The men who rescued Connelly were drenched to the skin and suffered great exposure.

Two men have met death in the Big Vein mine within the past few years as the result of fire.

NEARLY LOST AN EYE

A Scale of Hot Iron Struck Jacob Shawke, Badly Injuring Him.

While engaged at turning a toe on a horseshoe at his blacksmith shop yesterday afternoon Jacob Shawke met with an accident which came near destroying the sight of one of his eyes. A huge scale from the red-hot iron hit his eye squarely on the ball and caused him everclating pain.

The gentleman hastened to the office of Dr. Laughlin, who picked the iron from his eye and expresses the belief that his sight can be preserved.

IT WAS A DUSTER

No Showing of Oil in the Well Drilled on the Blazier Farm.

The oil well on the Blazier farm was drilled in yesterday with no sign of oil. There was a small amount of gas, but not of sufficient quantity to justify the company in piping it, so the casing will be withdrawn at once.

This is the well that the drillers felt certain would be a good producer, and the fact that it has come in dry, it is said, will cause the company to abandon the drilling of several wild cat wells that had been located in this vicinity.

NOT SUCCESSFUL

WAS AN ALLEGED ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE NEAR THE PARK.

The Affair Caused Excitement And Two Doctors Were Summoned in Haste.

Great excitement was caused near Columbian park yesterday evening by the report that Mrs. James Delaney had swallowed two ounces of laudanum with suicidal intent. Several neighbors were called to the house and two doctors were summoned. The lady refused to permit the stomach pump to be used, and it seemed that her death was only a matter of a very short time. An emetic was given, but the woman appeared to suffer great agony.

It soon became apparent to the physicians, however, that she had not taken laudanum and they departed.

It is reported that Mrs. Delaney had quarreled with her husband, and, the neighbors say she drank what she claimed was laudanum in order to scare him. She was apparently in good health this morning.

Patrick Connelly Taken Out Alive After Hope Had Been Abandoned.

FIRE BELL RANG AT NIGHT

By Smoke And Flame the Rescuers Finally Reached the Man By a Perilous Descent Through an Air Shaft And Took Him to Safety.

Salineville, May 28.—(Special.)—This city was thrown into a furor of excitement at a late hour last night as the result of a fire which broke out near the bottom of the shaft of the Big Vein coal mine. The continued ringing of the fire bell aroused almost the entire populace, who rushed to the scene of the blaze.

The report which became quickly circulated that Patrick Connelly was down in the mine augmented the excitement and great crowds gathered about the tippie in the hope that the imperiled man could be rescued before the fire reached him.

Connelly was tending a pump located near the bottom of the shaft, but as the blaze originated directly between him and the elevator, all chances of escape by the main entry were cut off. Great volumes of smoke poured out from the shaft and after repeated efforts on the part of the rescuing party to fight their way through it, the men were forced to turn back.

Then it was decided to gain entrance into the mine through an air shaft, which is located almost a mile back of the main entry; and after a leader had volunteered his services about 20 men followed him. Making their way to the small aperture, which is used for ventilating the mine, the men bravely descended by means of a ladder and with extreme difficulty made their way to the pump where Connelly was stationed.

It was with joyful surprise the rescuers found Connelly alive. During all the time the men had been at work at the top of the shaft he had battled with the flames below until almost exhausted. Connelly was taken to a place of safety and a renewed attack begun by the men who had ventured inside the mine. The fire was finally extinguished before any great damage resulted.

When the party of rescuers, together with Connelly, were finally drawn up to the top of the shaft, they were cheered to the echo. The mine has not been running lately, and consequently had become somewhat flooded with water. The men who rescued Connelly were drenched to the skin and suffered great exposure.

Two men have met death in the Big Vein mine within the past few years as the result of fire.

NEARLY LOST AN EYE

A Scale of Hot Iron Struck Jacob Shawke, Badly Injuring Him.

While engaged at turning a toe on a horseshoe at his blacksmith shop yesterday afternoon Jacob Shawke met with an accident which came near destroying the sight of one of his eyes. A huge scale from the red-hot iron hit his eye squarely on the ball and caused him evincing pain.

No Showing of Oil in the Well Drilled on the Blazier Farm.

The oil well on the Blazier farm was drilled in yesterday with no sign of oil. There was a small amount of gas, but not of sufficient quantity to justify the company in piping it, so the casing will be withdrawn at once.

This is the well that the drillers felt certain would be a good producer, and the fact that it has come in dry, it is said, will cause the company to abandon the drilling of several wild cat wells that had been located in this vicinity.

ANOTHER TRIAL IS ASKED IN THE L. P. METZGER CASE

In the Two Trials Already Held—A Case Involving $67 Occupies the Attention of Court And Jury for Many Hours—Probate Court.

Lisbon, May 28.—(Special.)—S. W. Ramsey, as attorney for the city of Salem, in the L. P. Metzger case, filed in application for a new trial with Judge Boone at 10 a. m. today. The motion is based on alleged error in the trial of the case. Error is charged in admitting evidence offered on behalf of the defendant, to which the complainant objected at the time; in rejecting evidence offered by the complainant in the charge to the jury. It is also claimed that the verdict is contrary to law and against the weight of the testimony and not sustained by sufficient evidence. It is further claimed in the motion that since the last trial of the case new evidence, material for the city, which could not, with reasonable diligence be obtained and produced at the trial, will be furnished.

The total costs in the trial of the Metzger case amount to $334.10 and have been assessed against the city of Salem, to be paid within 20 days. In default, execution will be issued. The jury alone cost $116. The amount covers both trials.

Attorney Frank E. Grosshans, assignee of Harry J. Windram, filed application in probate court today against Lillian E. Windram for an order to sell lots 4331 and 4332 in Gamble addition to East Liverpool. Judge Boone granted an order of private sale.

Joseph P. McClain, of Fairfield township, left no will, and Matilda McClain was appointed administrator with $300 bond.

The case of Jesse Summers against Joseph McAllister was tried by a jury in common pleas court yesterday. The jury, after being out nearly six hours, turned a verdict at 11 o'clock in favor of the plaintiff for $67.66. The issues are from Hanover township and the dispute was over an account of hay and straw which Summers sold to McAllister. It was appealed on a justice's court.

Clerk McNutt has made the following assignment of cases for court next week, Judge Hole presiding:

Monday—Opinions in cases submitted: Firestone Bros. vs. Frank A. Gensaker et al; Alfred Peterson vs. John Carlson.

Tuesday—Helen N. McClellan vs. Arters et al; Michael Theiss vs. the Perry Valley Iron works.

Wednesday—L. E. Huston vs. Edward B. Toland; Frank Ross vs. the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company; Bert Corns vs. W. T. Burton.

Thursday—Jesse Chamberlain vs. the City of East Liverpool; Jesse D. Hloway vs. Samuel Frost et al; Sarah Emma Burrows vs. Walter Burrows; John C. Catlett vs. C. E. Smith.

The Aged Victim of the Shooting Still Feeble—A Jury Secured for the Case.

Ashton, May 28.—(Special.)—The case of Ohio versus Charles Curtis Ab, of Bayard, charged with a murderous assault on Andrew Miller, was held this morning and a jury was paneled. Some difficulty was experienced in securing a jury. When it was finally empaneled the case was necessarily deferred for over three weeks, on account of Miller being absent. Court adjourned over an hour to him to arrive, until 1:30 p. m.

The jury to try the case is: Joseph Jackson, William Whan, Geo. D. Fluharty, Perry McCaskey, J. H. Glenn, John Baxley, R. Arter, Lisbon; Wm. Fruits, William McLaren, Salem;

William Crow, Elkton; W. E. Neff, Leetonia; Cassius Sanor, New Garden.

Squire Andrew Miller arrived this afternoon, accompanied by Jack Adams, the tenant on the McKinley farm. He is still feeble, and says his mind has never cleared up.

Forty-two witnesses will testify in the case, 28 for the state. Prosecuting Attorney Brookes will prosecute the case. Staub is represented by Attorneys John M. Dickinson and George T. Farrell, of Lisbon.

SALOONISTS FINED

SEVERAL EAST LIVERPOOL MEN WERE ARRANGED TODAY.

Some of Them Fined While One Is Acquitted—Frank O'Hanlon Pays Two Fines.

Lisbon, May 28.—(Special.)—A session of criminal court was held this forenoon and a number of East Liverpool liquor dealers were arraigned.

Francis O'Hanlon was indicted on two charges of selling liquor to John Rauch, a habitual drunkard. O'Hanlon has been in the business 14 years and was never indicted before. Judge Hole fined him $20 and costs in each case.

John Short, bartender for Walter Burrows, sold to Elwood Morland, aged 55, who is alleged to be a habitual drunkard and is now in the county jail on a charge of vagrancy. Short pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor, and paid $25 and costs on one case, and the other was nollied.

John Robinson and Lewis Cline, East Liverpool saloonkeepers, were each arraigned on two indictments, for selling to David Brown, the negro recently convicted of assaulting and attempting to rob Mrs. Laura Williams. Brown proved to be a perjurer, and Judge Hole, on the recommendation of Prosecutor Brookes, nollied the cases.

More cases remain to be decided.

NOT SUCCESSFUL

The Affair Caused Excitement And Two Doctors Were Summoned in Haste.

Great excitement was caused near Columbian park yesterday evening by the report that Mrs. James Delaney had swallowed two ounces of laudanum with suicidal intent. Several neighbors were called to the house and two doctors were summoned. The lady refused to permit the stomach pump to be used, and it seemed that her death was only a matter of a very short time. An emetic was given, but the woman appeared to suffer great agony.

It soon became apparent to the physicians, however, that she had not taken laudanum and they departed.

It is reported that Mrs. Delaney had quarreled with her husband, and the neighbors say she drank what she claimed was laudanum in order to scare him. She was apparently in good health this morning.

HADSOME WEDDING

Justice McCarron Officiated at the Wedding of Miss Mary Pryor And J. A. Lewellen.

Miss Mary Pryor and J. A. Lewellen, both of this city, were quietly married at 9 o'clock last night by Justice McCarron at his office. The couple were exquisitely costumed and the magistrate was almost bewildered by the array of broadcloth and silks and satins. He says he never married a more handsome couple, and at the conclusion of the ceremony he showered congratulations in great profusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewellen have the best wishes of a host of friends. Both are well and favorably known. They will reside in this city.

A Preacher in Overalls And Other Peculiar Sightings Found in the Indian Reservation — A Rich Region Awaiting Development.

Correspondence of News Review.

Nowata, I. T., May 25.—Since writing you from Catoosa, we have worked to Nowata, 24 miles north of Catoosa, first camping six miles west of Clairmore. The land west of the Verdigris river is very rough, with high mountains of limestone formation, some of them resembling the pyramids in form, others truncated, a few of them covered with timber, and many nothing more than sterile altitudes.

Our next move was to Seegeeyoh, half a mile west of Clairmore mound. On this mound—a miniature Gibraltar—the Osages fought their last desperate battle with the Cherokees. The Osages were defeated and driven to the strip east of Oklahoma. There is some splendid dirt around Seegeeyoh, but some fortunes are covered with limestone and conglomerate rock. Our next move was to Oologah. This name signifies cloud. Here the land is rich and fertile.

The town is on the Missouri Pacific railroad, and seems to be thriving and prosperous, having four good stores, one hotel and one M. E. church. I met the preacher, named Clapham, and by the way he is an Englishman. He is a bright and clever old chap. Besides the sacred position he holds he is a notary public and weigher of grain. There were no external evidences indicating the preacher. Instead of the broad brimmed black hat, he wore a cloth cap, a cross between the golf and the baseball cap, a red bandana doing service for the immaculate white tie. He had a blue and white checked shirt and a pair of cayenne pepper colored overalls. I had several pleasant talks with him, found him a gentle and genial character and bristling with talent.

His makeup did not strike me as being the conventional thing, but his charity and catholicity of spirit convinced me that the old chap was sincere and very much in earnest in his field of labor.

Our next camp was at Talala—the name signifies red bird. There the soil is very rich and fertile. In the township are three stripped coal mines, making splendid coke.

On May 17 we had two terrific storms. The first came on at 1:30 a. m. The wind, rain, lightning and thunder seemed to have combined all their elements of strength and lashed themselves into fury. Our tents cracked like whips, and some of us had to turn out to drive down tent pegs and secure additional guy lines for safety. I could scarcely stand on my feet. Heavy boxes of canned goods and groceries were blown over and scattered over the floor of the cook tent. The stove pipe landed squarely on the head of our chef in his cot. The lurid flashes of lightning revealed the forms of some of our boys in nearly Kaffir full dress, hanging to their tent poles for dear life. At 2:30 the storm had spent its fury. The only thing in my tent that did not suffer damage was my good book, that people built on the narrow gauge principle say I never read.

Our camp was in dilapidated condition and a more bedraggled set of hoboes you could not find. At 8 a. m. the clouds looked ominous, but we packed up our traps, shook the mud of Talala creek off our feet and hit the trail for Double creek. All went well until we reached Pig creek. Our first wagon, loaded with bedding and personal effects, struck a snag and nearly careened over. Six mules could not raise or pull the load out of the creek. We cut down poles and raised the wagon bodily. Then, with a cheer that made the welkin ring, we got the wagon out.

In the midst of our troubles, a white man with a billious colored heart, and a citizen by marriage, requested me to locate him and give him number for allotment. I came within an ace of locating him on the head with a pole axe. However, he did not get his allotment that day.

We got along without further trouble and pitched our camp on the banks of Double Creek. No sooner were we

TAX LEVY FIXED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Will Be 10.8 Mills For All Purposes on a Valuation of $5,516,830.

On Recommendation of Supt. Rayman Will All Get Their Diplomas—Sums That Will Be Raised in Taxes for the Various Funds.

The tax levy as fixed by the board of education at its meeting last night is as follows: For tuition fund, 6.5 mills, or $35,859.39; for building fund, 2 mills, or $11,033.66; contingent fund, 2 mills, or $11,033.66; public library fund, .3 mill, or $1,655.04. The levy was based on a valuation of $5,516,830. The clerk's bond of $5,000 was accepted and filed.

Prof. Rayman recommended all the members of the high school class for graduation and on motion the president and secretary, on behalf of the board, and the superintendent and principal of the high school, on behalf of the faculty, were instructed to prepare diplomas for the members of the class.

FOR A DEFICIENCY IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY FUND.

The Board of Education Fixed a Levy Which Will Bring Only $1,655.04.

When the committee appointed to make the tax levy for the board of education reported last night it was found that but three-tenths of a mill had been provided for library purposes, which will produce an income of $1,655.04.

In case the levy as made for municipal and school purposes stands, the Carnegie library will be shy just $1,344.96 for the year 1902. From the present millage the city will have an income of over $100,000, and a majority of the taxpayers are protesting against that, so it is hardly likely that it will be increased to make up the amount needed.

Several members of the Carnegie library board were seen today, and all agreed that it would be necessary to have the full amount provided for the maintenance of that institution, and that as soon as it was needed council would be compelled to provide the money.

The income from the present levy will not begin until next December, and by that time the library will in all probability be in running order, and will, therefore, need the money pledged to its support.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL

Levy Fixed for the Ensuing Year the Same As Last Year.

The township board of education met at the office of the city clerk last evening. J. C. Croft, of district No. 3, and Wm. C. Thompson, of No. 4, were present; Hugh McPadden, of No. 5, alone being absent.

It was the object of the meeting to establish a school tax levy, and after giving the matter due consideration it was decided to make the levy the same as last year—three mills.

THREE PLAIN DRUNKS

Taken in Tow By the Police Last Night—Each Fined $1 And Costs.

Sound asleep Charles Amos and Doe Forthune were found yesterday afternoon lying on the ground in the old Fifth street cemetery. Both were helplessly intoxicated and Officer Mahoney and Patrolman Ruhe placed them under arrest. The patrol was summoned and the young men taken to the bastille, where they were held until this morning to sober up, when they were given a hearing.

Both pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs each. They gave orders on their wages and were allowed their liberty.

the patrol to take the victim to jail. This morning he paid $1 and costs and went his way.

Duff Call, who was arrested Sunday afternoon and fined $5 and costs, was turned loose last night. He succeeded in raising the wherewithal necessary to square his account with the mayor.

AFRAID TO RISK IT

LOCAL SPORTS WILL NOT FIGHT CHICKENS ON LINE ISLAND.

The local sporting men who engineered the proposition for the holding of a cocking main on Line Island May 30 are beginning to weaken and show a disposition to call the affair off. One of the sports told a reporter that the threat of the authorities to interfere had caused many of the outside parties who were to take part in the main to withdraw, and for this reason it looked much as if the affair would be a fizzle even if an attempt was made to defy the officers.

However, it is generally believed the main has been declared off by reason of the timidity of the local parties connected with it, and that their inclination to "take water" has caused the outsiders to become dubious. It is understood that several Wellsville sports have agreed to risk the danger of arrest, but it is not known that their offer has been accepted.

The pugilistic contest proposed for May 30 has also been cancelled. The local "bruiser" was unable to make a match.

EAST END

MEDDLED WITH GAS

AN EAST END LAD CAME NEAR BURNING TO DEATH.

Was Horribly Burned by Throwing a Lighted Match Up on a Leak.

Lloyd Strain, aged eight years, was almost fatally burned as a result of meddling with a leaking gas main yesterday afternoon. The skin and flesh hung in flakes from his legs and his face was seared almost to a crisp. He did not inhale any of the flame and it is thought he will recover.

The accident was caused by throwing a lighted match down an opening in the ground where there is a leaking main, near the corner of Mulberry street and Ohio avenue.

Lloyd Strain and Roy Meanor were playing near there. They had seen the gas burning out of the ground at that point before and concluded to light it again. They found the opening and the Strain boy knelt down with one knee across the slight crevice and lighted the match. He was instantly enveloped in the flame. The lad was wearing knee trousers and was in his bare feet. His feet and legs were the worst burned. His face and hands were also badly burned and his hair singed.

The boy ran to his home nearby and his father, Thomas Strain, hastily summoned Dr. Davis, who bathed the wounds in lime water and afterward dressed them in oil. This relieved the pain and the boy is resting easier today. His face and limbs are greatly swollen. The Meanor boy was not standing near enough to the crevice to receive any injury.

SOCIAL AND BANQUET

Given by the East End Daughters of Liberty.

The Daughters of Liberty held a very successful social and banquet in their hall on Mulberry street last evening.

A number of Senior Mechanics and Daughters of Liberty from the city proper were present, and the affair was a most enjoyable one.

The evening was passed at games and amusements until about 10:30, when the guests were treated to a sumptuous banquet. These socials are held frequently and are productive of much good in that they strengthen the fraternal feeling that inseparably links together these organizations whose objects are the same. The hall was handsomely decorated with bunting and lodge colors.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

A VARIETY OF TALES PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

Opinions And Observations of Interest As Noted By News Review Reporters.

Few men, indeed, have troubles such as Health Officer Burgess. Many of his experiences have found their way into print, but last evening the officer met with a circumstance which takes the lead in the long list of provoking situations with which he has been confronted.

A telephone message was received by "Uncle Jack" at the city hall from a woman in the West End, telling him that she was menaced by an abominable nuisance, and demanding that he give the matter his immediate attention.

Believing the case to be of an unusually pressing nature, Mr. Burgess immediately started for the West End and called on the woman. He explained his mission and asked where the nuisance was.

"Just come with me," the woman replied, "and I'll show you. It's just outrageous the way I have been pestered, and I don't want you to have any mercy on her."

The health officer began to get suspicious, but as the woman had then started off he reluctantly followed her. As they neared a small house, the female pointed to the place, exclaiming: "There's where she lives; now go for her!"

"What for?" asked the officer as he stopped in the road.

He was very much taken aback when informed that a colored woman who had lived in the dwelling alluded to had been staying up late of nights and playing an accordeon which she had just purchased.

"Well, but where is the nuisance?" asked Mr. Burgess in tones of anguish. "I don't see anything wrong?" "You don't! Just like you; I have been told by my neighbors that you shirk your duty, and now I know it. That woman is the worst kind of a nuisance. She plays miserable music and it spoils my singing; my husband has quit playing his banjo, my children won't touch the melodeon, and

The health officer had vanished.

A laughable incident occurred at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets the other evening. A very fleshy man who had run from the First National bank building to catch the car, boarded it, and was standing on the step. The conductor requested him to go on the inside of the car and he replied that he would when he got his breath. The conductor again told him to go on the inside so as to make room, and as the rear platform was crowded the gentleman asked why he didn't put the others in the car. The conductor then told him to get in or get off the car, and he replied that he would get off when he got ready. The motor-man was called to assist the conductor in putting him off, but they were unable to do so. After they got tired and desisted in their efforts the gentleman stepped off the car and walked down Fifth street.

Rev. C. G. Jordan on Sunday read an announcement from the pulpit which caused mild surprise among his congregation. It was a notice that the funeral of a certain lady who died on Saturday would take place on Monday. Nothing strange or unusual in that. The strange part lies in the fact that lady mentioned died four years ago, on a Saturday, and that the funeral occurred on the Monday following. How the mistake occurred can readily be conjectured.

When Fred Martin returned from the Philippines he brought with him a small animal which is known as a mongrel. He presented it to the boys at the fire station and they have erected a cage for it and now have it on exhibition. At present it is about the size of a rat, but Martin says it will grow to be about three feet long and a foot high. He says the animals are very plentiful on the islands.

A good story is told on Frank Jackson, of this city, by his friends. Sunday evening he accompanied a lady friend to her home near Walker's. As he was leaving the house a bull dog overtook him and he was compelled to make fast time as far as Jethro bridge, where the dog gave up the chase.

A well-known colored man is now known as "Hi Ki." It is claimed that a traveling showman induced him to make up as the wild man from Mexico and exhibit himself in that guise. Several claim to have recognized him and are giving him the laugh.

Tickets for the High School commencement exercises, to be held Friday evening, May 31, in the Opera House, will be on sale at Reed's drug store on and after Wednesday morning. The exercises open promptly at 8:15 p. m.

CONTRACTS FOR BOOKS

Entered Into With Publishers By the Wellsville Board of Education.

At the meeting of the Wellsville board of education last evening a number of bills were ordered paid. The board decided on a list of books to be adopted and to enter into contracts with the companies publishing them to buy their books for five years. By this means a 25 per cent discount is secured. The advisability of establishing a book store in the school building was discussed. Several years ago this was tried and was not a success. The board decided not to try the experiment again.

In his report Prof. McDonald said there had been 1,250 pupils enrolled this year. There were 119 in the high school. During the month of April this fell to a total of 960, with 90 in the high school. In that month there were 14 cases of corporal punishment. The superintendent does not favor corporal punishment as a general thing. He says it marks weakness in the teacher.

The committee on building and repairs was ordered to employ some competent person to draw plans and estimates for reheating the Central school building. The board is now considering the matter of buying a piano. Miss Andrews' room will be closed after today on account of her sickness.

The commencement was then discussed. The price of admission will be 25 cents. There will be no reserved seats, except for members of the board.

After assigning $20 to the purchase of flowers for the vases in the school yards and signing the diplomas for the class of 1901 the board adjourned.

That Low Animal, Man.

Instead of the highest, man is in some respects the lowest of the animal kingdom. Man is the most unchaste, the most drunken, the most egotistic, the most miserly, the most hypocritical and the most atrocious of living creatures. No animal, except man, kills for the mere sake of killing. For one being to take the life of another for purposes of selfish utility is bad enough, conscience knows, but the indiscriminate massacre of defenseless victims by armed and organized packs, just for pastime, is beyond characterization. The human species is the only species of animals that plunges to such depths of atrocity. Even vipers and hyenas do not kill for recreation.

No animal, except man, habitually seeks wealth purely out of an insane impulse to accumulate, and no animal, except man, gloats over accumulations that are of no possible use to him, that are an injury and an abomination and in whose acquisition he has committed irreparable crimes upon others. There are no millionaires—no professional, legalized, lifelong kleptomaniacs—among the birds and quadrupeds. No animal except man spends so large a part of his energies striving for superiority—his superiority in usefulness, but that superiority which consists in simply getting on the heads of one's fellows to crow—and no animal practices common, ordinary morality to the beings of the world in which he lives so little, compared with the amount he preaches it, as man.—Humane Review.

The Production of Caviare.

Two distinct varieties of caviare are manufactured in Russia—the granulated and the pressed forms. The granulated form is obtained by passing the fish roes under pressure through a fine meshed sieve. The small eggs pass intact, but the envelopes are retained in the sieve. To these pure salt is added in the proportion of one-twentieth or one-fortieth. It is intimately mixed with the eggs by means of a kind of wooden spoon. The caviare is then ready for consumption. It is packed in round metallic boxes of one and a half to five pounds and enveloped in parchment for transportation. The pressed caviare keeps better than the granulated form.

To obtain it the fresh caviare is treated with a solution of salt at 25 degrees Baume until the eggs acquire a certain degree of hardness. This operation requires considerable skill and experience. If allowed to stay in the solution too long, the caviare will be too salty, and if not long enough the eggs cannot be preserved. The caviare is then put into small sacks, which are pressed under a screw press to drive out the excess of salt. It is packed in barrels containing up to 1,000 pounds or left in the original sacks, which measure 8 by 20 inches. The average export of pressed caviare for the three years 1896 to 1898 has been more than 3,000 tons, representing a value of $1,400,000.—Scientific American.

The Bridal Feast

Is not infrequently followed by a long, tedious period of enforced fasting and fleshly mortification. The cheek grows hollow, the eyes are dull and deep ringed, and the step is slow and languid. There is an "all dragged-out feeling," which makes life an utter burden.

The great functional changes which follow marriage are not usually anticipated, or the wife suffering might be avoided.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best friend of weak and sickly women. It cures the womanly diseases that rob the eye of brightness and the step of lightness. It tones up the system and establishes the womanly organism on a basis of sound health.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotics. Accept no substitute. There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak and sickly women.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Goss, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do my work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

Young married women will find a lasting friend in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. It contains 100 pages and is sent free (in paper cover), on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Cloth binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Lord Russell's Dilemma.

Once, when he first came to London and was laying the foundation of his great career, says a London letter, the future Lord Chief Justice Russell went to the pit of a theater. The piece was popular, the pit was crowded and the young advocate had only standing room. All of a sudden a man at his side cried out that his watch was stolen. Mr. Russell and two other men were hemmed in.

"It is one of you three," cried the man minus the watch.

"Well, we had better go out and be searched," said Mr. Russell, with the alertness of mind that did not fail him at a trying moment amid an excited crowd. A detective was at hand, and the suggestion was accepted. As Mr. Russell walked out the idea flashed through his mind that if the man behind him had the stolen property he would probably try to secrete it in the pocket of his front rank man. Quick as thought he drew his coat tails about him—only to feel, to his horror, something large and smooth and round already in his pocket.

While he was still wondering what this might mean for him, the detective energetically seized the hindmost man, exclaiming: "What, you rascal! At it again!" To Mr. Russell and the other man he apologized and bade them go free.

But Mr. Russell, before he had taken many steps, reflected that he could not keep the watch. He went back to the box office and explained, with a courage on which he afterward said he rarely experienced greater demands, that though he did not take the watch he had it. So saying, he put his hand into his pocket and pulled out—a forgotten snuffbox.

The Panama Hat.

"The cheapest straw hat to buy," said a man who owns a beauty, "is, after all, a Panama, like this. Look here." He took down his big white hat, which was creased down the middle like a pair of trousers, and rolled it up tight; then he tossed it in the air. With a cracking sound it spread open and fluttered down to the floor in its original shape, deep center crease and all. "You could soak this hat for a week," he continued, "and iron it out flat afterward, but when you came to put it on again it would be just as you see it now."

"Women in Mexico and roundabout all that region make the hats, using straw that has been selected with more care than I could tell you of. The art has been handed down in their families from one generation to another, and it is a secret art, unknown to any other people in the world."

"These women, living so far away from everything, are ignorant of the fashions, and that is why the hats never change their ugly shape. If they were fashionably made, the demand for them would be enormous. As it is, hatters travel through all that country and buy them up at good prices."

"The perfect Panama hat costs at least $30, and if you should pay $50 for a big and unusually light one you would not be getting stuck."—Philadelphia Record.

MEDDLED WITH GAS

AN EAST END LAD CAME NEAR BURNING TO DEATH.

Was Horribly Burned by Throwing a Lighted Match Up on a Leak.

Lloyd Strain, aged eight years, was almost fatally burned as a result of meddling with a leaking gas main yesterday afternoon. The skin and flesh hung in flakes from his legs and his face was seared almost to a crisp. He did not inhale any of the flame and it is thought he will recover.

The accident was caused by throwing a lighted match down an opening in the ground where there is a leaking main, near the corner of Mulberry street and Ohio avenue.

Lloyd Strain and Roy Meanor were playing near there. They had seen the gas burning out of the ground at that point before and concluded to light it again. They found the opening and the Strain boy knelt down with one knee across the slight crevice and lighted the match. He was instantly enveloped in the flame. The lad was wearing knee trousers and was in his bare feet. His feet and legs were the worst burned. His face and hands were also badly burned and his hair singed.

The boy ran to his home nearby and his father, Thomas Strain, hastily summoned Dr. Davis, who bathed the wounds in lime water and afterward dressed them in oil. This relieved the pain and the boy is resting easier today. His face and limbs are greatly swollen. The Meanor boy was not standing near enough to the crevice to receive any injury.

Given by the East End Daughters of Liberty.

The Daughters of Liberty held a very successful social and banquet in their hall on Mulberry street last evening.

A number of Senior Mechanics and Daughters of Liberty from the city proper were present, and the affair was a most enjoyable one.

The evening was passed at games and amusements until about 10:30, when the guests were treated to a sumptuous banquet. These socials are held frequently and are productive of much good in that they strengthen the fraternal feeling that inseparably links together these organizations whose objects are the same. The hall was handsomely decorated with bunting and lodge colors.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

A VARIETY OF TALES PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

Opinions And Observations of Interest As Noted By News Review Reporters.

Few men, indeed, have troubles such as Health Officer Burgess. Many of his experiences have found their way into print, but last evening the officer met with a circumstance which takes the lead in the long list of provoking situations with which he has been confronted.

A telephone message was received by "Uncle Jack" at the city hall from a woman in the West End, telling him that she was menaced by an abominable nuisance, and demanding that he give the matter his immediate attention.

Believing the case to be of an unusually pressing nature, Mr. Burgess immediately started for the West End and called on the woman. He explained his mission and asked where the nuisance was.

"Just come with me," the woman replied, "and I'll show you. It's just outrageous the way I have been pestered, and I don't want you to have any mercy on her."

The health officer began to get suspicious, but as the woman had then started off he reluctantly followed her. As they neared a small house, the female pointed to the place, exclaiming: "There's where she lives; now go for her!"

"What for?" asked the officer as he stopped in the road.

He was very much taken aback when informed that a colored woman who had lived in the dwelling alluded to had been staying up late of nights and playing an accordion which she had just purchased.

"Well, but where is the nuisance?" asked Mr. Burgess in tones of anguish. "I don't see anything wrong?" "You don't! Just like you; I have been told by my neighbors that you shirk your duty, and now I know it. That woman is the worst kind of a nuisance. She plays miserable music and it spoils my singing; my husband has quit playing his banjo, my children won't touch the melodeon, and

The health officer had vanished.

A laughable incident occurred at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets the other evening. A very fleshy man who had run from the First National bank building to catch the car, boarded it, and was standing on the step. The conductor requested him to go on the inside of the car and he replied that he would when he got his breath. The conductor again told him to go on the inside so as to make room, and as the rear platform was crowded the gentleman asked why he didn't put the others in the car. The conductor then told him to get in or get off the car, and he replied that he would get off when he got ready. The motor-man was called to assist the conductor in putting him off, but they were unable to do so. After they got tired and desisted in their efforts the gentleman stepped off the car and walked down Fifth street.

Rev. C. G. Jordan on Sunday read an announcement from the pulpit which caused mild surprise among his congregation. It was a notice that the funeral of a certain lady who died on Saturday would take place on Monday. Nothing strange or unusual in that. The strange part lies in the fact that lady mentioned died four years ago, on a Saturday, and that the funeral occurred on the Monday following. How the mistake occurred can readily be conjectured.

When Fred Martin returned from the Philippines he brought with him a small animal which is known as a mongrel. He presented it to the boys at the fire station and they have erected a cage for it and now have it on exhibition. At present it is about the size of a rat, but Martin says it will grow to be about three feet long and a foot high. He says the animals are very plentiful on the islands.

A good story is told on Frank Jackson, of this city, by his friends. Sunday evening he accompanied a lady friend to her home near Walker's. As he was leaving the house a bull dog overtook him and he was compelled to make fast time as far as Jethro bridge, where the dog gave up the chase.

A well-known colored man is now known as "Hi Kl." It is claimed that a traveling showman induced him to make up as the wild man from Mexico and exhibit himself in that guise. Several claim to have recognized him and are giving him the laugh.

EAST END

MEDDLED WITH GAS

AN EAST END LAD CAME NEAR BURNING TO DEATH.

Was Horribly Burned by Throwing a Lighted Match Up on a Leak.

Lloyd Strain, aged eight years, was almost fatally burned as a result of meddling with a leaking gas main yesterday afternoon. The skin and flesh hung in flakes from his legs and his face was seared almost to a crisp. He did not inhale any of the flame and it is thought he will recover.

The accident was caused by throwing a lighted match down an opening in the ground where there is a leaking main, near the corner of Mulberry street and Ohio avenue.

Lloyd Strain and Roy Meanor were playing near there. They had seen the gas burning out of the ground at that point before and concluded to light it again. They found the opening and the Strain boy knelt down with one knee across the slight crevice and lighted the match. He was instantly enveloped in the flame. The lad was wearing knee trousers and was in his bare feet. His feet and legs were the worst burned. His face and hands were also badly burned and his hair singed.

The boy ran to his home nearby and his father, Thomas Strain, hastily summoned Dr. Davis, who bathed the wounds in lime water and afterward dressed them in oil. This relieved the pain and the boy is resting easier today. His face and limbs are greatly swollen. The Meanor boy was not standing near enough to the crevice to receive any injury.

Given by the East End Daughters of Liberty.

The Daughters of Liberty held a very successful social and banquet in their hall on Mulberry street last evening.

A number of Senior Mechanics and Daughters of Liberty from the city proper were present, and the affair was a most enjoyable one.

The evening was passed at games and amusements until about 10:30, when the guests were treated to a sumptuous banquet. These socials are held frequently and are productive of much good in that they strengthen the fraternal feeling that inseparably links together these organizations whose objects are the same. The hall was handsomely decorated with bunting and lodge colors.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

A VARIETY OF TALES PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

Opinions And Observations of Interest As Noted By News Review Reporters.

Few men, indeed, have troubles such as Health Officer Burgess. Many of his experiences have found their way into print, but last evening the officer met with a circumstance which takes the lead in the long list of provoking situations with which he has been confronted.

A telephone message was received by "Uncle Jack" at the city hall from a woman in the West End, telling him that she was menaced by an abominable nuisance, and demanding that he give the matter his immediate attention.

Believing the case to be of an unusually pressing nature, Mr. Burgess immediately started for the West End and called on the woman. He explained his mission and asked where the nuisance was.

"Just come with me," the woman replied, "and I'll show you. It's just outrageous the way I have been pestered, and I don't want you to have any mercy on her."

The health officer began to get suspicious, but as the woman had then started off he reluctantly followed her. As they neared a small house, the female pointed to the place, exclaiming: "There's where she lives; now go for her!"

"What for?" asked the officer as he stopped in the road.

He was very much taken aback when informed that a colored woman who had lived in the dwelling alluded to had been staying up late of nights and playing an accordion which she had just purchased.

"Well, but where is the nuisance?" asked Mr. Burgess in tones of anguish. "I don't see anything wrong?"

"You don't! Just like you; I have been told by my neighbors that you shirk your duty, and now I know it. That woman is the worst kind of a nuisance. She plays miserable music and it spoils my singing; my husband has quit playing his banjo, my children won't touch the melodeon, and—"

The health officer had vanished.

A laughable incident occurred at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets the other evening. A very fleshy man who had run from the First National bank building to catch the car, boarded it, and was standing on the step. The conductor requested him to go on the inside of the car and he replied that he would when he got his breath. The conductor again told him to go on the inside so as to make room, and as the rear platform was crowded the gentleman asked why he didn't put the others in the car. The conductor then told him to get in or get off the car, and he replied that he would get off when he got ready. The motor-man was called to assist the conductor in putting him off, but they were unable to do so. After they got tired and desisted in their efforts the gentleman stepped off the car and walked down Fifth street.

Rev. C. G. Jordan on Sunday read an announcement from the pulpit which caused mild surprise among his congregation. It was a notice that the funeral of a certain lady who died on Saturday would take place on Monday. Nothing strange or unusual in that. The strange part lies in the fact that lady mentioned died four years ago, on a Saturday, and that the funeral occurred on the Monday following. How the mistake occurred can readily be conjectured.

When Fred Martin returned from the Philippines he brought with him a small animal which is known as a mongrel. He presented it to the boys at the fire station and they have erected a cage for it and now have it on exhibition. At present it is about the size of a rat, but Martin says it will grow to be about three feet long and a foot high. He says the animals are very plentiful on the islands.

A good story is told on Frank Jackson, of this city, by his friends. Sunday evening he accompanied a lady friend to her home near Walker's. As he was leaving the house a bull dog overtook him and he was compelled to make fast time as far as Jethro bridge, where the dog gave up the chase.

A well-known colored man is now known as "Hi Ki." It is claimed that a traveling showman induced him to make up as the wild man from Mexico and exhibit himself in that guise. Several claim to have recognized him and are giving him the laugh.

Tickets for the High School commencement exercises, to be held Friday evening, May 31, in the Opera House, will be on sale at Reed's drug store on and after Wednesday morning. The exercises open promptly at 8:15 p. m.

WELLSVILLE

Entered Into With Publishers By the Wellsville Board of Education.

At the meeting of the Wellsville board of education last evening a number of bills were ordered paid. The board decided on a list of books to be adopted and to enter into contracts with the companies publishing them to buy their books for five years. By this means a 25 per cent discount is secured. The advisability of establishing a book store in the school building was discussed. Several years ago this was tried and was not a success. The board decided not to try the experiment again.

In his report Prof. McDonald said there had been 1,250 pupils enrolled this year. There were 110 in the high school. During the month of April this fell to a total of 960, with 90 in the high school. In that month there were 14 cases of corporal punishment. The superintendent does not favor corporal punishment as a general thing. He says it marks weakness in the teacher.

The committee on building and repairs was ordered to employ some competent person to draw plans and estimates for reheating the Central school building. The board is now considering the matter of buying a piano. Miss Andrews' room will be closed after today on account of her sickness.

The commencement was then discussed. The price of admission will be 25 cents. There will be no reserved seats, except for members of the board.

After assigning $20 to the purchase of flowers for the vases in the school yards and signing the diplomas for the class of 1901 the board adjourned.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Mrs. Anna Gould went to Cleveland last evening.

J. S. Thompson and Miss Glenn were married last night by Justice Haney. The high school chorus had their first practice in the Christian church yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, who has been visiting here the past week, returned to her home in Cleveland yesterday.

That Low Animal, Man.

Instead of the highest, man is in some respects the lowest of the animal kingdom. Man is the most unchaste, the most drunken, the most egotistic, the most miserly, the most hypocritical and the most atrocious of living creatures. No animal, except man, kills for the mere sake of killing. For one being to take the life of another for purposes of selfish utility is bad enough, conscience knows, but the indiscriminate massacre of defenseless victims by armed and organized packs, just for pastime, is beyond characterization. The human species is the only species of animals that plunges to such depths of atrocity. Even vipers and hyenas do not kill for recreation.

No animal, except man, habitually seeks wealth purely out of an insane impulse to accumulate, and no animal, except man, gloats over accumulations that are of no possible use to him, that are an injury and an abomination and in whose acquisition he has committed irreparable crimes upon others. There are no millionaires—no professional, legalized, lifelong kleptomaniacs—among the birds and quadrupeds. No animal except man spends so large a part of his energies striving for superiority—not superiority in usefulness, but that superiority which consists in simply getting on the heads of one's fellows to crow—and no animal practices common, ordinary morality to the beings of the world in which he lives so little, compared with the amount he preaches it, as man.—Humane Review.

The Production of Caviare.

Two distinct varieties of caviare are manufactured in Russia—the granulated and the pressed forms. The granulated form is obtained by passing the fish roes under pressure through a fine meshed sieve. The small eggs pass intact, but the envelopes are retained in the sieve. To these pure salt is added in the proportion of one-twentieth or one-fortieth. It is intimately mixed with the eggs by means of a kind of wooden spoon. The caviare is then ready for consumption. It is packed in round metallic boxes of one and a half to five pounds and enveloped in parchment for transportation. The pressed caviare keeps better than the granulated form.

To obtain it the fresh caviare is treated with a solution of salt at 25 degrees Baume until the eggs acquire a certain degree of hardness. This operation requires considerable skill and experience. If allowed to stay in the solution too long, the caviare will be too salty, and if not long enough the eggs cannot be preserved. The caviare is then put into small sacks, which are pressed under a screw press to drive out the excess of salt. It is packed in barrels containing up to 1,000 pounds or left in the original sacks, which measure 8 by 20 inches. The average export of pressed caviare for the three years 1896 to 1898 has been more than 3,000 tons, representing a value of $1,400,000.—Scientific American.

Is not infrequently followed by a long, lenten period of enforced fasting and fleshly mortification. The cheek grows hollow, the eyes are dull and deep ringed, and the step is slow and languid. There is an "all dragged-out feeling," which makes life an utter burden.

The great functional changes which follow marriage are not usually anticipated, or the wifely suffering might be avoided.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best friend of weak and sickly women. It cures the womanly diseases that rob the eye of brightness and the step of lightness. It tones up the system and establishes the womanly organism on a basis of sound health.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotics. Accept no substitute. There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak and sickly women.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Gosh, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do my work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

Young married women will find a lasting friend in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. It contains 1008 pages and is sent free (in paper cover), on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Cloth binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Lord Russell's Dilemma.

Once, when he first came to London and was laying the foundation of his great career, says a London letter, the future Lord Chief Justice Russell went to the pit of a theater. The piece was popular, the pit was crowded and the young advocate had only standing room. All of a sudden a man at his side cried out that his watch was stolen. Mr. Russell and two other men were hemmed in.

"It is one of you three," cried the man minus the watch.

"Well, we had better go out and be searched," said Mr. Russell, with the alertness of mind that did not fail him at a trying moment amid an excited crowd. A detective was at hand, and the suggestion was accepted. As Mr. Russell walked out the idea flashed through his mind that if the man behind him had the stolen property he would probably try to secrete it in the pocket of his front rank man. Quick as thought he drew his coat tails about him—only to feel, to his horror, something large and smooth and round already in his pocket.

While he was still wondering what this might mean for him, the detective energetically seized the hindmost man, exclaiming: "What, you rascal! At it again!" To Mr. Russell and the other man he apologized and bade them go free.

But Mr. Russell, before he had taken many steps, reflected that he could not keep the watch. He went back to the box office and explained, with a courage on which he afterward said he rarely experienced greater demands, that though he did not take the watch he had it. So saying, he put his hand into his pocket and pulled out—a forgotten snuffbox.

The Panama Hat.

"The cheapest straw hat to buy," said a man who owns a beauty, "is, after all, a Panama, like this. Look here." He took down his big white hat, which was creased down the middle like a pair of trousers, and rolled it up tight; then he tossed it in the air. With a cracking sound it spread open and fluttered down to the floor in its original shape, deep center crease and all. "You could soak this hat for a week," he continued, "and iron it out flat afterward, but when you came to put it on again it would be just as you see it now."

"Women in Mexico and roundabout all that region make the hats, using straw that has been selected with more care than I could tell you of. The art has been handed down in their families from one generation to another, and it is a secret art, unknown to any other people in the world."

"These women, living so far away from everything, are ignorant of the fashions, and that is why the hats never change their ugly shape. If they were fashionably made, the demand for them would be enormous. As it is, hatters travel through all that country and buy them up at good prices."

"The perfect Panama hat costs at least $30, and if you should pay $50 for a big and unusually light one you would not be getting stuck."—Philadelphia Record.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. CONSTITUTION AND FLAG.

The decision of the supreme court on the status of the island of Porto Rico is a just and rational one, as well as one of the highest importance. It disposes at once and forever of a Democratic contention that the administration has acted or attempted to act unjustly or unwarrantably in regard to the government of our insular possessions, and at the same time it upholds the action of congress in framing laws adapted to the needs of the people of the islands. It would be a serious handicap and embarrassment to the nation if it were compelled to enact laws for the Philippines or Porto Rico, which, when passed, would likewise be in effect in the western territories of this country. In effect it sustains the position taken by leading Republican statesmen and lawyers that these new possessions are not a part of the United States, in the sense that the constitution extends to them, but they are what is described in that document as "territory belonging to the United States," and subject to the laws enacted by congress for the especial purpose of governing such territory.

Summarized briefly, the points of the several decisions are these: Porto Rico was foreign territory under the original military occupation. It became domestic by the cession provided by the treaty of Paris, but did not thereby become subject to American tariff duties. It became subject to tariff duties by an explicit act of congress. This is good law as well as good sense. It is in line with precedents, from Jefferson's day to the present time. Under it there will be no obstacle to the United States giving its insular possessions the right sort of laws to meet existing conditions and to help them in political, social, educational and industrial advancement.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER.

Buffalo has a society known as the Order of Don't Knock. "To knock" is a slang phrase equivalent to saying "to backbite," "to obstruct," "to make sport of" or "to utter loud and senseless objections." To be a knocker is to be an anti and a disagreeable person. There are knockers in every political party, in every social organization, and, we greatly fear, in every church. The object of the Buffalo society is to discourage and suppress the knocker and induce its members to live up to the golden rule.

The creed to which the members of the Order of Don't Knock subscribe is as broad as the mantle of charity and every paragraph of it contains a sermon. It declares the habit of "knocking" to be detestable, unbrotherly and uncharitable; that it ruins lives and makes many hearts miserable; that it is done thoughtlessly oftener than maliciously; that a simple little knock unthinkingly made often grows to be more cruel than a knife plunged into the vitals; that a persistent, deliberate knocker is as vile and as dangerous to the welfare of a community as a murderer.

There is plenty of missionary work ahead of the Order of Don't Knock, and if it lives up to its professions it ought to be useful to itself and to the world.

DEMOCRACY'S DICTATOR.

"This," says the Ohio State Journal, "will be John R. McLean's third assault upon the United States senate, and very likely his last. The legislature to be chosen in 1902 will have the election of the successor to Senator Hanna, but the chances are that if Mr. McLean falls down this time he will retire a poorer and a much wiser man. Beginning with today, there will be agents dispatched all over Ohio in the interest of the Washington gas millionaire. Their duties will be two-fold—to look after the platform declarations and see to the nomination and support of members of the general assembly who will vote for McLean for senator." The Democracy of Ohio professes to be afraid of bosses and plutocrats. Yet it is apparently willing to be led around by the nose by John R. McLean. And if there is a worse type of the plutocrat and the boss than this same McLean, it would be difficult to find him. What has become of the old-time spirit of Democracy, that the men belonging to the party are willing to have a man whose interests are mainly outside of Ohio and who has not resided in the state for years, dictating policies and platforms for them?

The Presbyterian general assembly has decided that the Presbyterian creed must be revised. Nine-tenths of the progressive churchmen of the country will probably agree that it has decided wisely.

The failure of Mary Elizabeth Lease is inexplicable. Had her husband failed everybody would have said that he could not attend to business and tend the baby at the same time.

Pittsburg has something to think about. And the fellows who are to be ousted from office by the ripper law are probably indulging in long, long thoughts.

CLEANINGS OF A DAY

THE LOCAL POTTERIES

President Hughes left last evening for Ford City, where he will remain for several days.

The official would not state the object of his visit, although it is understood he went in the interest of the new local soon to be formed in that place. A great deal of work will be necessary before the organization can be placed in working order.

The present force operating the plant are not at all familiar with the workings of labor organizations, and some plan will have to be adopted whereby they can be put through a course of training.

The applications for jobs from outside towns continue to pour into the office of Ford City as well as at Brotherhood headquarters here, and it is thought that by the time this new material is properly installed in the various departments of the pottery the work of organizing can be proceeded with.

Robert Sodaker, a saggermaker at the National plant, is receiving congratulations from the other employees on opening up the bathing season earlier than usual. Last evening while examining his trot line, the skiff tipped and he took a headlong dive before he hardly knew what had happened. He says the effect of the bath was very exhilarating and suggests that much good would result if the other employees would do likewise. They, however, seem to be content to have the laugh on Robert.

Charles F. Tribolet, a slipmaker at Knowles, Taylor & Knowles, received a telegram Sunday which announced the death of a sister at New Washington, O. He left yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral, the arrangements for which had not yet been made.

The East End pottery team and the motormen started to play the much-talked of game on the ground to the rear of the Laughlin No. 2 plant yesterday afternoon. The game was called off at the third inning on account of rain. The score stood 7 to 3 in favor of the pottery team.

A new kiln, to be erected at a cost of $2,500, is shortly to be installed at the plant of the Tatler Decorating company in Trenton. The kiln is to be of English manufacture and origin and is expected to effect a revolution in the firing of decorated ware.

M. Mills, who has been employed at the E. M. Knowles supply works, resigned his position Saturday, and left for Belleville, W. Va., where he will accept a position as brakeman on the railroad.

Miss Bessie Woods, who has been employed in the warehouse at the Dresden, resigned her position Saturday and left last night for her home at Spencer, Ind.

The French China company's new pottery at Sebring is progressing rapidly and is now ready for the roof. It will be completed by July 1, of no unfavorable conditions prevent.

J. W. Clark of Lincoln avenue, left this morning for Anderson, Ind., where he has been engaged to build two decorating kilns in the pottery at that town.

Herbert Smith, of Pleasant Heights, left for Ford City yesterday, where he has accepted a position as jiggerman with the Ford City China company.

William Baker has returned from Sebring where he has been employed for some time and has taken a position as dishmaker at the Buckeye.

John Brunt has returned from Findlay, O., where he was engaged as a presser. He will seek a position in this city.

Miss Florence Ribble, who has been employed at the pottery, has accepted a position as finisher at the Sevres plant.

Samuel Hayes has moved his family to this city. Mr. Hayes will take a dish bench at the China works.

W. A. Rhodes has returned from an eastern trip in the interests of Knowles, Taylor & Knowles.

Horace Ross, of Wheeling, has taken a position as kilnhand at the Chetwynd pottery.

S. O. Fox, of Findlay, was looking for a position at the East End potteries yesterday.

NOTICE TO POTTERS.

On and after July 1 we wish to conduct a strictly union Brotherhood factory at Western Uniform scale of wages; we will want journeymen jiggermen, pressers, dippers, kilnhands printers, saggermakers, packers and coopers; we will also need experienced fillers-in, gilders, decalcomania works, etc.; we, therefore, prefer married men for the above situations who have girls or boys that are accustomed to working at any of the above branches throughout the pottery; we can give steady work and desire only people steady in their habits. Send all applications direct to Ford China Co., Ford City, Pa., and for any additional information apply to A. S. Hughes or T. J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, O. 292-s

GREAT BUSINESS

Being Done By the Towboats on the Ohio River on the Present High Water.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke company, of Pittsburgh, took advantage of the water early yesterday and started 10 towboats south with tows of coal. The towboats departing with tows were as follows: Dave Wood, 15 coalboats, 2 barges of iron; Dick Fulton, 21 coalboats, 1 barge of iron and 5 of coal; Belle McGowan, 10 coalboats; Horner, 10 coalboats; Fred Wilson, 11 coalboats, 3 barges of iron and 4 of coal; Ed Roberts, 11 coalboats, 3 barges of iron and 4 of coal; Valiant, 12 coalboats, 2 barges of iron, 2 of coal; Acorn, 10 coalboats; Clifton, 8 boats, 2 barges; Nellie Walton, 10 coalboats. A total of 108 coalboats, 21 barges and 11 of manufactured products constituted the day's shipment. The run of coal yesterday approximated about 3,000,000 bushels. The coal combination will send 225 coalboats before Saturday. The company expects to have shipped 7,000,000 bushels by Saturday.

The following boats passed this city yesterday and today: Down—Acorn, Fred Wilson, Charley Hook, Tom Dodsworth, Charley Clarke, Horner and Dave Wood. Up—Volunteer.

The Keystone State and Ben Hur passed down last night and the Queen City will go up and Kanawha down tonight.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 20 feet and rising very slow, but it is thought there is no more water to come.

The Peoples Coal company has let a contract to Edward Howard, of Jeffersonville, Ind., for the construction of a towboat. It will be about the same size as the Tornado and will be equipped with engines having 17½-inch cylinders and a 6-foot stroke. It is said that the same company has specifications out for two more towboats. One of the boats will be about the same size and power as the Joseph B. Williams. The company now owns or controls the W. C. Jutte, R. L. Aubrey, Two Brothers and Ford City. The company is opening extensive coal properties in the fourth pool and has some in operation.

His Employer Settled.

Constable William H. Campbell, of Steubenville, was here yesterday and arrested Lewis Forbush, colored, on the charge of jumping a board bill. Forbush's employer settled.

There is plenty of missionary work ahead of the Order of Don't Knock, and if it lives up to its professions it ought to be useful to itself and to the world.

DEMOCRACY'S DICTATOR.

"This," says the Ohio State Journal, "will be John R. McLean's third assault upon the United States senate, and very likely his last. The legislature to be chosen in 1902 will have the election of the successor to Senator Hanna, but the chances are that if Mr. McLean falls down this time he will retire a poorer and a much wiser man. Beginning with today, there will be agents dispatched all over Ohio in the interest of the Washington gas millionaire. Their duties will be two-fold—to look after the platform declarations and see to the nomination and support of members of the general assembly who will vote for McLean for senator." The Democracy of Ohio professes to be afraid of bosses and plutocrats. Yet it is apparently willing to be led around by the nose by John R. McLean. And if there is a worse type of the plutocrat and the boss than this same McLean, it would be difficult to find him. What has become of the old-time spirit of Democracy, that the men belonging to the party are willing to have a man whose interests are mainly outside of Ohio and who has not resided in the state for years, dictating policies and platforms for them?

The Presbyterian general assembly has decided that the Presbyterian creed must be revised. Nine-tenths of the progressive churchmen of the country will probably agree that it has decided wisely.

The failure of Mary Elizabeth Lease is inexplorable. Had her husband failed everybody would have said that he could not attend to business and tend the baby at the same time.

Pittsburg has something to think about. And the fellows who are to be ousted from office by the ripper law are probably indulging in long, long thoughts.

GLEANINGS OF A DAY

President Hughes left last evening for Ford City, where he will remain for several days.

The official would not state the object of his visit, although it is understood he went in the interest of the new local soon to be formed in that place. A great deal of work will be necessary before the organization can be placed in working order.

The present force operating the plant are not at all familiar with the workings of labor organizations, and some plan will have to be adopted whereby they can be put through a course of training.

The applications for jobs from outside towns continue to pour into the office of Ford City as well as at Brotherhood headquarters here, and it is thought that by the time this new material is properly installed in the various departments of the pottery the work of organizing can be proceeded with.

Robert Sodaker, a saggermaker at the National plant, is receiving congratulations from the other employees on opening up the bathing season earlier than usual. Last evening while examining his trot line, the skiff tipped and he took a headlong dive before he hardly knew what had happened. He says the effect of the bath was very exhilarating and suggests that much good would result if the other employees would do likewise. They, however, seem to be content to have the laugh on Robert.

Charles F. Tribolet, a slipmaker at Knowles, Taylor & Knowles, received a telegram Sunday which announced the death of a sister at New Washington, O. He left yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral, the arrangements for which had not yet been made.

The East End pottery team and the motormen started to play the much-talked of game on the ground to the rear of the Laughlin No. 2 plant yesterday afternoon. The game was called off at the third inning on account of rain. The score stood 7 to 3 in favor of the pottery team.

A new kiln, to be erected at a cost of $2,500, is shortly to be installed at the plant of the Tatler Decorating company in Trenton. The kiln is to be of English manufacture and origin and is expected to effect a revolution in the firing of decorated ware.

M. Mills, who has been employed at the E. M. Knowles supply works, resigned his position Saturday, and left for Belleville, W. Va., where he will accept a position as brakeman on the railroad.

Miss Bessie Woods, who has been employed in the warehouse at the Dresden, resigned her position Saturday and left last night for her home at Spencer, Ind.

The French China company's new pottery at Sebring is progressing rapidly and is now ready for the roof. It will be completed by July 1, of no unfavorable conditions prevent.

J. W. Clark, of Lincoln avenue, left this morning for Anderson, Ind., where he has been engaged to build two decorating kilns in the pottery at that town.

Herbert Smith, of Pleasant Heights, left for Ford City yesterday, where he has accepted a position as jiggerman with the Ford City China company.

William Baker has returned from Sebring where he has been employed for some time and has taken a position as dishmaker at the Buckeye.

John Brunt has returned from Findlay, O., where he was engaged as a presser. He will seek a position in this city.

Miss Florence Ribble, who has been employed at the pottery, has accepted a position as finisher at the Severs plant.

Samuel Hayes has moved his family to this city. Mr. Hayes will take a dish bench at the China works.

W. A. Rhodes has returned from an eastern trip in the interests of Knowles, Taylor & Knowles.

Horace Ross, of Wheeling, has taken a position as kilnhand at the Chetwynd pottery.

S. O. Fox, of Findlay, was looking for a position at the East End potteries yesterday.

NOTICE TO POTTERS.

On and after July 1 we wish to conduct a strictly union Brotherhood factory at Western Uniform scale of wages; we will want journeymen jiggermen, pressers, dippers, kilnhands, printers, saggermakers, packers and coopers; we will also need experienced fillers-in, gilders, decalcomania works, etc.; we, therefore, prefer married men for the above situations who have girls or boys that are accustomed to working at any of the above branches throughout the pottery; we can give steady work and desire only people steady in their habits. Send all applications direct to Ford China Co., Ford City, Pa., and for any additional information apply to A. S. Hughes or T. J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, O. 292-s

GREAT BUSINESS

Being Done By the Towboats on the Ohio River on the Present High Water.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke company, of Pittsburgh, took advantage of the water early yesterday and started 10 towboats south with tows of coal. The towboats departing with tows were as follows: Dave Wood, 15 coalboats, 2 barges of iron; Dick Fulton, 21 coalboats, 1 barge of iron and 5 of coal; Belle McGowan, 10 coalboats; Hornet, 10 coalboats; Fred Wilson, 11 coalboats, 3 barges of iron and 4 of coal; Ed Roberts, 11 coalboats, 3 barges of iron and 4 of coal; Valiant, 12 coalboats, 2 barges of iron, 2 of coal; Acorn, 10 coalboats; Clifton, 8 boats, 2 barges; Nellie Walton, 10 coalboats. A total of 108 coalboats, 21 barges and 11 of manufactured products constituted the day's shipment. The run of coal yesterday approximated about 3,000,000 bushels. The coal combination will send 225 coalboats before Saturday. The company expects to have shipped 7,000,000 bushels by Saturday.

The following boats passed this city yesterday and today: Down—Acorn, Fred Wilson, Charley Hook, Tom Dodsworth, Charley Clarke, Hornet and Dave Wood. Up—Volunteer.

The Keystone State and Ben Hur passed down last night and the Queen City will go up and Kanawha down tonight.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 20 feet and rising very slow, but it is thought there is no more water to come.

The Peoples Coal company has let a contract to Edward Howard, of Jeffersonville, Ind., for the construction of a towboat. It will be about the same size as the Tornado and will be equipped with engines having 17½-inch cylinders and a 6-foot stroke. It is said that the same company has specifications out for two more towboats. One of the boats will be about the same size and power as the Joseph B. Williams. The company now owns or controls the W. C. Jutte, R. L. Aubrey, Two Brothers and Ford City. The company is opening extensive coal properties in the fourth pool and has some in operation.

CONSTITUTION AND FLAG.

The decision of the supreme court on the status of the island of Porto Rico is a just and rational one, as well as one of the highest importance. It disposes at once and forever of a Democratic contention that the administration has acted or attempted to act unjustly or unwarrantably in regard to the government of our insular possessions, and at the same time it upholds the action of congress in framing laws adapted to the needs of the people of the islands. It would be a serious handicap and embarrassment to the nation if it were compelled to enact laws for the Philippines or Porto Rico, which, when passed, would likewise be in effect in the western territories of this country. In effect it sustains the position taken by leading Republican statesmen and lawyers that these new possessions are not a part of the United States, in the sense that the constitution extends to them, but they are what is described in that document as "territory belonging to the United States," and subject to the laws enacted by congress for the especial purpose of governing such territory.

Summarized briefly, the points of the several decisions are these: Porto Rico was foreign territory under the original military occupation. It became domestic by the cession provided by the treaty of Paris, but did not thereby become subject to American tariff duties. It became subject to tariff duties by an explicit act of congress. This is good law as well as good sense. It is in line with precedents, from Jefferson's day to the present time. Under it there will be no obstacle to the United States giving its insular possessions the right sort of laws to meet existing conditions and to help them in political, social, educational and industrial advancement.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER.

Buffalo has a society known as the Order of Don't Knock. "To knock" is a slang phrase equivalent to saying "to backbite," "to obstruct," "to make sport of" or "to utter loud and senseless objections." To be a knocker is to be an anti and a disagreeable person. There are knockers in every political party, in every social organization, and, we greatly fear, in every church. The object of the Buffalo society is to discourage and suppress the knocker and induce its members to live up to the golden rule.

The creed to which the members of the Order of Don't Knock subscribe is as broad as the mantle of charity and every paragraph of it contains a sermon. It declares the habit of "knocking" to be detestable, unbrotherly and uncharitable; that it ruins lives and makes many hearts miserable; that it is done thoughtlessly oftener than maliciously; that a simple little knock unthinkingly made often grows to be more cruel than a knife plunged into the vitals; that a persistent, deliberate knocker is as vile and as dangerous to the welfare of a community as a murderer.

There is plenty of missionary work ahead of the Order of Don't Knock, and if it lives up to its professions it ought to be useful to itself and to the world.

comfortably fixed than another storm came on. I thought a cloud had burst. Thunder was loudly rolling and lightning vividly flashing. Twelve cows of the creek from our camp, were killed by lightning. I saw six of them killed. These terrible storms that we so dread passed off without doing so much damage.

The farther north we go the land seems to grow richer. In North Dakota they raise grass and wheat; in the south, cotton; Ohio, crockery and presidents, but here is a territory where the three great kings of commerce thrive—wheat, corn and cotton growing in adjacent fields, and the grazing facilities are simply unbounded. It is near the markets, and the points of distribution are convenient. These conditions mean that destiny, money, time and brains will develop the land. Congress will learn that there are men here in this nation that have thousands of acres fenced in that have no right to one inch of land, and there are many full bloods that have not land on which to build themselves a home. I know one white intruder with 10,000 acres of land fenced, who has 41 indictments against him for wrongful possession. He is smuggling the land off the renters. It is a misdeed to rent lands from people who are not citizens, and if the Curtis act is rigidly enforced—and I have reason to believe it will be—the census of the Ohio "pen" will be increased.

Many white people have acquired possession of land by the delectable method of love and marriage. White men marrying women of Cherokee blood are recognized as citizens by Cherokee tribal laws. Since the Curtis act became a law a man enjoys citizenship who marries a Cherokee woman, but is debarred allotment of land.

We go six miles north of Nowata, then cross over six miles east, thence north to the Kansas line. Extend greetings to friends. More anon.

MAY REACH THIS CITY

PROSPECT OF A GREAT STREET RAILWAY LINE.

A Toronto Correspondent Has It All Built on Paper From Wheeling to East Liverpool.

According to a Toronto dispatch it now looks as though the final gap of 12 miles of street railway that would connect East Liverpool with Wheeling and Bellaire will be built this summer. The contract was let last Wednesday for building the railway between Toronto and Steubenville.

The Toronto franchise will be sold to the lowest bidder, according to Ohio law, today. The Steubenville-Toronto company did not think there would be other bids, but now other companies are in town to bid on the franchise, as it covers the best route through the city.

It has been a wonder to many why another company would want a Toronto city franchise, when the Steubenville-Toronto company is actually at work building a line, but it now develops that the company wants the franchise to build a line north 12 miles to connect with the Wellsville line that is to reach to Smith's Ferry, a distance of 10 or 12 miles.

If the new company underbids the Steubenville-Toronto company it will not abandon that line, but will be compelled to secure a new route through Toronto, and Toronto will probably have two independent companies reaching both ways. The territory at Toronto is so eagerly sought for for the reason that there is only one railroad running into the city. Developments are being eagerly awaited.

Dog Shot on Second Street Thursday Night Causes the Officers Trouble.

Several policemen made another attempt last night to find the dog which was shot and terribly wounded on Second street Thursday night, but which is still alive. They were unsuccessful and the dog is still at large.

The dog was seen by several persons early last evening, and although the officers searched the entire neighborhood with lanterns soon after, its whereabouts were not learned. The owner of the animal is not known.

Presidential Party May Reach Washington Thursday—Mrs. McKinley Enjoying Trip.

Julesburg, Col., May 28.—The presidential train made the third day's run on the homeward journey without incident. Mrs. McKinley is standing the trip very well and seems rejoiced that every hour brings her nearer home. The weather has been exceedingly pleasant and that means much for her comfort. Arrangements for running the president's train from Chicago to Washington were completed. The train may arrive at the national capital Thursday morning.

BY UNANIMOUS VOTE.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON REVISION ADOPTED.

Moderator Minton Gave Thanks and Whole Assembly Sang Long Meter Doxology.

Philadelphia, May 28.—The unanimous vote of the Presbyterian general assembly adopted the report of the special committee on the revision of the confession of faith. The debate on this important question had extended into the fourth day, and to Rev. Dr. James Moffatt is due the credit of having brought the commissioners to such a harmonious conclusion. When the recommendation was on Saturday adopted by a comparatively small majority, Rev. Moffatt announced that in view of the divergence of opinion he would Monday offer an amendment which he hoped would meet with the approval of the entire assembly. When he presented this amendment Monday it was instantly accepted by the commissioners, and the adoption of the report as a whole followed with but little delay.

A viva voce vote was taken, and when 640 ayes responded to the question the commissioners arose and sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," which was followed by a prayer of thanksgiving by Moderator Minton.

The momentous question of creed revision having been disposed of, the assembly proceeded to the consideration of unfinished business. The report of the special committee on judicial commissions was first in order and was adopted after a brief discussion. This report recommends the establishment of a permanent judicial committee, to which shall be referred all judicial cases which he general assembly does not elect to try before the whole body. There will be no appeal from the decisions of this committee.

During the afternoon session reports of various special committees were considered and adopted, among them a supplemental report of the committee on theological seminaries, which recommended the consideration of the Louisville and Danville seminaries.

New York was selected as the meeting place for the next general assembly.

In commenting on the action of the assembly on the question of revision, Moderator Minton said:

"The discussion has developed and displayed far more clearly the agreement of the whole assembly upon the question of revision than any division or discord. The decision reached is a victory for no one, but for all."

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey, chairman of the committee on revision, said:

"The church may expect peace and progress during the coming years. The action of the assembly manifested mutual confidence. Without dissent the assembly determined to go forward and distinctly marked out the way for the forward movement."

By a majority of 37, the vote standing 271 to 234, the assembly on Saturday refused to make a single elimination from the report of the committee on revision.

The contest was one of the conservative against the more or less radical revisionists to effect the striking out of "Recommendation B" of the majority report, which provides for a summary of the confession, which summary, the conservatives maintain, might assume the complexion of the new creed.

THE MARKET WAS DULL

Less Business Monday Than Any Day Since the Presidential Election.

New York, May 28.—Monday's business in the stock market was the smallest for any full day since the presidential election. In the general run of stocks professional traders made futile attempts to force a movement of prices, but in covering their contracts the movement was undone again. There was a slight hardening of prices early in sympathy with the movement in the tobacco and then a period of pretty general weakness. The fact that there was a general hardening again before the close showed clearly that this weakness was largely due to selling by the bears. The movement in the tobacco stocks was the only thing worthy of special notice in the day's trading. It was unexplained except by the persistence of recently current rumors of a consolidation of all the tobacco interests. The movement came to a halt and suffered some reaction on the first announcement of the supreme court's decision in the Porto Rico cases, owing to the confusion and doubt as to the scope and bearing of the decisions. Continental Tobacco, however, held stubbornly and rose to the highest in the dealings, closing at the top 5 1/2 points over Saturday. American Tobacco's net gain was 3 3/4. The weakness of Sugar was perhaps the effect of the decision, although the trouble with the importers of refined sugar has affected the stock. Lackawanna moved up conspicuously 8 points after an opening reaction. There was, besides, a gain in Twin City Rapid Transit of 4 1/4, North American 4, Laclede Gas 3, Minneapolis and St. Louis 2, Standard Rope and Twine 1 3/4, and United States Leather 1. A amalgamated Copper was under some pressure and fell at one time 2 3/4. Late in the day there were two transactions of 100 shares each in Northern Pacific at 180, compared with 200 on Saturday. The failure to relax the close holding of this stock on the part of any of the interests concerned keeps alive apprehension respecting the Northern Pacific situation.

The money market showed increasing ease, and it is the general expectation that further gold will go out to France this week.

There was a small business in bonds, with an irregular movement of prices. Total sales, par value, $2,200,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

A Preacher With a Great Congregation.

One of the most widely known of the popular preachers of the day is Rev. George H. Hepworth, whose parish embraces the great constituencies of the Sunday Chicago Record-Herald and the Sunday New York Herald. A simple religion is that of this eminent clerical writer who preaches every Sunday to a congregation vastly greater than any ever accommodated in any temple of worship. Downright earnestness and sincerity, and a spirit of the broadest tolerance characterize this famous newspaper preacher. Read his editorial sermons in the Sunday issues of the Chicago Record-Herald and judge for yourself.

In the general run of stocks professional traders made futile attempts to force a movement of prices, but in covering their contracts the movement was undone again. There was a slight hardening of prices early in sympathy with the movement in the tobaccos and then a period of pretty general weakness.

The fact that there was a general hardening again before the close showed clearly that this weakness was largely due to selling by the bears. The movement in the tobacco stocks was the only thing worthy of special notice in the day's trading.

It was unexplained except by the persistence of recently current rumors of a consolidation of all the tobacco interests. The movement came to a halt and suffered some reaction on the first announcement of the supreme court's decision in the Porto Rico cases, owing to the confusion and doubt as to the scope and bearing of the decisions. Continental Tobacco, however, held stubbornly and rose to the highest in the dealings.

Closing at the top 5 1/2 points over Saturday, American Tobacco's sugar was perhaps the effect of the decision, although the trouble with the importers of refined sugar has affected the stock. Lackawanna moved up conspicuously 8 points after an opening reaction. There was, besides, a gain in Twin City Rapid Transit of 4 1/2, North American 4, Laclede Gas 3, Minneapolis and St. Louis 2, Standard Rope and Twine, 1 1/2, and United States Leather 1. A amalgamated Copper was under some pressure and fell at one time 2 1/2. Late in the day there were two transactions of 100 shares each in Northern Pacific at 180, compared with 200 on Saturday. The failure to relax the close holding of this stock on the part of any of the interests concerned keeps alive apprehension respecting the Northern Pacific situation.

The money market showed increasing ease, and it is the general expectation that further gold will go out to France this week.

There was a small business in bonds, with an irregular movement of prices. Total sales, par value, $2,200,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

A Preacher With a Great Congregation.

One of the most widely known of the popular preachers of the day is Rev. George H. Hepworth, whose parish embraces the great constituencies of the Sunday Chicago Record-Herald and the Sunday New York Herald. A simple religion is that of this eminent clerical writer who preaches every Sunday to a congregation vastly greater than any ever accommodated in any temple of worship. Downright earnestness and sincerity, and a spirit of the broadest tolerance characterize this famous newspaper preacher. Read his editorial sermons in the Sunday issues of the Chicago Record-Herald and judge for yourself.

OSAGE COUNTRY

comfortably fixed than another storm came on. I thought a cloud had burst. Thunder was loudly rolling and lightning vividly flashing. Twelve cows of the creek from our camp, were killed by lightning. I saw six of them killed. These terrible storms that we so dread passed off without doing so much damage.

The farther north we go the land seems to grow richer. In North Dakota they raise grass and wheat; in the south, cotton; Ohio, crockery and presidents, but here is a territory where the three great kings of commerce thrive—wheat, corn and cotton growing in adjacent fields, and the grazing facilities are simply unbounded. It is near the markets, and the points of distribution are convenient. These conditions mean that destiny, money, time and brains will develop here. Congress will learn that there are men here in this nation that have thousands of acres fenced in that have no right to one inch of land, and here are many full bloods that have of land on which to build themselves a home. I know one white intruder with 10,000 acres of land fenced, who as 41 indictments against him for wrongful possession. He is smuggling the land off the renters. It is a misdemeanor to rent lands from people who are not citizens, and if the Curtis is rigidly enforced—and I have reason to believe it will be—the census of the Ohio "pen" will be increased.

Many white people have acquired possession of land by the delightful method of love and marriage. White men marrying women of Cherokee and are recognized as citizens by Cherokee tribal laws. Since the Curtis act became a law a man enjoys citizenship who marries a Cherokee woman, but is debarred allotment of land.

We go six miles north of Nowata, then cross over six miles east, thence north to the Kansas line. Extend settings to friends. More anon.

Yours Truly,

W. V. BLAKE.

SPECT OF A GREAT STREET RAILWAY LINE.

Toronto Correspondent Has It All Built on Paper From Wheeling to East Liverpool.

According to a Toronto dispatch it looks as though the final gap of miles of street railway that would meet East Liverpool with Wheeling, Bellaire will be built this summer. The contract was let last Wednesday for building the railway between Toronto and Steubenville. The Toronto franchise will be sold at the lowest bidder, according to a law, today. The Steubenville company did not think there would be other bids, but now other companies are in town to bid on the franchise, as it covers the best route through the city.

There has been a wonder to many why the company would want a Toronto franchise, when the Steubenville-Toronto company is actually working building a line, but it now develops that the company wants the franchise to build a line north 12 miles to connect with the Wellsville line and to reach to Smith's Ferry, a distance of 10 or 12 miles.

The new company underbids the Steubenville-Toronto company it will abandon that line, but will be connected to secure a new route through the city, and Toronto will probably connect with the Wellsville line by two independent companies running both ways. The territory at issue is so eagerly sought for for reason that there is only one railroad running into the city. Developers are being eagerly awaited.

CHEERED BY COWBOYS

Presidential Party May Reach Washington Thursday—Mrs. McKinley Enjoying Trip.

Julesburg, Col., May 28.—The presidential train made the third day's run on the homeward journey without incident. There were crowds at every station along the route and each cattle ranch had its little group of cowboys sitting bolt upright on their horses and waving their sombreros as the train went by.

Mrs. McKinley is standing the trip very well and seems rejoiced that every hour brings her nearer home. The weather has been exceedingly pleasant and that means much for her comfort. Arrangements for running the president's train from Chicago to Washington were completed. The train may arrive at the national capital Thursday morning.

BY UNANIMOUS VOTE.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON REVISION ADOPTED.

Moderator Minton Gave Thanks and Whole Assembly Sang Long Meter Doxology.

Philadelphia, May 28.—The unanimous vote of the Presbyterian general assembly adopted the report of the special committee on the revision of the confession of faith. The debate on this important question had extended into the fourth day, and to Rev. Dr. James Moffatt is due the credit of having brought the commissioners to such a harmonious conclusion. When the recommendation was on Saturday adopted by a comparatively small majority, Rev. Moffatt announced that in view of the divergence of opinion he would Monday offer an amendment which he hoped would meet with the approval of the entire assembly. When he presented this amendment Monday it was instantly accepted by the commissioners, and the adoption of the report as a whole followed with but little delay.

A viva voce vote was taken, and when 640 ayes responded to the question the commissioners arose and sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," which was followed by a prayer of thanksgiving by Moderator Minton.

The momentous question of creed revision having been disposed of, the assembly proceeded to the consideration of unfinished business. The report of the special committee on judicial commissions was first in order and was adopted after a brief discussion. This report recommends the establishment of a permanent judicial committee, to which shall be referred all judicial cases which he general assembly does not elect to try before the whole body. There will be no appeal from the decisions of this committee.

During the afternoon session reports of various special committees were considered and adopted, among them a supplemental report of the committee on theological seminaries, which recommended the consideration of the Louisville and Danville seminaries.

New York was selected as the meeting place for the next general assembly.

In commenting on the action of the assembly on the question of revision, Moderator Minton said:

"The discussion has developed and displayed far more clearly the agreement of the whole assembly upon the question of revision than any division or discord. The decision reached is a victory for no one, but for all."

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey, chairman of the committee on revision, said:

"The church may expect peace and progress during the coming years. The action of the assembly manifested mutual confidence. Without dissent the assembly determined to go forward and distinctly marked out the way for the forward movement."

By a majority of 37, the vote standing 271 to 234, the assembly on Saturday refused to make a single elimination from the report of the committee on revision.

The contest was one of the conservative against the more or less radical revisionists to effect the striking out of "Recommendation B" of the majority report, which provides for a summary of the confession, which summary, the conservatives maintain, might assume the complexion of the new creed.

TWENTY-ONE DEAD.

Explosion of Coal Dust In a Tennessee Mine Fearfully Destructive.

NINE ARE FATALY BURNED

Four Men Escaped With Slight Injuries—Most of the Dead Men Were Married and Had Families—Sorrowful Scenes.

Dayton, Tenn., May 28.—At the Richland mine of the Dayton Coal and Iron company, about two miles from Dayton, a terrific explosion of coal dust resulted in the death of 21 men, all while, and most of them married and with families.

The injured: William Burchene, Sr., William Burchene, Jr., Bob Walker, Rev. F. M. Cook, Rev. William Hale, Bart Hale, Arthur Decker, Ed Craig and J. T. Burfick.

The explosion was caused by what is known among miners as a "blown blast." It is the custom of the miners to place blasts and fire them off at quitting time each afternoon, leaving the coal thus thrown down to be loaded and hauled from the mine next morning. The Richmond mine is destitute of water and great volumes of fine particles of coal dust, invisible to the naked eye, accumulate. This will explode if exposed to flames. A dynamite cartridge was placed in position for a blast and the miners started for the mouth of the mine. The blast did not explode as expected, and instead a long flame shot out of the blast hole and ignited the accumulation of dust. Instantly a terrific explosion occurred and a seething mass of flames shot to the mouth of the mine and extended about 300 feet into the open air, scorching the leaves of nearby trees. Thirty-four men were in the mine at the time. Four of these escaped with slight injury. Twenty-one were killed and nine were fatally burned, most of them fatally. The force of the explosion caused great masses of coal and slate to cave in from the roof of the mine and many fated miners were completely buried.

Word quickly reached Dayton and rescue forces were at once organized and proceeded to the mine. One by one the blackened and horribly disfigured bodies were taken from the debris and carried to the mouth of the mine, whence they were taken to Dayton. Scores of relatives and friends gathered at the mouth of the mine and the shrieks of anguish as the bodies were removed were heart-rending.

Irish Lacemaking.

After the famine of 1847 lacemaking was revived in Ireland. Limerick, the most successful Irish lace, is not really a lace at all. It is tambour work upon net and muslin.

The Irish point, so called, is the ancient cut work, being made in quite the same way.

Net was first made by machinery in 1768. The machine was an adaptation of the stocking loom to lacemaking and was cumbersome and not very effective. In 1809 John Heathcote, a farmer's son, evolved from consciousness and experience the first machine to make true bobbinet with perfect six sided holes. It brought a great hue and cry about his ears from lacemakers, who fancied they saw themselves thus reduced to beggary.

The Luddites broke into the factory where the machines were first set up and made scrap iron and kindling wood of them. The only result was to drive the new manufacture to other and safer quarters. For long the secret of the machine's construction was most jealously guarded by English manufacturers. Not satisfied with letters patent they kept up a coast patrol to make sure that nobody took model or drawings to France.

At last, though, they were outwitted. A discharged workman who had the plan of it in his mind managed to get safe over sea and build a machine in France.

Sort of a Cannibal.

An old farmer for many years got his dinner on market days at a small hotel kept by a widow.

She had long suspected that he ate more than the price (18. 6d.) warranted, so she determined to test him. She accordingly arranged matters so that there was no room for him at table, but she took him into a private room the table of which was graced by a steaming leg of mutton. He set to in good earnest, and soon nothing was left but the bones.

Highly delighted with his cheap feed, on passing the bar he tendered 2 shillings for his dinner and a quart of ale. The widow declined to take any payment on the ground of having inconvenienced him so much.

Chuckling to himself, the farmer lifted down his market basket from a hook, and, finding it rather light, he tore off the covering and shouted:

"Here, Mrs. Brown, where's my leg o' mutton?"

"Why, ye old silly," said the widow, "ye have ate your leg for your dinner!"—London Answers.

Fourteen Deaths by Flood.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 28.—The Tennessee river reached the height of 35 feet at this place Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock and was slowly falling. Its tributaries in upper East Tennessee had rapidly receded. The loss of life thus far reported from all portions of the flooded district aggregates 14, but there may be more.

THE PURSUIT OF A SONG

By FRANCIS LIVINGSTON

singing. Bring it to me, and I will give you this." And I showed her a bill.

The woman eyed me with no friendly gaze. "Phwat's that you're after sayin'?" she asked grimly.

I repeated the words impatiently. The woman opened the iron door.

"Step inside," she said.

The instant I was within she closed the door and set her back against it.

"Mike," she called, "come here!"

A heavy, blue coated figure appeared from the inner regions.

"I'd loike you to clap your eyes on this gent." The woman held me tightly by the coat sleeve. "It's wan of them burglars as was here last week, I'm sure," she went on, "tryin to bribe me wid his dirty money to leave me post an go up stairs on a fool's errand."

"What do you want here?" asked the bluecoat fiercely.

I scarcely heard what he said. The singer was in the second part, approaching the change. "La, ra, ra, rummy." I accompanied, beating time with my finger. "Now it goes back into lah lah. Isn't it beautiful?"

"I think he's dopy," said the policeman.

"Deed an he isn't thin; he knows well enough what he's about. Watch him, Mike, 'at he don't make a break."

"Didn't your young miss see wan of them in the dinin room?"

"Yes, an bad he frightened her; a well dressed chap he was, too, Miss Lucy said. Belike this is the very wan."

Both the cook and the policeman now held me fast by either arm.

"Now, me man," said the bluecoat, "up stairs wid ye, an don't ye try any funny business, either."

This was more than I had dared hope for. But at the foot of the stairs I had a fright. The singer had finished my song and immediately began another, something that sounded like an Italian aria. Perhaps she could not understand me, and I would have to go through with the Potro primo business again.

"Does your mistress speak English?" I asked, hurrying my steps.

"Deed she does, thin, as you'll soon find out," said the cook.

In the upper hall as we approached the drawing room door she began to speak: "Miss Lucy, don't be frightened, ma'am. We've got a foine bird here, me an me cousin Mike. We think it's wan of them burglars."

We stood in the doorway, I fast pinned between the angry cook and the big policeman. The song broke off short. A beautiful young woman started up from the piano with a little cry:

"Burglars! Honora, what do you mean?"

At sight of me she gave a start and leaned against the piano, very pale.

"Will you just take a look at him, miss, an see if it is the wan? I caught him at the area gate just now, an he had the face to try to bribe me to go up stairs an ax you the name of the song you was singin. Fort'nitly me cousin Mike, ma'am, bein off post, had just dropped in for a cup of tay, an together we overpowered him, ma'am."

"How very strange!" murmured the young lady, but her color was returning.

I bowed and said with such dignity as I could command:

"I deeply regret, mademoiselle, to have startled you. Will you hear me a moment? For weeks I have sought vainly a beautiful song I once heard, I

"BRING IT TO ME, AND I WILL GIVE YOU THIS."

had visited theaters, concert halls, music stores—everywhere I might possibly hear it again—but, alas, I could not find it. Tonight, as I was passing your house, it fell upon my ears. You were singing it. I could not miss the chance. I sought entrance to your house and have been arrested, as you see. Only tell me the name of that heavenly melody and where I can procure it, and I will go peacefully to my prison cell nor think the price paid a dear one."

The young lady resumed her seat on the piano stool, smiling a little. Then she turned to the cook and said reproachfully: "Honora, you have made a mistake. Go down stairs with your cousin, please, and leave this gentleman to me."

The cook departed, shaking her head ominously and taking with her her embarrassed relative.

The young lady asked me sweetly to be seated. "You heard me singing a song?" she said, turning over the leaves of her music. "I wonder which one it could have been?"

"I know not by what name to call it," I said, "but all other songs are so poor beside it that to me it is the only song in the world."

"Indeed it must be beautiful. Is it this, perhaps?" She touched a few notes gently—the Italian aria.

"No, no—not that! My song goes like this: 'Lah lah!'"

She began to laugh. "Don't!" she said. "It reminds me of something funny I once heard."

I think it was then, when she laughed, that I first noticed how beautiful she was. I asked her what it was that had amused her.

For answer she began to play it softly—my song. Her laughing eyes looked questioningly into mine. I nodded yes vigorously. I would not interrupt her by a sound. Then she sang it through. When she had finished, I could hardly speak except to say, "How beautiful!" and to ask its name.

"The song is called 'Barbara's Marriage Bells.'"

"What a charming name! And the composer?"

"The composer," she continued, "is a young woman quite unknown to fame."

"Will you just take a look at him, miss?"

She wrote the song last summer, and it was sung at a musicale in Newport and afterward played at the Casino there. One of the members of the Casino orchestra directed the band at Vicar's restaurant here for a time this winter, and it was played there."

"Yes; that's where I heard it," I interjected.

"The young lady thought her song had aroused no interest whatever?"

"What?" I cried indignantly.

"—until one day she was surprised to hear an Italian street musician playing it—"

"Yes, yes; mangling it!"

"She stopped to listen, and when the man had finished an excited gentleman ran up and was ready to beat the man because he could not induce him to play the song again."

"Why, that was me!" I cried, heedless of grammar.

"The young lady was accompanied by her cousin, who, it seems, knew this gentleman's sister. She said his name was Mr. Wheatleigh!"

"Yes, yes; pardon me!" I was fumbling for a card—"but this young composer—this gifted creature—if I could only meet her to tell her!"

"Tonight she was somewhat startled by having this same excited gentleman arrested at her door as a burglar, all for giving another proof of his admiration for her little song."

I could only stare at her dumbly.

"It is you, then," I at length found voice to say—"you who have written this lovely song?" I had entirely forgotten the burglarious episode. "How I must have frightened you! Can you forgive me?"

What need to tell all that followed of this most delightful call? When I departed, I carried with me a manuscript copy of the song. And in telling its story I have quite forgotten to mention the lady's name. It was Lucy—the rest does not matter, for it is Lucy Wheatleigh now—and it was surprising how little alteration was required to make of "Barbara's Marriage Bells" a wedding march, which was played at our wedding. Even as I write I hear my wife's voice singing that dear song and so softly, so soothingly, that I think—yes, I am quite sure—it is a lullaby.

Effect of Military Toys.

The military toys of France are marvels of art. The costumes of the soldiers alone are worthy of a study. Take up a box representing the wars of Caesar. The dresses of the Roman soldiers are perfect. It is the same with those devoted to the campaigns of Alexander and Napoleon. The siege of Orleans in 1490 and the battle of Pavia in 1525 are really works of art. For a franc the youthful French warrior can purchase the battles of Woerth, Gravelotte, St. Privat and Bazailles and move the opposing armies according to a plan set down in the accompanying book of instructions. Coming to a later period, he can "make the campaigns" in Tonquin, Madagascar and even those that are supposed to have taken place in China for the small sum of tenpence.

One has but to stand and watch the sparkling eyes of the children as they contemplate these dummy soldiers to understand why Frenchmen are so fond of shouting "Vive l'armee!"—Paris Messenger.

TWENTY-ONE DEAD.

Explosion of Coal Dust In a Tennessee Mine Fearfully Destructive.

NINE ARE FATALY BURNED

Four Men Escaped With Slight Injuries—Most of the Dead Men Were Married and Had Families—Sorrowful Scenes.

Dayton, Tenn., May 28.—At the Richland mine of the Dayton Coal and Iron company, about two miles from Dayton, a terrific explosion of coal dust resulted in the death of 21 men, all while, and most of them married and with families.

The dead: Tom Wright, Dick Smith, Will Matthews, Samuel Smith, Bailey Smith, Tom Walker, George Holmes, J. F. Gotthard, Terry Smith, Abe Gotthard, Samuel Burwick, Jim Pickle, Wash Trasley, Oscar Rodgers, J. F. Rodgers, Lowry Hawkins, J. F. Walker, Perry Pope, Lage Poole, Andy Medley, Will Rose.

The explosion was caused by what is known among miners as a "blown blast." It is the custom of the miners to place blasts and fire them off at quitting time each afternoon, leaving the coal thus thrown down to be loaded and hauled from the mine next morning. The Richmond mine is destitute of water and great volumes of fine particles of coal dust, invisible to the naked eye, accumulate. This will explode if exposed to flames. A dynamite cartridge was placed in position for a blast and the miners started for the mouth of the mine. The blast did not explode as expected, and instead a long flame shot out of the blast hole and ignited the accumulation of dust. Instantly a terrific explosion occurred and a seething mass of flames shot to the mouth of the mine and extended about 300 feet into the open air, scorching the leaves of nearby trees. Thirty-four men were in the mine at the time. Four of these escaped with slight injury. Twenty-one were killed and nine were fatally burned, most of them fatally. The force of the explosion caused great masses of coal and slate to cave in from the roof of the mine and many fated miners were completely buried.

Word quickly reached Dayton and rescue forces were at once organized and proceeded to the mine. One by one the blackened and horribly disfigured bodies were taken from the debris and carried to the mouth of the mine, whence they were taken to Dayton. Scores of relatives and friends gathered at the mouth of the mine and the shrieks of anguish as the bodies were removed were heart-rending.

Irish Lincemaking.

After the famine of 1847 lincemaking was revived in Ireland. Limerick, the most successful Irish lace, is not really a lace at all. It is tambour work upon net and muslin.

The Irish point, so called, is the ancient cut work, being made in quite the same way.

Net was first made by machinery in 1768. The machine was an adaptation of the stocking loom to lacemaking and was cumbersome and not very effective. In 1809 John Heathcote, a farmer's son, evolved from consciousness and experience the first machine to make true bobbinet with perfect six sided holes. It brought a great hue and cry about his ears from lacemakers, who fancied they saw themselves thus reduced to beggary.

The Luddites broke into the factory where the machines were first set up and made scrap iron and kindling wood of them. The only result was to drive the new manufacture to other and safer quarters. For long the secret of the machine's construction was most jealously guarded by English manufacturers. Not satisfied with letters patent they kept up a coast patrol to make sure that nobody took model or drawings to France.

At last, though, they were outwitted. A discharged workman who had the plan of it in his mind managed to get safe over sea and build a machine in France.

Sort of a Cannibal.

An old farmer for many years got his dinner on market days at a small hotel kept by a widow.

She had long suspected that he ate more than the price (1s. 6d.) warranted, so she determined to test him. She accordingly arranged matters so that there was no room for him at table, but she took him into a private room the table of which was graced by a steaming leg of mutton. He set to in good earnest, and soon nothing was left but the bones.

Highly delighted with his cheap feed, on passing the bar he tendered 2 shillings for his dinner and a quart of ale.

The widow declined to take any payment on the ground of having inconvenienced him so much.

Chuckling to himself, the farmer lifted down his market basket from a hook, and, finding it rather light, he tore off the covering and shouted:

"Here, Mrs. Brown, where's my leg o' mutton?"

"Why, ye old silly," said the widow, "ye have ate your leg for your dinner!"

THE PURSUIT OF A SONG

By FRANCIS LIVINGSTON

singing. Bring it to me, and I will give you this." And I showed her a bill.

The woman eyed me with no friendly gaze. "Phwat's that you're after sayin'?" she asked grudgingly.

I repeated the words impatiently. The woman opened the iron door. "Step inside," she said.

The instant I was within she closed the door and set her back against it. "Mike," she called, "come here."

A heavy, blue coated figure appeared from the inner regions.

"I'd loike you to clap your eyes on this gent." The woman held me tightly by the coat sleeve. "It's wan of thim burglars as was here last week, I'm sure," she went on, "tryin to bribe me wid his dirty money to leave me post an go up shairs on a fool's errand."

"What do you want here?" asked the bluecoat fiercely.

I scarcely heard what he said. The singer was in the second part, approaching the change. "La, ra, ra, rummy." I accompanied, beating time with my finger. "Now it goes back into lah lah. Isn't it beautiful?"

"I think he's dopy," said the policeman.

"Deed an he isn't thin; he knows well enough what he's about. Watch him, Mike, 'at he don't make a break."

"Didn't your young miss see wan of thim in the dinin room?"

"Yes, an bad he frightened her; a well dressed chap he was, too, Miss Lucy said. Belike this is the very wan."

Both the cook and the policeman now held me fast by either arm.

"Now, me man," said the bluecoat, "up stairs wid ye, an don't ye try any funny business, either."

This was more than I had dared hope for. But at the foot of the stairs I had a fright. The singer had finished my song and immediately began another, something that sounded like an Italian aria. Perhaps she could not understand me, and I would have to go through with the lotto primo business again.

"Does your mistress speak English?" I asked, hurrying my steps.

"Deed she does, thin, as you'll soon find out," said the cook.

In the upper hall as we approached the drawing room door she began to speak: "Miss Lucy, don't be frightened, ma'am. We've got a foine bird here, me an me cousin Mike. We think it's wan of thim burglars."

We stood in the doorway, I fast pinned between the angry cook and the big policeman. The song broke off short. A beautiful young woman started up from the piano with a little cry:

"Burglars! Honora, what do you mean?"

At sight of me she gave a start and leaned against the piano, very pale.

"Will you just take a look at him, miss, an see if it is the wan? I caught him at the area gate just now, an he had the face to thry to bribe me to go up shairs an ax you the name of the song you was singin. Fortinly me cousin Mike, ma'am, bein off post, had just dropped in for a cup of tay, an together we overpowered him, ma'am."

"How very strange!" murmured the young lady, but her color was returning.

I bowed and said with such dignity as I could command:

"I deeply regret, mademoiselle, to have startled you. Will you hear me a moment? For weeks I have sought vainly a beautiful song I once heard. I could only stare at her dumbly.

"It is you, then," I at length found voice to say—"you who have written this lovely song?" I had entirely forgotten the burglars' episode. "How I must have frightened you! Can you forgive me?"

What need to tell all that followed of this most delightful call? When I departed, I carried with me a manuscript copy of the song. And in telling its story I have quite forgotten to mention the lady's name. It was Lucy—the rest does not matter, for it is Lucy Wheateleigh now—and it was surprising how little alteration was required to make of "Barbara's Marriage Bells" a wedding march, which was played at our wedding. Even as I write I hear my wife's voice singing that dear song and so softly, so soothingly, that I think—yes, I am quite sure—it is a lullaby.

proachfully: "Honora, you have made a mistake. Go down stairs with your cousin, please, and leave this gentleman to me."

The cook departed, shaking her head ominously and taking with her her embarrassed relative.

The young lady asked me sweetly to be seated. "You heard me singing a song?" she said, turning over the leaves of her music. "I wonder which one it could have been?"

"I know not by what name to call it," I said, "but all other songs are so poor beside it that to me it is the only song in the world."

"Indeed it must be beautiful. Is it this, perhaps?" She touched a few notes gently—the Italian aria.

"No, no—not that! My song goes like this: 'Lah lah!'"

She began to laugh. "Don't!" she said. "It reminds me of something funny I once heard."

I think it was then, when she laughed, that I first noticed how beautiful she was. I asked her what it was that had amused her.

For answer she began to play it softly—my song. Her laughing eyes looked questioningly into mine. I nodded yes vigorously. I would not interrupt her by a sound. Then she sang it through. When she had finished, I could hardly speak except to say, "How beautiful!" and to ask its name.

"What a charming name! And the composer?"

"The composer," she continued, "is a young woman quite unknown to fame."

Effect of Military Toys.

The military toys of France are marvels of art. The costumes of the soldiers alone are worthy of a study. Take up a box representing the wars of Caesar. The dresses of the Roman soldiers are perfect. It is the same with those devoted to the campaigns of Alexander and Napoleon. The siege of Orleans in 1490 and the battle of Pavia in 1525 are really works of art. For a frame the youthful French warrior can purchase the battles of Woerth, Gravelotte, St. Privat and Bazeilles and move the opposing armies according to a plan set down in the accompanying book of instructions. Coming to a later period, he can "make the campaigns" in Tonquin, Madagascar and even those that are supposed to have taken place in China for the small sum of tenpence.

One has but to stand and watch the sparkling eyes of the children as they contemplate these dummy soldiers to understand why Frenchmen are so fond of shouting "Vive l'armee!"—Paris Messenger.

THE RIPPER LEGAL.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Sustained the Act.

DEAN STORMILY DISSENTS

He is Backed Up by McCollum and Mestrezat—Mitchell Delivered the Opinion—Sustained by Fell, Brown and Potter—Effects Three Cities.

Philadelphia, May 28.—In an exhaustive opinion handed down by Justice Mitchell, the supreme court of Pennsylvania sustains the constitutionality of the famous second-class city "ripper," which completely changes the form of government in Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Scranton. Justice Mitchell is sustained in his stand by Justices Fell, Brown and Potter, but a stormy dissenting opinion was filed by Justice Dean and concurred in by Justice McCollum and Justice Mestrezat.

Have No Vested Rights.

Justice Mitchell's opinion holds that municipal corporations have no vested rights in their offices, their corporate powers, their charters or their powers, he declares, "are determined by the legislature and are subject to change, repeal or total abrogation at its will."

Justice Mitchell continued: "The fact that the action of the state towards its municipal agents is wise, unjust, oppressive or violative of the natural or political rights of its citizens is not one which can be made the basis of action by the judiciary. The rule of the law upon this subject appears to be that except where the constitution has imposed limits upon the legislative power, it must be considered as practically absolute, whether it operates according to natural justice or not in any particular case."

"The courts are not the guardians of the rights of the people of the state, except as those rights are secured by some constitutional provision which comes within the judicial cognizance. The protection against oppressive and oppressive legislation within constitutional bounds is by appeal to the justice and patriotism of the representatives of the people. This fall the people in their sovereign capacity can correct the evil, but the courts cannot assume their rights."

Regarding the constitutionality of the act under consideration the opinion says the only power of the court is to discover what, if any, provision of the constitution it violates. Justice Mitchell admits that the act has manifest imperfections, but says that they do not make it unconstitutional, and adds: "The effect may be to leave the affairs of the cities in a state of very regrettable confusion, but it has not been shown that the municipal government cannot be administered, notwithstanding."

This a Legislative Question.

To the objection that the act makes improper classification in the method of filling municipal offices, the court holds that this is a legislative and not a judicial question, and further says regarding the danger of interfering with existing methods of classification: "It is urged that this act violates the spirit of the constitution in these provisions, and that general interest which preserves to the people the right of local self-government. The objection is serious, and there can be no denial that some of the provisions of the schedule infringe upon the rights of the citizens generally as accustomed to regard as their political rights. But our view must be confined closely and exclusively to the constitution."

A further objection made is that the act removes an elected officer, the mayor, from office during the term for which he was elected, by a mere change in the name of the office. The right to grant a new charter to the city, imposing a new form of government, is conceded, even though the effect is to abolish the office and to remove the officer of the office and to appoint a new officer.

The objection that even if the appointment of a recorder were void, the appointment of the respondent is void for want of confirmation of the senate is based on section 3 of article IV of the constitution, and is sufficient to say that the section has no application to municipal officers.

Not For Courts to Declare.

The most earnest consideration of the objections to the act of 1901 has been given, and the court has authorized the courts to declare the act void for conflict with the constitution, but must be addressed only to the legislature and their constituents.

The dissenting opinion filed by Justice Dean and concurred in by Justices McCollum and Mestrezat says:

"If this act were not clearly in conflict with the fundamental law, or if the consequences to which the judgment may lead were not deplorable, it would be a matter of no consequence to it, and would not serve as a precedent for future cases. I would record. But all these reasons excepted, and it is not without regret that I dissent from the judgment. To dissent from this act is palpably unconstitutional, because it violates section

7 of article III of that instrument, which section is as follows: 'The general assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts, incorporated cities, towns or villages, or changing their charters—creating offices or prescribing the powers and duties of officers in counties, cities, boroughs, townships, election or school districts.'

Many authorities are quoted by Justice Dean in support of his contention that the act comes under the head of special legislation. Continuing, he said in part:

"By our decision in the case before us we are going a step beyond anything heretofore allowed in the line of special legislation. It is purely a question of law whether section 7 of the constitution has been violated. Yet we, in effect, say it is the province of the legislature to decide the question, and that we will not inquire into it. This, on our part, is a great mistake. I would not encroach one inch on the authority of the legislature, but I would not allow that body, nor the executive, to encroach one inch on ours. We have now before us an act which, it is true, does not take one man's land and give it to another, but it does take from one set of men the offices given them by the people, hands them over to the governor, that he may confer them on others. Here we should call a halt upon such unconstitutional usurpation of power."

"What the next step in this direction will be we can only conjecture. Factional politics and partisan politics are not troubled by scruples; under the principles of this decision there is nothing to hinder a hostile partisan majority in the legislature from ousting the party in power in Philadelphia, a city of the first class, and placing its government in the possession of the minority power. The time is not very remote in the past in English politics when the victorious political party, as soon as it was seated in power, promptly proceeded to cut off the physical heads of their leading antagonists and confiscate their property; it is not very remote in the future when the victorious party will promptly proceed to cut off the political heads of its opponents when they hold office by the municipal votes of the people."

"I fear the time is not far distant when the pernicious results of our decision will either bring about that constitutional amendment or remedy the mischief or move us to overthrow it."

"Every member of this court concedes that this legislation is vicious. Why? They do not answer. But, to my mind, it is apparent that its vice consists in its flagrant violation of the fundamental law. We know its purpose was to oust one set of officers in three certain cities, put in place, either directly or indirectly, by the people, and give their offices to others through the chief executive of the state. This is the inevitable result from the bill itself. Can we assume that our lawmakers do not intend the obvious results of their acts?"

Goscherry For New Ships.

It may be ungenerous to dispel a popular delusion, but there is no one among the thousands who witness a ship launch who does not believe that the beautifully garlanded bottle of wine broken against the stem of a ship is anything but the choicest brand of champagne drawn from the admiral's cellar. Whenever a ship is launched in a dockyard, the admiralty generously allow $40 as the cost of the jubilation, and included in this sum of $40 is the item of 3 shillings for wine. Hence it follows that not only is the wine not drawn from the admiral's cellar, but it certainly is not champagne of foreign vintage.—English Navy and Military Record.

THEATRICAL

If Dame Rumor is to be believed, the dramatization of Mr. Booth Tarkington's novel "Monsieur Beaucaire" was the cause of a temporary deadlock between that distinguished but erratic actor, Richard Mansfield, and Mrs. Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, the lady to whom was entrusted the task of preparing the story for the stage. According to the report, Mrs. Sutherland resented Mr. Mansfield's dogmatic manner of "suggesting" changes in the manuscript. She smothered her wrath for some time, but at length refused point blank to yield a certain point. Now, it is an axiom in the "perfess" that no one can defy Mansfield and live in the same artistic atmosphere with him. Nevertheless the dramatist did defy him, and what is perhaps more to the point, she seems to be doing pretty well, thank you, both physically and professionally. In short, the differences, whatever they may have been, have been amicably adjusted, and "Monsieur Beaucaire" is to be produced according to the original schedule in Philadelphia next October. Thence it will be brought to New York, where it will be given a short run. "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be followed by Mansfield's production of "Herod," Stephen Phillips' poetic tragedy.

The statement with reference to the Mansfield-Sutherland differences is based upon rumor, but the outline of Mr. Mansfield's plans for the two plays is based upon fact.

Miss Maud Jeffries, for many years favorably known as the leading woman of the Wilson Barrett company, has dropped out of sight so far as this country is concerned. Miss Jeffries is an American girl. She was born, I think, in Mississippi and reared in Tennessee, but most of her stage experience has been gained abroad, principally in the English "provinces." She came over here with Mr. Wilson Barrett on his last two trips and created a most favorable impression, although there was a lack of authority in her work which most persons attributed to inexperience. When Mr. Barrett returned to England, Miss Jeffries went along and appeared with him in the "provinces," as well as in London, in "The Sign of the Cross" and in "Daughters of Babylon."

Mr. Barrett once told me that in his opinion Miss Jeffries was one of the coming great actresses of the world, but events have not borne out his estimate of her ability. She has talent and "temperament" beyond a doubt, but there is something about her method which deprives her work of conviction. It is possible that now that Miss Jeffries is freed from the artistic

MAUD JEFFRIES.

Influence of an actor whose limitations are narrower even than her own she will develop into something more than a merely acceptable leading woman.

The acquirement by Harrison Grey Fiske, editor and proprietor of The Dramatic Mirror, of the lease of the Manhattan theater, in this city, is an event of more than passing importance to our theatrical interests. Of even greater import is the announcement by Mr. Fiske that the house will be occupied during the greater portion of each season by his wife, Minnie Maddern Fiske. This lady stands artistically head and shoulders above any actress in this country. It is Mrs. Fiske's intention to produce several new plays, beginning next fall. Like the true artist, she does not seek to win a little cheap applause from the unthinking by the announcement that she will present the works only of American authors. Native dramatists will, of course, have "first call" with Mrs. Fiske, but art knows no geographical lines, and the man who writes the good play will be the man to get a hearing at the Manhattan theater.

Mrs. Fiske, because of her independence in refusing to be dictated to by the theatrical powers that be, has been forced in many cities into theaters in which stars of the first magnitude seldom play; but, despite that handicap, there are very few attractions in this country which have made more money this season. This is mentioned merely to show that the public will always pay to see the best acting, the pessimists who assert to the contrary notwithstanding. A few more Fiskes in the United States would make the present well nigh intolerable conditions in the theatrical business impossible.

KICKED TO DEATH

Christian Stahl, of Navarre, the Victim of Masked Burglars Saturday.

Alliance, May 28.—Word reached Alliance yesterday of a brutal murder which occurred near Navarre late Saturday night, the victim being Christian Stahl, a respected citizen and well-to-do bachelor farmer who resided with his sister, Christina Stahl.

Hearing a knock at the door about 9 o'clock Miss Stahl opened and was at once confronted by two masked men, who pushed their way in, bound the inmates, Miss Stahl and her niece, Flora Stahl, and Mr. Stahl. The men kicked Stahl to keep him quiet and he died of the injury in a short time. A posse and bloodhounds are scouring the country.

Nerve Slavery.

It is present-day conditions—heaping burdens of work upon the nervous system that tells the story—premature breaking up of health.

It tells why so many men and women, who so far as age in years is concerned, should be in the prime of health, find themselves letting go of the strength, the power, the vitality they once possessed. It is because that great motor power of the body, the nerve force, is impaired. Every organ depends upon its controlling power just as much as the engine depends upon the steam to put it into action. An engine won't go without steam. Neither will the heart, the brain, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach act right without their proper nerve force supply. Let any organ be lacking in this essential and troubles begin—some of them are:

- Throbbing, palpitating heart.
- Sleepless nights.
- Sudden startings.
- Morning languor.
- Brain fog.
- Inability to work or think.
- Exhaustion on exertion.
- Flagging appetite.
- Digestion slow.
- Foet heavy.
- Easily excited, nervous, irritable.
- Strength fails.
- Loss of flesh and muscular power.
- Settled melancholia.
- Utter despondency.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Sustained the Act.

DEAN STORMILY DISSENTS

Philadelphia, May 28.—In an exhaustive opinion handed down by Justice Mitchell, the supreme court of Pennsylvania sustains the constitutionality of the famous second-class "ripper," which completely changes the form of government of the city of Philadelphia. The act, which was passed by the legislature in 1900, and which was sustained by the supreme court in its decision of last year, is now being challenged by the city of Philadelphia, which claims that the act is unconstitutional. The act, which was passed by the legislature in 1900, and which was sustained by the supreme court in its decision of last year, is now being challenged by the city of Philadelphia, which claims that the act is unconstitutional. The act, which was passed by the legislature in 1900, and which was sustained by the supreme court in its decision of last year, is now being challenged by the city of Philadelphia, which claims that the act is unconstitutional.

Justice Mitchell's opinion holds that municipal corporations have no vested rights in their offices, their corporate powers, their charters or their corporate existence. "They are created, governed, and the extent of their powers," he declares, "are determined by the legislature and are subject to change, repeal or total abolition at its will."

Justice Mitchell continued: "The fact that the action of the state towards its municipal agents is wise, unjust, oppressive or violative of the natural or political rights of its citizens is not one which can be made the basis of action by the judiciary. The rule of the law upon this subject appears to be that except where the constitution has imposed limits upon the legislative power, it must be considered as practically absolute, whether it operates according to natural justice or not in any particular case."

"The courts are not the guardians of the rights of the people of the state, except as those rights are secured by some constitutional provision which comes within the judicial cognizance. The protection against wise and oppressive legislation within constitutional bounds is by an appeal to the justice and patriotism of the representatives of the people. This fails the people in their sovereign capacity can correct the evil, but the courts cannot assume their rights."

Regarding the constitutionality of the act under consideration the opinion says the only power of the court is to discover what, if any, provision of the constitution it violates.

Justice Mitchell admits that the act is manifestly imperfect, but says that it does not make it unconstitutional, and adds: "The effect may be to leave the affairs of the cities in a state of very regrettable confusion, but it has not been shown that the municipal government cannot be administered, notwithstanding."

This a Legislative Question.

To the objection that the act makes improper classification in the method of filling municipal offices, the court holds that this is a legislative and not a judicial question, and further says regarding the danger of interfering with existing methods of classification: "It is urged that this act violates the spirit of the constitution in those provisions, and that general intent which preserves to the people the right of local self-government. The objection is serious, and there can be no denial that some of the provisions of the schedule infringe upon what the citizens generally are accustomed to regard as their political rights. But our view must be confined closely and exclusively to the constitution."

"A further objection made is that the act removes an elected officer, the mayor, from office during the term for which he was elected, by a mere change in the name of the office. The right to grant a new charter to the city, imposing a new form of government, is conceded, even though the effect is to abolish the office and to deprive the officer of his place."

"The objection that even if the appointment of a recorder were valid, the appointment of the respondent is void for want of confirmation of the senate is based on section 3 of article IV of the constitution, and is sufficient to say that the section has no application to municipal officers."

Not For Courts to Declare.

"The most earnest consideration of the objections to the act of 1901 has convinced us that they are not such as authorize the courts to declare the act void for conflict with the constitution, but must be addressed only to the legislature and their constituents."

The dissenting opinion filed by Justice Dean and concurred in by Justices McCallum and Mestrezat—Mitchell Delivered the Opinion—Sustained by Fell, Brown and Potter—Effects Three Cities.

7 of article III of that instrument, which section is as follows: "The general assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts, incorporated cities, towns or villages, or changing their charters—creating offices or prescribing the powers and duties of officers in counties, cities, boroughs, townships, election or school districts."

Many authorities are quoted by Justice Dean in support of his contention that the act comes under the head of special legislation. Continuing, he said in part:

"By our decision in the case before us we are going a step beyond anything heretofore allowed in the line of special legislation. It is purely a question of law whether section 7 of the constitution has been violated. Yet we, in effect, say it is the province of the legislature to decide the question, and that we will not inquire into it. This, on our part, is a great mistake. I would not encroach one inch on the authority of the legislature, but I would not allow that body, nor the executive, to encroach one inch on ours. We have now before us an act which, it is true, does not take one man's land and give it to another, but it does take from one set of men the offices given them by the people, hands them over to the governor, that he may confer them on others. Here we should call a halt upon such unconstitutional usurpation of power."

"What the next step in this direction will be we can only conjecture. Factional politics and partisan politics are not troubled by scruples; under the principles of this decision there is nothing to hinder a hostile partisan majority in the legislature from ousting the party in power in Philadelphia, a city of the first class, and placing its government in the possession of the minority power. The time is not very remote in the past in English politics when the victorious political party, as soon as it was seated in power, promptly proceeded to cut off the physical heads of their leading antagonists and confiscate their property; it is not very remote in the future when the victorious party will promptly proceed to cut off the political heads of its opponents when they hold office by the municipal votes of the people."

"I fear the time is not far distant when the pernicious results of our decision will either bring about that constitutional amendment or remedy the mischief or move us to overrule it."

"Every member of this court concedes that this legislation is vicious. Why? They do not answer. But, to my mind, it is apparent that its vice consists in its flagrant violation of the fundamental law. We know its purpose was to oust one set of officers in three certain cities, put in place, either directly or indirectly, by the people, and give their offices to others through the chief executive of the state. This is the inevitable result from the bill itself. Can we assume that our lawmakers do not intend the obvious results of their acts?"

If Dame Rumor is to be believed, the dramatization of Mr. Booth Tarkington's novel "Monsieur Beaucaire" was the cause of a temporary deadlock between that distinguished but erratic actor, Richard Mansfield, and Mrs. Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, the lady to whom was entrusted the task of preparing the story for the stage. According to the report, Mrs. Sutherland resented Mr. Mansfield's dogmatic manner of "suggesting" changes in the manuscript. She smothered her wrath for some time, but at length refused point blank to yield a certain point. Now, it is an axiom in the "perfess" that no one can defy Mansfield and live in the same artistic atmosphere with him. In short, the differences, whatever they may have been, have been amicably adjusted, and "Monsieur Beaucaire" is to be produced according to the original schedule in Philadelphia next October. Thence it will be brought to New York, where it will be given a short run. "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be followed by Mansfield's production of "Hered," Stephen Phillips' poetic tragedy.

The statement with reference to the Mansfield-Sutherland differences is based upon rumor, but the outline of Mr. Mansfield's plans for the two plays is based upon fact.

Miss Maud Jeffries, for many years favorably known as the leading woman of the Wilson Barrett company, has dropped out of sight so far as this country is concerned. Miss Jeffries is an American girl. Mr. Barrett once told me that in his opinion Miss Jeffries was one of the coming great actresses of the world, but events have not borne out his estimate of her ability. She has talent and "temperament" beyond a doubt, but there is something about her method which deprives her work of conviction. It is possible that now that Miss Jeffries is freed from the artistic

Christian Stahl, of Navarre, the Victim of Masked Burglars Saturday.

Alliance, May 28.—Word reached Alliance yesterday of a brutal murder which occurred near Navarre late Saturday night, the victim being Christian Stahl, a respected citizen and well-to-do bachelor farmer who resided with his sister, Christina Stahl.

Hearing a knock at the door about 9 o'clock Miss Stahl opened and was at once confronted by two masked men, who pushed their way in, bound the inmates, Miss Stahl and her niece, Flora Stahl, and Mr. Stahl. The men kicked Stahl to keep him quiet and he died of the injury in a short time. A posse and bloodhounds are scouring the country.

Nerve Slavery.

It is present-day conditions—heaping burdens of work upon the nervous system that tells the story—premature breaking up of health.

It tells why so many men and women, who so far as age in years is concerned, should be in the prime of health, find themselves letting go of the strength, the power, the vitality they once possessed. It is because that great motor power of the body, nerve force, is impaired. Every organ depends upon its controlling power just as much as the engine depends upon the steam to put it into action. An engine won't go without steam. Neither will the heart, the brain, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach act right without their proper nerve force supply. Let any organ be lacking in this essential and troubles begin—some of them are:

- Throbbing, palpitating heart.
- Sleepless nights.
- Sudden startings.
- Morning languor.
- Brain fog.
- Inability to work or think.
- Exhaustion on exertion.
- Flagging appetite.
- Digestion slow.
- Fatigue.
- Easily excited, nervous, irritable.
- Strength fails.
- Loss of flesh and muscular power.
- Settled melancholia.
- Utter dependency.

A picture, hideous, but easily changed to one of brightness by use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. They build up the nerves and supply nerve force.

The above is the genuine package of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, are sold by dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Price 50 cents.

Old Merchant—Before I answer your request for my daughter's hand, permit me to ask what is your yearly income, sir?

Young Officer—All told, it amounts to $800.

Old Merchant—H'm! To that would be added the interest at 4 per cent on the sum of $20,000, that I intend to give my daughter for her dowry.

Young Officer—Well, the fact is, I have taken the liberty of including that in the calculation just submitted.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Sustained the Act.

is Backed Up by McCollum and Mestrezat—Mitchell Delivered the Opinion—Sustained by Fell, Brown and Potter—Effects Three Cities.

Philadelphia, May 28.—In an extensive opinion handed down by Justice Mitchell, the supreme court of Pennsylvania sustains the constitutionality of the famous second-class "ripper," which completely changes the form of government of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Scranton. Justice Mitchell is sustained in his opinion by Justices Fell, Brown and Potter, but a stormy dissenting opinion was filed by Justice Dean and concurred in by Justice McCollum and Justice Mestrezat.

The act took out of office the mayor and other municipal officials and gave a governor the right to appoint "recorders" for the three cities, to serve till 1903. Mayor Moir, of Scranton, is promptly named as recorder for that city, and at once began amicable proceedings in the Lackawanna court to test the constitutionality of the act. That court decided in favor of the governor's right to appoint, and it is this decision that the supreme court has sustained.

Have No Vested Rights.

Justice Mitchell's opinion holds that municipal corporations have no vested rights in their offices, their corporate powers, their charters or in corporate existence. "They are created, governed, and the extent of their powers," he declares, "are determined by the legislature and are subject to change, repeal or total abrogation at its will."

Justice Mitchell continued: "The fact that the action of the legislature towards its municipal agents is just, unjust, oppressive or violative of the natural or political rights of its citizens is not one which can make the basis of action by the courts. The rule of the law upon this subject appears to be that except where the constitution has imposed limits upon the legislative power, it must be considered as practically absolute, whether it operates according to natural justice or not in particular cases."

The courts are not the guardians of the rights of the people of the state, except as those rights are secured by some constitutional provision which comes within the judicial province. The protection against the use of oppressive legislation in constitutional bounds is by an appeal to the justice and patriotism of the representatives of the people. It is the duty of the people in their capacity to correct the evil, the courts cannot assume their duty."

Regarding the constitutionality of the act under consideration the opinion states the only power of the court is to discover what, if any, provision of the constitution it violates.

Justice Mitchell admits that the act manifests imperfections, but says they do not make it unconstitutional and adds: "The effect may be to be the affairs of the cities in the future of very regrettable confusion, but has not been shown that the municipal government cannot be altered, notwithstanding."

his a Legislative Question.

The objection that the act makes per classification in the method of electing municipal officers, the court holds that this is a legislative and not a judicial question, and further says that the danger of interfering with existing methods of classification is urged that this act violates the spirit of the constitution in its provisions, and that general principle which preserves to the people the right of local self-government. Objection is serious, and there is no denial that some of the provisions of the schedule infringe upon the rights of the citizens generally are accorded to regard as their political rights. But our view must be conclusively and exclusively to the objection that even if the appointment of a recorder were void for want of confirmation, the senate is based on section 3 of the constitution, and sufficient to say that the section is unconstitutional and void.

ot For Courts to Declare.

The most earnest consideration of the act of 1901 has led us to the conclusion that the act is not such as to be declared unconstitutional, but must be addressed only to the legislature and their constituents.

A dissenting opinion filed by Justice McCollum and Mestrezat says: "The act is not clearly in conflict with the fundamental law, or in conflict with the principles of justice, or in conflict with the principles of public policy, or in conflict with the principles of good government, or in conflict with the principles of the constitution. It is a legislative question, and it is for the legislature to decide whether it is wise or not to pass it."

7 of article III of that instrument, which section is as follows: "The general assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts, incorporated cities, towns or villages, or changing their charters—creating offices or prescribing the powers and duties of officers in counties, cities, boroughs, townships, election or school districts."

Many authorities are quoted by Justice Dean in support of his contention that the act comes under the head of special legislation. Continuing, he said in part:

"By our decision in the case before us we are going a step beyond anything heretofore allowed in the line of special legislation. It is purely a question of law whether section 7 of the constitution has been violated. Yet we, in effect, say it is the province of the legislature to decide the question, and that we will not inquire into it. This, on our part, is a great mistake. I would not encroach one inch on the authority of the legislature, but I would not allow that body, nor the executive, to encroach one inch on ours. We have now before us an act which, it is true, does not take one man's land and give it to another, but it does take from one set of men the offices given them by the people, hands them over to the governor, that he may confer them on others. Here we should call a halt upon such unconstitutional usurpation of power."

"What the next step in this direction will be we can only conjecture. Factional politics and partisan politics are not troubled by scruples; under the principles of this decision there is nothing to hinder a hostile partisan majority in the legislature from ousting the party in power in Philadelphia, a city of the first class, and placing its government in the possession of the minority power. The time is not very remote in the past in English politics when the victorious political party, as soon as it was seated in power, promptly proceeded to cut off the physical heads of their leading antagonists and confiscate their property; it is not very remote in the future when the victorious party will promptly proceed to cut off the political heads of its opponents when they hold office by the municipal votes of the people."

"I fear the time is not far distant when the pernicious results of our decision will either bring about that constitutional amendment or remedy the mischief or move us to overrule it."

"Every member of this court concedes that this legislation is vicious. Why? They do not answer. But, to my mind, it is apparent that its vice consists in its flagrant violation of the fundamental law. We know its purpose was to oust one set of officers in three certain cities, put in place, either directly or indirectly, by the people, and give their offices to others through the chief executive of the state. This is the inevitable result from the bill itself. Can we assume that our lawmakers do not intend the obvious results of their acts?"

BROWN WILL ACCEPT;

MURPHY SWORN IN. Pittsburgh, May 28.—Major Brown announced he would accept Pittsburgh recordership. Murphy was sworn in as recorder in Allegheny City.

333 Gooseberry For New Ships.

It may be ungenerous to dispel a popular delusion, but there is no one among the thousands who witness a ship launch who does not believe that the beautifully garlanded bottle of wine broken against the stem of a ship is anything but the choicest brand of champagne drawn from the admiral's cellar. Whenever a ship is launched in a dockyard, the admiralty generously allow £40 as the cost of the jubilation, and included in this sum of £40 is the item of 3 shillings for wine. Hence it follows that not only is the wine not drawn from the admiral's cellar, but it certainly is not champagne of foreign vintage.—English Navy and Military Record.

If Dame Rumor is to be believed, the dramatization of Mr. Booth Tarkington's novel "Monsieur Beaucaire" was the cause of a temporary deadlock between that distinguished but erratic actor, Richard Mansfield, and Mrs. Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, the lady to whom was entrusted the task of preparing the story for the stage. According to the report, Mrs. Sutherland resented Mr. Mansfield's dogmatic manner of "suggesting" changes in the manuscript. She smothered her wrath for some time, but at length refused point blank to yield a certain point. Now, it is an axiom in the "perfess" that no one can defy Mansfield and live in the same artistic atmosphere with him. Nevertheless the dramatist did defy him, and, what is perhaps more to the point, she seems to be doing pretty well, thank you, both physically and professionally. In short, the differences, whatever they may have been, have been amicably adjusted, and "Monsieur Beaucaire" is to be produced according to the original schedule in Philadelphia next October. Thence it will be brought to New York, where it will be given a short run. "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be followed by Mansfield's production of "Hered," Stephen Phillips' poetic tragedy.

The statement with reference to the Mansfield-Sutherland differences is based upon rumor, but the outline of Mr. Mansfield's plans for the two plays is based upon fact.

Miss Maud Jeffries, for many years favorably known as the leading woman of the Wilson Barrett company, has dropped out of sight so far as this country is concerned. Miss Jeffries is an American girl. She was born, I think, in Mississippi and reared in Tennessee, but most of her stage experience has been gained abroad, principally in the English "provinces." She came over here with Mr. Wilson Barrett on his last two trips and created a most favorable impression, although there was a lack of authority in her work which most persons attributed to inexperience. When Mr. Barrett returned to England, Miss Jeffries went along and appeared with him in the "provinces," as well as in London, in "The Sign of the Cross" and in "Daughters of Babylon."

Mr. Barrett once told me that in his opinion Miss Jeffries was one of the coming great actresses of the world, but events have not borne out his estimate of her ability. She has talent and "temperament" beyond a doubt, but there is something about her method which deprives her work of conviction. It is possible that now that Miss Jeffries is freed from the artistic

MAUD JEFFRIES.

Influence of an actor whose limitations are narrower even than her own she will develop into something more than a merely acceptable leading woman.

The acquirement by Harrison Grey Fiske, editor and proprietor of The Dramatic Mirror, of the lease of the Manhattan theater, in this city, is an event of more than passing importance to our theatrical interests. Of even greater import is the announcement by Mr. Fiske that the house will be occupied during the greater portion of each season by his wife, Minnie Madden Fiske. This lady stands artistically head and shoulders above any actress in this country. It is Mrs. Fiske's intention to produce several new plays, beginning next fall. Like the true artist, she does not seek to win a little cheap applause from the unthinking by the announcement that she will present the works only of American authors. Native dramatists will, of course, have "first call" with Mrs. Fiske, but art knows no geographical lines, and the man who writes the good play will be the man to get a hearing at the Manhattan theater.

Mrs. Fiske, because of her independence in refusing to be dictated to by the theatrical powers that be, has been forced in many cities into theaters in which stars of the first magnitude seldom play; but, despite that handicap, there are very few attractions in this country which have made more money this season. This is mentioned merely to show that the public will always pay to see the best acting, the pessimists who assert to the contrary notwithstanding. A few more Fiskes in the United States would make the present well nigh intolerable conditions in the theatrical business impossible.

TO BE HELD AT ROCK SPRINGS. WILL BE BIG.

Trainloads of People From the North End of the County Will Attend.

In securing the merchants' and Elks' picnic which comes from Salem and northern Columbiana county on July 30, the management of Rock Springs park has booked one of the biggest events that has ever been held here.

The outing has been held jointly by the two organizations for the past four years, and the interest taken by the citizens of Salem and the surrounding country has grown from year to year until it has reached a point where the whole people enter into the spirit of the occasion, and it has become the big social event of the year.

On this occasion the parties who have the celebration in hand will spare neither time nor expense in surpassing all previous efforts, and with this end in view the arrangements have already been commenced.

Special trains will be run from all towns in the northern part of the county, a $1 excursion rate having been secured, and it is expected that the attendance will be something like 3,500 or 4,000. Merchants and their friends from East Palestine, Lectoria, Columbiana, Salem, Sebring and other points will attend, and an effort will be made to interest the business men and Elks in East Liverpool in order that they may be induced to take part in the affair.

From the northern end of Chatham square starts the Bowery, and a few steps from its commencement is the building now used as a German theater, which was once the Old Bowery. Before the Bowery theater and previous to the Revolution the same site occupied by a building which has a place in history because Washington slept in it. This was the Bull's Head tavern. Being close by the city slaughter houses, all the butchers who came to town stopped at this inn, making it the first commercial inn of its day. During the Revolution Henry Astor, brother of John Jacob Astor, owned the Bull's Head tavern. He leased it to Richard Varian. But Varian went privateering and left the inn to be conducted by his wife.

Astor was a butcher and conducted his business in the Fly market in Maiden lane. He incurred the enmity of all the butchers in the town by conceiving the brilliant idea of riding far out along the Bowery lane, meeting the drovers as they brought their cattle to town and buying their stock, which he sold to the other butchers at his own price. As the lane was really the only road to the city, Astor in this way formed a trust and prospered for many years. The inn, too, prospered until 1826, when it gave place to the Bowery theater.—Home Journal.

PRESIDENT PLEASED.

Gratified That the Supreme Court Sustained Government's Contention.

OPINION OF GEN. RICHARDS

Tax Provisions of Constitution Decided to Not Apply to Acquired Territory—Dingley Law Cannot Apply to Porto Rico, but Foraker Act May.

Sidney, Neb., May 28.—The president and the cabinet received the official information here that the supreme court had decided the insular cases in accordance with the contentions of the government. The news came in the shape of a telegram from Solicitor General John K. Richards. It was brief, however, and contained no details beyond the bare announcement that the administration had been sustained. Naturally the president and cabinet officers were elated over the victory, although they have never doubted that the decision would be in favor of the government. The members of the cabinet aboard the train declined to express their opinions for publication in advance of a perusal of the text of the opinion.

The court held that the decision simply made Porto Rico and the Philippines domestic territory of the United States, subject to the full control of congress, which control could be exercised without reference to those limitations. This limitation the court held was intended to apply to the states of the union and does not apply to acquired territory, unless by treaty, and by subsequent act of congress it is incorporated within and becomes an integral part of the United States. The decisions are substantially a victory for the government. They sustain to the fullest extent the so-called insular policy of the administration. The government now has the sanction of the supreme court for governing these islands as their needs require. The court holds that the constitution did not of its own force at once apply to those ceded territories, placing their people, their products and their ports on an immediate equality with ours and conferring upon them all the rights, privileges and immunities enjoyed by the people, products and ports of the several states. While their fundamental rights are preserved by those underlying principles of the constitution which apply everywhere the status of their citizens and the nature of the customs and commercial regulations are to be determined by congress in the exercise of the power vested by the constitution in congress to make all needful rules and regulations respecting territory belonging to the United States. Obviously what I have said regarding Porto Rico applies equally well to the Philippines, so that the president is perfectly free under the Spooner act to govern the Philippines as their needs and their interests may require.

Dingley Act Don't Apply.
"At the same time that the court has sustained to the fullest extent the contention of the government in these cases it has decided as a matter of statutory construction that the Dingley act could not be held to impose duties on goods brought from Porto Rico, because by cession Porto Rico became domestic territory of the United States and therefore ceased to be "a foreign country." The decisions of the court call for no change in the administration of the law. The court did not decide what is known as the second Dooley case, which involved the validity of the collection of duties under the Foraker act on goods taken into Porto Rico from the United States. While I have no information on the subject, it may be that the court thinks there is involved in that case another question as to whether such duties would not amount to duties on articles exported from a state. The court also failed to dispose of what is popularly known as the 14 diamond rings case, involving the entry free of duty of rings brought into the United States by a returning soldier from the Philippines. There were no decisions affecting the Philippines today, and I presume both of these cases referred to will go over until the fall term of the court."

Why Buchanan Never Married.
"Mr. Buchanan, who was the first bachelor elected to the presidency, was 65 years of age when elected and had deliberately given himself to a life of celibacy," writes William Perrine in The Ladies' Home Journal.
"In the days when he was a young lawyer of Lancaster, Pa., he had loved Miss Coleman, a beautiful daughter of a citizen of that town. They had been engaged to be married, when one day he was surprised to receive from her a request to release her from the promise. According to Mr. George Ticknor Curtis, the separation originated in a misunderstanding on the part of the lady, who was unusually sensitive, over some small matter exaggerated by giddy and indiscreet tongues. Soon after the estrangement she was sent to Philadelphia and there died suddenly."

"Throughout the rest of his life, or for nearly half a century, Mr. Buchanan is not known to have revealed to anybody the circumstances of this romantic tragedy. He would only say that it had changed his hopes and plans and had led him more deeply than ever into politics as a distraction from his grief. In his old age, long after he had retired permanently to private life, he called attention to a package containing, he said, the papers and relics which would explain the causes of his youthful sorrow and which he preserved evidently with the idea of revealing them before his death. But when he died and his will was read it was found that he had directed that the package should be burned without being opened, and his intention was obeyed."

The Astor Butcher Trust.

From the northern end of Chatham square starts the Bowery, and a few steps from its commencement is the building now used as a Germen theater, which was once the Old Bowery. Before the Bowery theater and previous to the Revolution the same site occupied by a building which has a place in history because Washington slept in it. This was the Bull's Head tavern. Being close by the city slaughter houses, all the butchers who came to town stopped at this inn, making it the first commercial inn of its day. During the Revolution Henry Astor, brother of John Jacob Astor, owned the Bull's Head tavern. He leased it to Richard Varian. But Varian went privateering and left the inn to be conducted by his wife.

Astor was a butcher and conducted his business in the Fly market in Maiden lane. He incurred the enmity of all the butchers in the town by conceiving the brilliant idea of riding far out along the Bowery lane, meeting the drovers as they brought their cattle to town and buying their stock, which he sold to the other butchers at his own price. As the lane was really the only road to the city, Astor in this way formed a trust and prospered for many years. The inn, too, prospered until 1826, when it gave place to the Bowery theater.—Home Journal.

PRESIDENT PLEASED.

Gratified That the Supreme Court Sustained Government's Contention.

OPINION OF GEN. RICHARDS

Tax Provisions of Constitution Decided to Not Apply to Acquired Territory—Dingley Law Cannot Apply to Porto Rico, but Foraker Act May.

Sidney, Neb., May 28.—The president and the cabinet received the official information here that the supreme court had decided the insular cases in accordance with the contentions of the government. The news came in the shape of a telegram from Solicitor General John K. Richards. It was brief, however, and contained no details beyond the bare announcement that the administration had been sustained. Naturally the president and cabinet officers were elated over the victory, although they have never doubted that the decision would be in favor of the government. The members of the cabinet aboard the train declined to express their opinions for publication in advance of a perusal of the text of the opinion.

The court held that the decision simply made Porto Rico and the Philippines domestic territory of the United States, subject to the full control of congress, which control could be exercised without reference to those limitations. This limitation the court held was intended to apply to the states of the union and does not apply to acquired territory, unless by treaty, and by subsequent act of congress it is incorporated within and becomes an integral part of the United States. The decisions are substantially a victory for the government. They sustain to the fullest extent the so-called insular policy of the administration. The government now has the sanction of the supreme court for governing these islands as their needs require. The court holds that the constitution did not of its own force at once apply to those ceded territories, placing their people, their products and their ports on an immediate equality with ours and conferring upon them all the rights, privileges and immunities enjoyed by the people, products and ports of the several states. While their fundamental rights are preserved by those underlying principles of the constitution which apply everywhere the status of their citizens and the nature of the customs and commercial regulations are to be determined by congress in the exercise of the power vested by the constitution in congress to make all needful rules and regulations respecting territory belonging to the United States. Obviously what I have said regarding Porto Rico applies equally well to the Philippines, so that the president is perfectly free under the Spooner act to govern the Philippines as their needs and their interests may require.

Dingley Act Don't Apply.

"At the same time that the court has sustained to the fullest extent the contention of the government in these cases it has decided as a matter of statutory construction that the Dingley act could not be held to impose duties on goods brought from Porto Rico, because by cession Porto Rico became domestic territory of the United States and therefore ceased to be a foreign country." The decisions of the court call for no change in the administration of the law. The court did not decide what is known as the second Dooley case, which involved the validity of the collection of duties under the Foraker act on goods taken into Porto Rico from the United States. While I have no information on the subject, it may be that the court thinks there is involved in that case another question as to whether such duties would not amount to duties on articles exported from a state. The court also failed to dispose of what is popularly known as the 14 diamond rings case, involving the entry free of duty of rings brought into the United States by a returning soldier from the Philippines. There were no decisions affecting the Philippines today, and I presume both of these cases referred to will go over until the fall term of the court.

Why Buchanan Never Married.
"Mr. Buchanan, who was the first bachelor elected to the presidency, was 65 years of age when elected and had deliberately given himself to a life of celibacy," writes William Perrine in The Ladies' Home Journal.

"In the days when he was a young lawyer of Lancaster, Pa., he had loved Miss Coleman, a beautiful daughter of a citizen of that town. They had been engaged to be married, when one day he was surprised to receive from her a request to release her from the promise. According to Mr. George Ticknor Curtis, the separation originated in a misunderstanding on the part of the lady, who was unusually sensitive, over some small matter exaggerated by giddy and indiscreet tongues. Soon after the estrangement she was sent to Philadelphia and there died suddenly.

"Throughout the rest of his life, or for nearly half a century, Mr. Buchanan is not known to have revealed to anybody the circumstances of this romantic tragedy. He would only say that it had changed his hopes and plans and had led him more deeply than ever into politics as a distraction from his grief. In his old age, long after he had retired permanently to private life, he called attention to a package containing, he said, the papers and relics which would explain the causes of his youthful sorrow and which he preserved evidently with the idea of revealing them before his death. But when he died and his will was read it was found that he had directed that the package should be burned without being opened, and his intention was obeyed."

ANOTHER TRIAL IS ASKED IN THE L. P. METZGER CASE

In the Two Trials Already Held—A Case Involving $67 Occupies the Attention of Court And Jury for Many Hours—Probate Court.

Lisbon, May 28.—(Special.)—S. W. Ramsey, as attorney for the city of Salem, in the L. P. Metzger case, filed an application for a new trial with Judge Boone at 10 a. m. today. The motion is based on alleged error in the trial of the case. Error is charged in admitting evidence offered on behalf of the defendant, to which the complainant objected at the time; in rejecting evidence offered by the complainant and in the charge to the jury. It is also claimed that the verdict is contrary to law and against the weight of the testimony and not sustained by sufficient evidence. It is further claimed in the motion that since the last trial of the case new evidence, material for the city, which could not, with reasonable diligence be obtained and produced at the trial, will be furnished.

The total costs in the trial of the Metzger case amount to $334.10 and have been assessed against the city of Salem, to be paid within 20 days. In default, execution will be issued. The jury alone cost $116. The amount covers both trials.

Attorney Frank E. Grosshans, assignee of Harry J. Windram, filed application in probate court today against Lillian E. Windram for an order to sell lots 4331 and 4332 in Gamana addition to East Liverpool. Judge Boone granted an order of private sale.

Joseph P. McClain, of Fairfield township, left no will, and Matilda McClain was appointed administrator with $300 bond.

The case of Jesse Summers against Joseph McAllister was tried by a jury in common pleas court yesterday. The jury, after being out nearly six hours, returned a verdict at 11 o'clock in favor of the plaintiff for $67.66. The litigants are from Hanover township and the dispute was over an account for hay and straw which Summers sold to McAllister. It was appealed from a justice's court.

Clerk McNutt has made the following assignment of cases for court next week, Judge Hole presiding:

Monday—Opinions in cases submitted; Firestone Bros. vs. Frank A. Shoemaker et al; Alfred Peterson vs. John Carlson.

Tuesday—Helen N. McClellan vs. Charters et al; Michael Theiss vs. the Cherry Valley Iron works.

Wednesday—L. E. Huston vs. Edward B. Toland; Frank Ross vs. the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company; Albert Corns vs. W. T. Burton.

Thursday—Jesse Chamberlain vs. the city of East Liverpool; Jesse D. Holloway vs. Samuel Frost et al; Sarah Emma Burrows vs. Walter Burrows; John C. Catlett vs. C. E. Smith.

STAUB'S TRIAL ON

HE IS ACCUSED OF ASSAULTING ANDREW MILLER.

The Aged Victim of the Shooting Still Feeble—A Jury Secured for the Case.

Lisbon, May 28.—(Special.)—The case of Ohio versus Charles Curtis Staub, of Bayard, charged with a murderous assault on Andrew Miller, was called this morning and a jury was empaneled. Some difficulty was experienced in securing a jury. When it was finally empaneled the case was necessarily deferred for over three hours, on account of Miller being absent. Court adjourned over an hour for him to arrive, until 1:30 p. m.

The jury to try the case is: Joseph Jackson, William Whan, Geo. D. Flanagan, Perry McCaskey, J. H. Glenn, Anton Baxley, R. Arter, Lisbon; Wm. H. Fuels, William McLaren, Salem; home

William Crow, Elkton; W. E. Neff, Leetonia; Cassius Sanor, New Garden.

Squire Andrew Miller arrived this afternoon, accompanied by Jack Adams, the tenant on the McKinley farm. He is still feeble, and says his mind has never cleared up.

Forty-two witnesses will testify in the case, 28 for the state. Prosecuting Attorney Brookes will prosecute the case. Staub is represented by Attorneys John M. Dickinson and George T. Farrell, of Lisbon.

SALOONISTS FINED

Some of Them Fined While One Is Acquitted—Frank O'Hanlon Pays Two Fines.

Lisbon, May 28.—(Special.)—A session of criminal court was held this forenoon and a number of East Liverpool liquor dealers were arraigned.

Francis O'Hanlon was indicted on two charges of selling liquor to John Rauch, a habitual drunkard. O'Hanlon has been in the business 14 years and was never indicted before. Judge Hole fined him $20 and costs in each case.

John Short, bartender for Walter Burrows, sold to Elwood Morland, aged 55, who is alleged to be a habitual drunkard and is now in the county jail on a charge of vagrancy. Short pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor, and paid $25 and costs on one case, and the other was nolle.

John Robinson and Lewis Cline, East Liverpool saloonkeepers, were each arraigned on two indictments, for selling to David Brown, the negro recently convicted of assaulting and attempting to rob Mrs. Laura Williams. Brown proved to be a perjurer, and Judge Hole, on the recommendation of Prosecutor Brookes, nolle the cases.

More cases remain to be decided.

NOT SUCCESSFUL

The Affair Caused Excitement And Two Doctors Were Summoned in Haste.

Great excitement was caused near Columbian park yesterday evening by the report that Mrs. James Delaney had swallowed two ounces of laudanum with suicidal intent. Several neighbors were called to the house and two doctors were summoned. The lady refused to permit the stomach pump to be used, and it seemed that her death was only a matter of a very short time. An emetic was given, but the woman appeared to suffer great agony.

It soon became apparent to the physicians, however, that she had not taken laudanum and they departed.

It is reported that Mrs. Delaney had quarreled with her husband, and the neighbors say she drank what she claimed was laudanum in order to scare him. She was apparently in good health this morning.

Correspondence of News Review.

Nowata, I. T., May 25.—Since writing you from Catoosa, we have worked to Nowata, 24 miles north of Catoosa, first camping six miles west of Clairmore. The land west of the Verdigris river is very rough, with high mountains of limestone formation, some of them resembling the pyramids in form, others truncated, a few of them covered with timber, and many nothing more than sterile altitudes.

Our next move was to Seegeeyoh, half a mile west of Clairmore mound. On this mound—a miniature Gibraltar—the Osages fought their last desperate battle with the Cherokees. The Osages were defeated and driven to the strip east of Oklahoma. There is some splendid dirt around Seegeeyoh, but some fortunes are covered with limestone and conglomerate rock. Our next move was to Oologah. This name signifies cloud. Here the land is rich, and fertile.

The town is on the Missouri Pacific railroad, and seems to be thriving and prosperous, having four good stores, one hotel and one M. E. church. I met the preacher, named Clapham, and by the way he is an Englishman. He is a bright and clever old chap. Besides the sacred position he holds he is a notary public and weigher of grain. There were no external evidences indicating the preacher. Instead of the broad brimmed black hat, he wore a cloth cap, a cross between the golf and the baseball cap, a red bandana doing service for the immaculate white tie. He had a blue and white checked shirt and a pair of cayenne pepper colored overalls. I had several pleasant talks with him, found him a gentle and genial character and bristling with talent.

His makeup did not strike me as being the conventional thing, but his charity and catholicity of spirit convinced me that the old chap was sincere and very much in earnest in his field of labor.

Our next camp was at Talala—the name signifies red bird. There the soil is very rich and fertile. In the township are three stripped coal mines, making splendid coke.

On May 17 we had two terrific storms. The first came on at 1:30 a. m. The wind, rain, lightning and thunder seemed to have combined all their elements of strength and lashed themselves into fury. Our tents cracked like whips, and some of us had to turn out to drive down tent pegs and secure additional guy lines for safety. I could scarcely stand on my feet. Heavy boxes of canned goods and groceries were blown over and scattered over the floor of the cook tent. The stove pipe landed squarely on the head of our chief in his cot. The lurid flashes of lightning revealed the forms of some of our boys in nearly Kaffir full dress, hanging to their tent poles for dear life. At 2:30 the storm had spent its fury. The only thing in my tent that did not suffer damage was my good book, that people built on the nargange principle say I never read.

Our camp was in dilapidated condition and a more bedraggled set of hoboes you could not find. At 8 a. m. the clouds looked ominous, but we packed up our traps, shook the mud of Talala creek off our feet and hit the trail for Double creek. All went well until we reached Pig creek. Our first wagon, loaded with bedding and personal effects, struck a snag and nearly careened over. Six mules could not raise or pull the load out of the creek. We cut down poles and raised the wagon bodily. Then, with a cheer that made the welkin ring, we got the wagon out.

In the midst of our troubles, a white man with a bilious colored heart, and a citizen by marriage, requested me to locate him and give him number for allotment. I came within an ace of locating him on the head with a pole axe. However, he did not get his allotment that day.

We got along without further trouble and pitched our camp on the banks of Double Creek. No sooner were we

TAX LEVY FIXED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Will Be 10.8 Mills For All Purposes on a Valuation of $5,516,830.

THE HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

On Recommendation of Supt. Rayman Will All Get Their Diplomas—Sums That Will Be Raised in Taxes for the Various Funds.

The tax levy as fixed by the board of education at its meeting last night is as follows: For tuition fund, 6.5 mills, or $35,859.39; for building fund, 2 mills, or $11,033.66; contingent fund, 2 mills, or $11,033.66; public library fund, .3 mill, or $1,655.04. The levy was based on a valuation of $5,516,830. The clerk's bond of $5,000 was accepted and filed.

Prof. Rayman recommended all the members of the high school class for graduation and on motion the president and secretary, on behalf of the board, and the superintendent and principal of the high school, on behalf of the faculty, were instructed to prepare diplomas for the members of the class.

COUNCIL MUST PROVIDE

FOR A DEFICIENCY IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY FUND.

The Board of Education Fixed a Levy Which Will Bring Only $1,655.04.

When the committee appointed to make the tax levy for the board of education reported last night it was found that but three-tenths of a mill had been provided for library purposes, which will produce an income of $1,655.04.

In case the levy as made for municipal and school purposes stands, the Carnegie library will be shy just $1,344.96 for the year 1902. From the present millage the city will have an income of over $100,000, and a majority of the taxpayers are protesting against that, so it is hardly likely that it will be increased to make up the amount needed.

Several members of the Carnegie library board were seen today, and all agreed that it would be necessary to have the full amount provided for the maintenance of that institution, and that as soon as it was needed council would be compelled to provide the money.

The income from the present levy will not begin until next December, and by that time the library will in all probability be in running order, and will, therefore, need the money pledged to its support.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL

Levy Fixed for the Ensuing Year the Same As Last Year.

The township board of education met at the office of the city clerk last evening. J. C. Croft, of district No. 3, and Wm. C. Thompson, of No. 4, were present; Hugh McFadden, of No. 5, alone being absent.

It was the object of the meeting to establish a school tax levy, and after giving the matter due consideration it was decided to make the levy the same as last year—three mills.

THREE PLAIN DRUNKS

Taken in Tow By the Police Last Night—Each Fined $1 And Costs.

Sound asleep Charles Amos and Doe Forthune were found yesterday afternoon lying on the ground in the old Fifth street cemetery. Both were helplessly intoxicated and Officer Mahoney and Patrolman Ruhe placed them under arrest. The patrol was summoned and the young men taken to the bastille, where they were held until this morning to sober up, when they were given a hearing.

Both pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs each. They gave orders on their wages and were allowed their liberty.

William Costello was arrested last night in Midway alley by Officer Mahoney. He was too drunk to navigate and the officer secured the services of the patrol to take the victim to jail. This morning he paid $1 and costs and went his way.

Duff Call, who was arrested Sunday afternoon and fined $5 and costs, was turned loose last night. He succeeded in raising the wherewithal necessary to square his account with the mayor.

AFRAID TO RISK IT

LOCAL SPORTS WILL NOT FIGHT CHICKENS ON LINE ISLAND.

The local sporting men who engineered the proposition for the holding of a cocking main on Line Island May 30 are beginning to weaken and show a disposition to call the affair off. One of the sports told a reporter that the threat of the authorities to interfere had caused many of the outside parties who were to take part in the main to withdraw, and for this reason it looked much as if the affair would be a fizzle even if an attempt was made to defy the officers.

However, it is generally believed the main has been declared off by reason of the timidity of the local parties connected with it, and that their inclination to "take water" has caused the outsiders to become dubious. It is understood that several Wellsville sports have agreed to risk the danger of arrest, but it is not known that their offer has been accepted.

The pugilistic contest proposed for May 30 has also been cancelled. The local "bruiser" was unable to make a match.

CARBOLIC ACID

ENDS THE LIFE OF MRS. PERRY SPIKER, OF SALEM.

Not Known Whether She Took the Drug Purposely or By Accident.

Salem, May 28.—Mrs. Rachel, wife of Perry Spiker, died yesterday afternoon. As far as can be learned, yesterday morning she took a large dose of carbolic acid, but whether it was with suicidal intent or whether it was accidental, cannot be stated with any degree of certainty for Mrs. Spiker never regained consciousness after she had taken the fatal drug.

For the past six months Mrs. Spiker has been ill with nervous prostration, kidney trouble and dyspepsia. During all of this time she has been taking medicine. She leaves a husband, one son and a daughter.

Patrick Connelly Taken Out Alive After Hope Had Been Abandoned.

FIRE BELL RANG AT NIGHT

By Smoke And Flame the Rescuers Finally Reached the Man By a Perilous Descent Through an Air Shaft And Took Him to Safety.

Salineville, May 28.—(Special.)—This city was thrown into a furor of excitement at a late hour last night as the result of a fire which broke out near the bottom of the shaft of the Big Vein coal mine. The continued ringing of the fire bell aroused almost the entire populace, who rushed to the scene of the blaze.

The report which became quickly circulated that Patrick Connelly was down in the mine augmented the excitement and great crowds gathered about the tippie in the hope that the imperiled man could be rescued before the fire reached him.

Connelly was tending a pump located near the bottom of the shaft, but as the blaze originated directly between him and the elevator, all chances of escape by the main entry were cut off. Great volumes of smoke poured out from the shaft and after repeated efforts on the part of the rescuing party to fight their way through it, the men were forced to turn back.

Then it was decided to gain entrance into the mine through an air shaft, which is located almost a mile back of the main entry; and after a leader had volunteered his services about 20 men followed him. Making their way to the small aperture, which is used for ventilating the mine, the men bravely descended by means of a ladder and with extreme difficulty made their way to the pump where Connelly was stationed.

It was with joyful surprise the rescuers found Connelly alive. During all the time the men had been at work at the top of the shaft he had battled with the flames below until almost exhausted. Connelly was taken to a place of safety and a renewed attack begun by the men who had ventured inside the mine. The fire was finally extinguished before any great damage resulted.

When the party of rescuers, together with Connelly, were finally drawn up to the top of the shaft, they were cheered to the echo. The mine has not been running lately, and consequently had become somewhat flooded with water. The men who rescued Connelly were drenched to the skin and suffered great exposure.

Two men have met death in the Big Vein mine within the past few years as the result of fire.

NEARLY LOST AN EYE

A Scale of Hot Iron Struck Jacob Shawke, Badly Injuring Him.

While engaged at turning a toe on a horseshoe at his blacksmith shop yesterday afternoon Jacob Shawke met with an accident which came near destroying the sight of one of his eyes. A huge scale from the red-hot iron hit his eye squarely on the ball and caused him excruciating pain.

No Showing of Oil in the Well Drilled on the Blazier Farm.

The oil well on the Blazier farm was drilled in yesterday with no sign of oil. There was a small amount of gas, but not of sufficient quantity to justify the company in piping it, so the casing will be withdrawn at once.

This is the well that the drillers felt certain would be a good producer, and the fact that it has come in dry, it is said, will cause the company to abandon the drilling of several wild cat wells that had been located in this vicinity.

EAST END

MEDDLED WITH GAS

AN EAST END LAD CAME NEAR BURNING TO DEATH.

Was Horribly Burned by Throwing a Lighted Match Up on a Leak.

Lloyd Strain, aged eight years, was almost fatally burned as a result of meddling with a leaking gas main yesterday afternoon. The skin and flesh hung in flakes from his legs and his face was seared almost to a crisp. He did not inhale any of the flame and it is thought he will recover.

The accident was caused by throwing a lighted match down an opening in the ground where there is a leaking main, near the corner of Mulberry street and Ohio avenue.

Lloyd Strain and Roy Meanor were playing near there. They had seen the gas burning out of the ground at that point before and concluded to light it again. They found the opening and the Strain boy knelt down with one knee across the slight crevice and lighted the match. He was instantly enveloped in the flame. The lad was wearing knee trousers and was in his bare feet. His feet and legs were the worst burned. His face and hands were also badly burned and his hair singed.

The boy ran to his home nearby and his father, Thomas Strain, hastily summoned Dr. Davis, who bathed the wounds in lime water and afterward dressed them in oil. This relieved the pain and the boy is resting easier today. His face and limbs are greatly swollen. The Meanor boy was not standing near enough to the crevice to receive any injury.

Given by the East End Daughters of Liberty.

The Daughters of Liberty held a very successful social and banquet in their hall on Mulberry street last evening.

A number of Senior Mechanics and Daughters of Liberty from the city proper were present, and the affair was a most enjoyable one.

The evening was passed at games and amusements until about 10:30, when the guests were treated to a sumptuous banquet. These socials are held frequently and are productive of much good in that they strengthen the fraternal feeling that inseparably links together these organizations whose objects are the same. The hall was handsomely decorated with bunting and lodge colors.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

A VARIETY OF TALES PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

Opinions And Observations of Interest As Noted By News Review Reporters.

Few men, indeed, have troubles such as Health Officer Burgess. Many of his experiences have found their way into print, but last evening the officer met with a circumstance which takes the lead in the long list of provoking situations with which he has been confronted.

A telephone message was received by "Uncle Jack" at the city hall from a woman in the West End, telling him that she was menaced by an abominable nuisance, and demanding that he give the matter his immediate attention.

Believing the case to be of an unusually pressing nature, Mr. Burgess immediately started for the West End and called on the woman. He explained his mission and asked where the nuisance was.

"Just come with me," the woman replied, "and I'll show you. It's just outrageous the way I have been pestered, and I don't want you to have any mercy on her."

The health officer began to get suspicious, but as the woman had then started off he reluctantly followed her. As they neared a small house, the female pointed to the place, exclaiming: "There's where she lives; now go for her!"

"What for?" asked the officer as he stopped in the road.

He was very much taken aback when informed that a colored woman who had lived in the dwelling alluded to had been staying up late of nights and playing an accordion which she had just purchased.

"Well, but where is the nuisance?" asked Mr. Burgess in tones of anguish. "I don't see anything wrong?"

"You don't! Just like you; I have been told by my neighbors that you shirk your duty, and now I know it. That woman is the worst kind of a nuisance. She plays miserable music and it spoils my singing; my husband has quit playing his banjo, my children won't touch the melodeon, and

A laughable incident occurred at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets the other evening. A very fleshy man who had run from the First National bank building to catch the car, boarded it, and was standing on the step. The conductor requested him to go on the inside of the car and he replied that he would when he got his breath. The conductor again told him to go on the inside so as to make room, and as the rear platform was crowded the gentleman asked why he didn't put the others in the car. The conductor then told him to get in or get off the car, and he replied that he would get off when he got ready. The motor-man was called to assist the conductor in putting him off, but they were unable to do so. After they got tired and desisted in their efforts the gentleman stepped off the car and walked down Fifth street.

Rev. C. G. Jordan on Sunday read an announcement from the pulpit which caused mild surprise among his congregation. It was a notice that the funeral of a certain lady who died on Saturday would take place on Monday. Nothing strange or unusual in that. The strange part lies in the fact that lady mentioned died four years ago, on a Saturday, and that the funeral occurred on the Monday following. How the mistake occurred can readily be conjectured.

When Fred Martin returned from the Philippines he brought with him a small animal which is known as a mongrel. He presented it to the boys at the fire station and they have erected a cage for it and now have it on exhibition. At present it is about the size of a rat, but Martin says it will grow to be about three feet long and a foot high. He says the animals are very plentiful on the islands.

A good story is told on Frank Jackson, of this city, by his friends. Sunday evening he accompanied a lady friend to her home near Walker's. As he was leaving the house a bull dog overtook him and he was compelled to make fast time as far as Jethro bridge, where the dog gave up the chase.

A well-known colored man is now known as "Hi Ki." It is claimed that a traveling showman induced him to make up as the wild man from Mexico and exhibit himself in that guise. Several claim to have recognized him and are giving him the laugh.

Tickets for the High School commencement exercises, to be held Friday evening, May 31, in the Opera House, will be on sale at Reed's drug store on and after Wednesday morning. The exercises open promptly at 8:15 p. m.

WELLSVILLE

Entered Into With Publishers By the Wellsville Board of Education.

At the meeting of the Wellsville board of education last evening a number of bills were ordered paid. The board decided on a list of books to be adopted and to enter into contracts with the companies publishing them to buy their books for five years. By this means a 25 per cent discount is secured. The advisability of establishing a book store in the school building was discussed. Several years ago this was tried and was not a success. The board decided not to try the experiment again.

In his report Prof. McDonald said there had been 1,250 pupils enrolled this year. There were 110 in the high school. During the month of April this fell to a total of 960, with 90 in the high school. In that month there were 14 cases of corporal punishment. The superintendent does not favor corporal punishment as a general thing. He says it marks weakness in the teacher.

The committee on building and repairs was ordered to employ some competent person to draw plans and estimates for reheating the Central school building. The board is now considering the matter of buying a piano. Miss Andrews' room will be closed after today on account of her sickness.

The commencement was then discussed. The price of admission will be 25 cents. There will be no reserved seats, except for members of the board.

After assigning $20 to the purchase of flowers for the vases in the school yards and signing the diplomas for the class of 1901 the board adjourned.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Mrs. Anna Gould went to Cleveland last evening.

J. S. Thompson and Miss Glenn were married last night by Justice Haney. The high school chorus had their first practice in the Christian church yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, who has been visiting here the past week, returned to her home in Cleveland yesterday.

That Low Animal, Man.

Instead of the highest, man is in some respects the lowest of the animal kingdom. Man is the most unchaste, the most drunken, the most egotistic, the most miserly, the most hypocritical and the most atrocious of living creatures. No animal, except man, kills for the mere sake of killing. For one being to take the life of another for purposes of selfish utility is bad enough, conscience knows, but the indiscriminate massacre of defenseless victims by armed and organized packs, just for pastime, is beyond characterization. The human species is the only species of animals that plunges to such depths of atrocity. Even vipers and hyenas do not kill for recreation.

No animal, except man, habitually seeks wealth purely out of an insane impulse to accumulate, and no animal, except man, gloats over accumulations that are of no possible use to him, that are an injury and an abomination and in whose acquisition he has committed irreparable crimes upon others. There are no millionaires—no professional, legalized, lifelong kleptomaniacs—among the birds and quadrupeds. No animal except man spends so large a part of his energies striving for superiority—not superiority in usefulness, but that superiority which consists in simply getting on the heads of one's fellows to crow—and no animal practices common, ordinary morality to the beings of the world in which he lives so little, compared with the amount he preaches it, as man.—Humane Review.

The Production of Caviare.

Two distinct varieties of caviare are manufactured in Russia—the granulated and the pressed forms. The granulated form is obtained by passing the fish roes under pressure through a fine meshed sieve. The small eggs pass intact, but the envelopes are retained in the sieve. To these pure salt is added in the proportion of one-twentieth or one-fortieth. It is intimately mixed with the eggs by means of a kind of wooden spoon. The caviare is then ready for consumption. It is packed in round metallic boxes of one and a half to five pounds and enveloped in parchment for transportation. The pressed caviare keeps better than the granulated form.

To obtain it the fresh caviare is treated with a solution of salt at 25 degrees Baume until the eggs acquire a certain degree of hardness. This operation requires considerable skill and experience. If allowed to stay in the solution too long, the caviare will be too salty, and if not long enough the eggs cannot be preserved. The caviare is then put into small sacks, which are pressed under a screw press to drive out the excess of salt. It is packed in barrels containing up to 1,000 pounds or left in the original sacks, which measure 8 by 20 inches. The average export of pressed caviare for the three years 1896 to 1898 has been more than 3,000 tons, representing a value of $1,400,000.—Scientific American.

Is not infrequently followed by a long, lenten period of enforced fasting and fleshly mortification. The cheek grows hollow, the eyes are dull and deep ringed, and the step is slow and languid. There is an "all dragged-out feeling," which makes life an utter burden.

The great functional changes which follow marriage are not usually anticipated, or the wifely suffering might be avoided.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best friend of weak and sickly women. It cures the womanly diseases that rob the eye of brightness and the step of lightness. It tones up the system and establishes the womanly organism on a basis of sound health.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotics. Accept no substitute. There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak and sickly women.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Goss, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do my work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

Young married women will find a lasting friend in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. It contains 1008 pages and is sent free (in paper cover), on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Cloth binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Lord Russell's Dilemma.

Once, when he first came to London and was laying the foundation of his great career, says a London letter, the future Lord Chief Justice Russell went to the pit of a theater. The piece was popular, the pit was crowded and the young advocate had only standing room. All of a sudden a man at his side cried out that his watch was stolen. Mr. Russell and two other men were hemmed in.

"It is one of you three," cried the man minus the watch.

"Well, we had better go out and be searched," said Mr. Russell, with the alertness of mind that did not fail him at a trying moment amid an excited crowd. A detective was at hand, and the suggestion was accepted. As Mr. Russell walked out the idea flashed through his mind that if the man behind him had the stolen property he would probably try to secrete it in the pocket of his front rank man. Quick as thought he drew his coat tails about him—only to feel, to his horror, something large and smooth and round already in his pocket.

While he was still wondering what this might mean for him, the detective energetically seized the hindmost man, exclaiming: "What, you rascal! At it again!" To Mr. Russell and the other man he apologized and bade them go free.

But Mr. Russell, before he had taken many steps, reflected that he could not keep the watch. He went back to the box office and explained, with a courage on which he afterward said he rarely experienced greater demands, that though he did not take the watch he had it. So saying, he put his hand into his pocket and pulled out—a forgotten snuffbox.

The Panama Hat.

"The cheapest straw hat to buy," said a man who owns a beauty, "is, after all, a Panama, like this. Look here." He took down his big white hat, which was creased down the middle like a pair of trousers, and rolled it up tight; then he tossed it in the air. With a cracking sound it spread open and fluttered down to the floor in its original shape, deep center crease and all. "You could soak this hat for a week," he continued, "and iron it out flat afterward, but when you came to put it on again it would be just as you see it now."

"Women in Mexico and roundabout all that region make the hats, using straw that has been selected with more care than I could tell you of. The art has been handed down in their families from one generation to another, and it is a secret art, unknown to any other people in the world."

"These women, living so far away from everything, are ignorant of the fashions, and that is why the hats never change their ugly shape. If they were fashionably made, the demand for them would be enormous. As it is, hatters travel through all that country and buy them up at good prices."

"The perfect Panama hat costs at least $30, and if you should pay $50 for a big and unusually light one you would not be getting stuck."—Philadelphia Record.

CONSTITUTION AND FLAG.

The decision of the supreme court on the status of the island of Porto Rico is a just and rational one, as well as one of the highest importance. It disposes at once and forever of a Democratic contention that the administration has acted or attempted to act unjustly or unwarrantably in regard to the government of our insular possessions, and at the same time it upholds the action of congress in framing laws adapted to the needs of the people of the islands. It would be a serious handicap and embarrassment to the nation if it were compelled to enact laws for the Philippines or Porto Rico, which, when passed, would likewise be in effect in the western territories of this country. In effect it sustains the position taken by leading Republican statesmen and lawyers that these new possessions are not a part of the United States, in the sense that the constitution extends to them, but they are what is described in that document as "territory belonging to the United States," and subject to the laws enacted by congress for the especial purpose of governing such territory.

Summarized briefly, the points of the several decisions are these: Porto Rico was foreign territory under the original military occupation. It became domestic by the cession provided by the treaty of Paris, but did not thereby become subject to American tariff duties. It became subject to tariff duties by an explicit act of congress. This is good law as well as good sense. It is in line with precedents, from Jefferson's day to the present time. Under it there will be no obstacle to the United States giving its insular possessions the right sort of laws to meet existing conditions and to help them in political, social, educational and industrial advancement.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER.

Buffalo has a society known as the Order of Don't Knock. "To knock" is a slang phrase equivalent to saying "to backbite," "to obstruct," "to make sport of" or "to utter loud and senseless objections." To be a knocker is to be an anti and a disagreeable person. There are knockers in every political party, in every social organization, and, we greatly fear, in every church. The object of the Buffalo society is to discourage and suppress the knocker and induce its members to live up to the golden rule.

The creed to which the members of the Order of Don't Knock subscribe is as broad as the mantle of charity and every paragraph of it contains a sermon. It declares the habit of "knocking" to be detestable, unbrotherly and uncharitable; that it ruins lives and makes many hearts miserable; that it is done thoughtlessly oftener than maliciously; that a simple little knock unthinkingly made often grows to be more cruel than a knife plunged into the vitals; that a persistent, deliberate knocker is as vile and as dangerous to the welfare of a community as a murderer.

There is plenty of missionary work ahead of the Order of Don't Knock, and if it lives up to its professions it ought to be useful to itself and to the world.

DEMOCRACY'S DICTATOR.

"This," says the Ohio State Journal, "will be John R. McLean's third assault upon the United States senate, and very likely his last. The legislature to be chosen in 1902 will have the election of the successor to Senator Hanna, but the chances are that if Mr. McLean falls down this time he will retire a poorer and a much wiser man. Beginning with today, there will be agents dispatched all over Ohio in the interest of the Washington gas millionaire. Their duties will be two-fold—to look after the platform declarations and see to the nomination and support of members of the general assembly who will vote for McLean for senator." The Democracy of Ohio professes to be afraid of bosses and plutocrats. Yet it is apparently willing to be led around by the nose by John R. McLean. And if there is a worse type of the plutocrat and the boss than this same McLean, it would be difficult to find him. What has become of the old-time spirit of Democracy, that the men belonging to the party are willing to have a man whose interests are mainly outside of Ohio and who has not resided in the state for years, dictating policies and platforms for them?

The Presbyterian general assembly has decided that the Presbyterian creed must be revised. Nine-tenths of the progressive churchmen of the country will probably agree that it has decided wisely.

The failure of Mary Elizabeth Lease is inexplicable. Had her husband failed everybody would have said that he could not attend to business and tend the baby at the same time.

Pittsburg has something to think about. And the fellows who are to be ousted from office by the ripper law are probably indulging in long, long thoughts.

CLEANINGS OF A DAY

THE LOCAL POTTERIES

President Hughes left last evening for Ford City, where he will remain for several days.

The official would not state the object of his visit, although it is understood he went in the interest of the new local soon to be formed in that place. A great deal of work will be necessary before the organization can be placed in working order.

The present force operating the plant are not at all familiar with the workings of labor organizations, and some plan will have to be adopted whereby they can be put through a course of training.

The applications for jobs from outside towns continue to pour into the office of Ford City as well as at Brotherhood headquarters here, and it is thought that by the time this new material is properly installed in the various departments of the pottery the work of organizing can be proceeded with.

Robert Sodaker, a saggermaker at the National plant, is receiving congratulations from the other employees on opening up the bathing season earlier than usual. Last evening while examining his trot line, the skiff tipped and he took a headlong dive before he hardly knew what had happened. He says the effect of the bath was very exhilarating and suggests that much good would result if the other employees would do likewise. They, however, seem to be content to have the laugh on Robert.

Charles F. Tribolet, a slipmaker at Knowles, Taylor & Knowles, received a telegram Sunday which announced the death of a sister at New Washington, O. He left yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral, the arrangements for which had not yet been made.

The East End pottery team and the motormen started to play the much-talked of game on the ground to the rear of the Laughlin No. 2 plant yesterday afternoon. The game was called off at the third inning on account of rain. The score stood 7 to 3 in favor of the pottery team.

A new kiln, to be erected at a cost of $2,500, is shortly to be installed at the plant of the Tatler Decorating company in Trenton. The kiln is to be of English manufacture and origin and is expected to effect a revolution in the firing of decorated ware.

M. Mills, who has been employed at the E. M. Knowles supply works, resigned his position Saturday, and left for Belleville, W. Va., where he will accept a position as brakeman on the railroad.

Miss Bessie Woods, who has been employed in the warehouse at the Dresden, resigned her position Saturday and left last night for her home at Spencer, Ind.

The French China company's new pottery at Sebring is progressing rapidly and is now ready for the roof. It will be completed by July 1, of no unfavorable conditions prevent.

J. W. Clark, of Lincoln avenue, left this morning for Anderson, Ind., where he has been engaged to build two decorating kilns in the pottery at that town.

Herbert Smith, of Pleasant Heights, left for Ford City yesterday, where he has accepted a position as jiggerman with the Ford City China company.

William Baker has returned from Sebring where he has been employed for some time and has taken a position as dishmaker at the Buckeye.

John Brunt has returned from Findlay, O., where he was engaged as a presser. He will seek a position in this city.

Samuel Hayes has moved his family to this city. Mr. Hayes will take a dish bench at the China works.

W. A. Rhodes has returned from an eastern trip in the interests of Knowles, Taylor & Knowles.

Horace Ross, of Wheeling, has taken a position as kilnhand at the Chetwynd pottery.

S. O. Fox, of Findlay, was looking for a position at the East End potteries yesterday.

NOTICE TO POTTERS.

On and after July 1 we wish to conduct a strictly union Brotherhood factory at Western Uniform scale of wages; we will want journeymen jiggermen, pressers, dippers, kilnhands, printers, saggermakers, packers and coopers; we will also need experienced fillers-in, gilders, decalcomania works, etc.; we, therefore, prefer married men for the above situations who have girls or boys that are accustomed to working at any of the above branches throughout the pottery; we can give steady work and desire only people steady in their habits. Send all applications direct to Ford China Co., Ford City, Pa., and for any additional information apply to A. S. Hughes or T. J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, O. 292-s

GREAT BUSINESS

Being Done By the Towboats on the Ohio River on the Present High Water.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke company, of Pittsburgh, took advantage of the water early yesterday and started 10 towboats south with tows of coal. The towboats departing with tows were as follows: Dave Wood, 15 coalboats, 2 barges of iron; Dick Fulton, 21 coalboats, 1 barge of iron and 5 of coal; Belle McGowan, 10 coalboats; Hornet, 10 coalboats; Fred Wilson, 11 coalboats, 3 barges of iron and 4 of coal; Ed Roberts, 11 coalboats, 3 barges of iron and 4 of coal; Valiant, 12 coalboats, 2 barges of iron, 2 of coal; Acorn, 10 coalboats; Clifton, 8 boats, 2 barges; Nellie Walton, 10 coalboats. A total of 108 coalboats, 21 barges and 11 of manufactured products constituted the day's shipment. The run of coal yesterday approximated about 3,000,000 bushels. The coal combination will send 225 coalboats before Saturday. The company expects to have shipped 7,000,000 bushels by Saturday.

The following boats passed this city yesterday and today: Down—Acorn, Fred Wilson, Charley Hook, Tom Dodsforth, Charley Clarke, Hornet and Dave Wood. Up—Volunteer. The Keystone State and Ben Hur passed down last night, and the Queen City will go up and Kanawha down tonight.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 20 feet and rising very slowly, but it is thought there is no more water to come.

The Peoples Coal company has let a contract to Edward Howard, of Jeffersonville, Ind., for the construction of a towboat. It will be about the same size as the Tornado and will be equipped with engines having 17½-inch cylinders and a 6-foot stroke. It is said that the same company has specifications out for two more towboats. One of the boats will be about the same size and power as the Joseph B. Williams. The company now owns or controls the W. C. Jutte, R. L. Aubrey, Two Brothers and Ford City. The company is opening extensive coal properties in the fourth pool and has some in operation.

His Employer Settled.

TWENTY-ONE DEAD.

Explosion of Coal Dust In a Tennessee Mine Fearfully Destructive.

NINE ARE FATALLY BURNED

Four Men Escaped With Slight Injuries—Most of the Dead Men Were Married and Had Families—Sorrowful Scenes.

Dayton, Tenn., May 28.—At the Richmond mine of the Dayton Coal and Iron company, about two miles from Dayton, a terrific explosion of coal dust resulted in the death of 21 men, all while, and most of them married and with families.

The explosion was caused by what is known among miners as a "blown blast." It is the custom of the miners to place blasts and fire them off at quitting time each afternoon, leaving the coal thus thrown down to be loaded and hauled from the mine next morning. The Richmond mine is destitute of water and great volumes of fine particles of coal dust, invisible to the naked eye, accumulate. This will explode if exposed to flames. A dynamite cartridge was placed in position for a blast and the miners started for the mouth of the mine. The blast did not explode as expected, and instead a long flame shot out of the blast hole and ignited the accumulation of dust. Instantly a terrific explosion occurred and a seething mass of flames shot to the mouth of the mine and extended about 300 feet into the open air, scorching the leaves of nearby trees. Thirty-four men were in the mine at the time. Four of these escaped with slight injury. Twenty-one were killed and nine were fatally burned, most of them fatally. The force of the explosion caused great masses of coal and slate to cave in from the roof of the mine and many fated miners were completely buried.

Word quickly reached Dayton and rescue forces were at once organized and proceeded to the mine. One by one the blackened and horribly disfigured bodies were taken from the debris and carried to the mouth of the mine, whence they were taken to Dayton. Scores of relatives and friends gathered at the mouth of the mine and the shrieks of anguish as the bodies were removed were heart-rending.

Irish Lacemaking.

After the famine of 1847 lacemaking was revived in Ireland. Limerick, the most successful Irish lace, is not really a lace at all. It is tambour work upon net and muslin.

The Irish point, so called, is the ancient cut work, being made in quite the same way.

Net was first made by machinery in 1768. The machine was an adaptation of the stocking loom to lacemaking and was cumbersome and not very effective. In 1809 John Heathcote, a farmer's son, evolved from consciousness and experience the first machine to make true bobbinet with perfect six sided holes. It brought a great hue and cry about his ears from lacemakers, who fancied they saw themselves thus reduced to beggary.

The Luddites broke into the factory where the machines were first set up and made scrap iron and kindling wood of them. The only result was to drive the new manufacture to other and safer quarters. For long the secret of the machine's construction was most jealously guarded by English manufacturers. Not satisfied with letters patent they kept up a coast patrol to make sure that nobody took model or drawings to France.

At last, though, they were outwitted. A discharged workman who had the plan of it in his mind managed to get safe over sea and build a machine in France.

Sort of a Cannibal.

An old farmer for many years got his dinner on market days at a small hotel kept by a widow.

She had long suspected that he ate more than the price (1s. 6d.) warranted, so she determined to test him. She accordingly arranged matters so that there was no room for him at table, but she took him into a private room the table of which was graced by a steaming leg of mutton. He set to in good earnest, and soon nothing was left but the bones.

Highly delighted with his cheap feed, on passing the bar he tendered 2 shillings for his dinner and a quart of ale.

The widow declined to take any payment on the ground of having inconvenienced him so much.

Chuckling to himself, the farmer lifted down his market basket from a hook, and, finding it rather light, he tore off the covering and shouted:

"Here, Mrs. Brown, where's my leg o' mutton?"

"Why, ye old silly," said the widow, "ye have ate your leg for your dinner!"

THE PURSUIT OF A SONG

By FRANCIS LIVINGSTON

singing. Bring it to me, and I will give you this. And I showed her a bill.

The woman eyed me with no friendly gaze. "Phwat's that you're after sayin'?" she asked grimly.

I repeated the words impatiently. The woman opened the iron door.

"Step inside," she said.

The instant I was within she closed the door and set her back against it.

A heavy, blue coated figure appeared from the inner regions.

"I'd loike you to clap your eyes on this gent." The woman held me tightly by the coat sleeve. "It's wan of thim burglars as was here last week, I'm sure," she went on, "tryin to bribe me wid his dirty money to leave me post an go up shairs on a fool's errand."

"What do you want here?" asked the bluecoat fiercely.

I scarcely heard what he said. The singer was in the second part, approaching the change. "La, ra, ra, rumpty." I accompanied, beating time with my finger. "Now it goes back into lah lah. Isn't it beautiful?"

"I think he's dopy," said the policeman.

"Deed an he isn't thin; he knows well enough what he's about. Watch him, Mike, 'at he don't make a break."

"Didn't your young miss see wan of thim in the dinin room?"

"Yis, an bad he frightened her; a well dressed chap he was, too, Miss Lucy said. Belike this is the very wan."

Both the cook and the policeman now held me fast by either arm.

"Now, me man," said the bluecoat, "up stairs wid ye, an don't ye try any funny business, either."

This was more than I had dared hope for. But at the foot of the stairs I had a fright. The singer had finished my song and immediately began another, something that sounded like an Italian aria. Perhaps she could not understand me, and I would have to go through with the Pstro primo business again.

"Does your mistress speak English?" I asked, hurrying my steps.

"Deed she does, thin, as you'll soon find out," said the cook.

In the upper hall as we approached the drawing room door she began to speak: "Miss Lucy, don't be frightened, me am. We've got a foine bird here, me an me cousin Mike. We think it's wan of thim burglars."

We stood in the doorway, I fast pinned between the angry cook and the big policeman. The song broke off short. A beautiful young woman started up from the piano with a little cry:

"Burglars! Honora, what do you mean?"

At sight of me she gave a start and leaned against the piano, very pale.

"Will you just take a look at him, miss, an see if it is the wan? I caught him at the area gate just now, an he had the face to thry to bribe me to go up shairs an ax you the name of the song you was singin. Fort'nitly me cousin Mike, me am, bein off post, had just dropped in for a cup of tay, an together we overpowered him, me am."

"How very strange!" murmured the young lady, but her color was returning.

I bowed and said with such dignity as I could command:

"I deeply regret, mademoiselle, to have startled you. Will you hear me a moment? For weeks I have sought vainly a beautiful song I once heard. I could only stare at her dumbly.

"It is you, then," I at length found voice to say—"you who have written this lovely song?" I had entirely forgotten the burglarious episode. "How I must have frightened you! Can you forgive me?"

What need to tell all that followed of this most delightful call? When I departed, I carried with me a manuscript copy of the song. And in telling its story I have quite forgotten to mention the lady's name. It was Lucy—the rest does not matter, for it is Lucy Wheatleigh now—and it was surprising how little alteration was required to make of "Barbara's Marriage Bells" a wedding march, which was played at our wedding. Even as I write I hear my wife's voice singing that dear song and so softly, so soothingly, that I think—yes, I am quite sure—it is a lullaby.

proachfully: "Honora, you have made a mistake. Go down stairs with your cousin, please, and leave this gentleman to me."

The cook departed, shaking her head ominously and taking with her her embarrassed relative.

The young lady asked me sweetly to be seated. "You heard me singing a song?" she said, turning over the leaves of her music. "I wonder which one it could have been?"

"I know not by what name to call it," I said, "but all other songs are so poor beside it that to me it is the only song in the world."

"Indeed it must be beautiful. Is it this, perhaps?" She touched a few notes gently—the Italian aria.

"No, no—not that! My song goes like this: 'Lah lah!'"

She began to laugh. "Don't!" she said. "It reminds me of something funny I once heard."

I think it was then, when she laughed, that I first noticed how beautiful she was. I asked her what it was that had amused her.

For answer she began to play it softly—my song. Her laughing eyes looked questioningly into mine. I nodded yes vigorously. I would not interrupt her by a sound. Then she sang it through. When she had finished, I could hardly speak except to say, "How beautiful!" and to ask its name.

"What a charming name! And the composer?"

"The composer," she continued, "is a young woman quite unknown to fame."

"Will you just take a look at him, miss?" She wrote the song last summer, and it was sung at a musicale in Newport and afterward played at the Casino there. One of the members of the Casino orchestra directed the band at Vicar's restaurant here for a time this winter, and it was played there."

"Yes; that's where I heard it," I interjected.

"The young lady thought her song had aroused no interest whatever?"

"What?" I cried indignantly.

"—until one day she was surprised to hear an Italian street musician playing it?"

"Yes, yes; mangling it!"

"She stopped to listen, and when the man had finished an excited gentleman ran up and was ready to beat the man because he could not induce him to play the song again."

"Why, that was me!" I cried, heedless of grammar.

"The young lady was accompanied by her cousin, who, it seems, knew this gentleman's sister. She said his name was Mr. Wheatleigh."

"Yes, yes; pardon me"—I was fumbling for a card—"but this young composer—this gifted creature—if I could only meet her to tell her!"

"Tonight she was somewhat startled by having this same excited gentleman arrested at her door as a burglar, all for giving another proof of his admiration for her little song."

I could only stare at her dumbly.

"It is you, then," I at length found voice to say—"you who have written this lovely song?" I had entirely forgotten the burglarious episode. "How I must have frightened you! Can you forgive me?"

What need to tell all that followed of this most delightful call? When I departed, I carried with me a manuscript copy of the song. Effect of Military Toys.

The military toys of France are marvels of art. The costumes of the soldiers alone are worthy of a study. Take up a box representing the wars of Caesar. The dresses of the Roman soldiers are perfect. It is the same with those devoted to the campaigns of Alexander and Napoleon. The siege of Orleans in 1490 and the battle of Pavia in 1525 are really works of art.

For a franc the youthful French warrior can purchase the battles of Woerth, Gravelotte, St. Privat and Bazelles and move the opposing armies according to a plan set down in the accompanying book of instructions. Coming to a later period, he can "make the campaigns" in Tonquin, Madagascar and even those that are supposed to have taken place in China for the small sum of tenpence.

One has but to stand and watch the sparkling eyes of the children as they contemplate these dummy soldiers to understand why Frenchmen are so fond of shouting "Vive l'armee!"—Paris Messenger.

I could not move without suffering, and often could neither sit, stand or lie for pain. The secretions of the kidneys went wrong and distressed and annoyed me both night and day. I took medicines for two years, but did not get well. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy. THE RIPPER LEGAL.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Sustained the Act.

DEAN STORMILY DISSENTS

He is Backed Up by McCollum and Mestrezat—Mitchell Delivered the Opinion—Sustained by Fell, Brown and Potter—Effects Three Cities.

Philadelphia, May 28.—In an exhaustive opinion handed down by Justice Mitchell, the supreme court of Pennsylvania sustains the constitutionality of the famous second-class city "ripper," which completely changes the form of government in Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Scranton. Justice Mitchell is sustained in his opinion by Justices Fell, Brown and Potter, but a stormy dissenting opinion was filed by Justice McCollum and concurred in by Justice Mestrezat. The act took out of office the mayor and other municipal officials and gave the governor the right to appoint "recorders" for the three cities, to serve until 1903. Mayor Moir, of Scranton, was promptly named as recorder for his city, and at once began amicable proceedings in the Lackawanna court to test the constitutionality of the act. That court decided in favor of the governor's right to appoint, and it is this decision that the supreme court has sustained.

Have No Vested Rights.

Justice Mitchell's opinion holds that municipal corporations have no vested rights in their offices, their corporate powers, their charters or their corporate existence. "They are created, governed, and the extent of their powers," he declares, "are determined by the legislature and are subject to change, repeal or total abolition at its will." Justice Mitchell continued: "The fact that the action of the state towards its municipal agents is wise, unjust, oppressive or violative of the natural or political rights of its citizens is not one which can be made the basis of action by the judiciary. The rule of the law upon this subject appears to be that except where the constitution has imposed limits upon the legislative power, it must be considered as practically absolute, whether it operates according to natural justice or not in any particular case."

"The courts are not the guardians of the rights of the people of the state except as those rights are secured by some constitutional provision which comes within the judicial cognizance. The protection against wise and oppressive legislation within constitutional bounds is by an appeal to the representative of the people. This fall the people in their sovereign capacity can correct the evil, but the courts cannot assume their rights."

Regarding the constitutionality of the act under consideration the opinion says the only power of the court is to discover what, if any, provision of the constitution it violates. Justice Mitchell admits that the act is manifestly imperfect, but says that they do not make it unconstitutional, and adds: "The effect may be to leave the affairs of the cities in a state of very regrettable confusion, but it has not been shown that the municipal government cannot be administered, notwithstanding."

This a Legislative Question.

To the objection that the act makes improper classification in the method of filling municipal offices, the court holds that this is a legislative and not a judicial question, and further says regarding the danger of interfering with existing methods of classification: "It is urged that this act violates the spirit of the constitution in these provisions, and that general intent which preserves to the people the right of local self-government. The objection is serious, and there can be no denial that some of the provisions of the schedule infringe upon that which the citizens generally are accustomed to regard as their political rights. But our view must be confined closely and exclusively to the constitution."

A further objection made is that the act removes an elected officer, the mayor, from office during the term of which he was elected, by a mere change in the name of the office. The court grants a new charter to the city, imposing a new form of government, is conceded, even though the act is to abolish the office and to appoint the officer of his place. The objection that even if the appointment of a recorder were valid it is void for want of confirmation of the senate, is based on section 3 of article IV of the constitution, and is sufficient to say that the section has no application to municipal officers.

Not For Courts to Declare.

The most earnest consideration of the objections to the act of 1901 has convinced us that they are not such as to authorize the courts to declare the act void for conflict with the constitution, but must be addressed only to the legislature and their constituents.

The dissenting opinion filed by Justice Dean and concurred in by Justices McCollum and Mestrezat says in part: "If this act were not clearly in conflict with the fundamental law, or if the consequences to which the judgment if it affected only the immediate parties to it, and would not serve as a precedent for future cases, I would feel myself called upon to dissent. But all these reasons exclude themselves. It is not without regret that I feel constrained to express a dissent from the judgment. To uphold this act is palpably unconstitutional, because it violates section

7 of article III of that instrument, which section is as follows: 'The general assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts, incorporated cities, towns or villages, or changing their charters—creating offices or prescribing the powers and duties of officers in counties, cities, boroughs, townships, election or school districts.'

Many authorities are quoted by Justice Dean in support of his contention that the act comes under the head of special legislation. Continuing, he said in part:

"By our decision in the case before us we are going a step beyond anything heretofore allowed in the line of special legislation. It is purely a question of law whether section 7 of the constitution has been violated. Yet we, in effect, say it is the province of the legislature to decide the question, and that we will not inquire into it. This, on our part, is a great mistake. I would not encroach one inch on the authority of the legislature, but I would not allow that body, nor the executive, to encroach one inch on ours. We have now before us an act which, it is true, does not take one man's land and give it to another, but it does take from one set of men the offices given them by the people, hands them over to the governor, that he may confer them on others. Here we should call a halt upon such unconstitutional usurpation of power."

"What the next step in this direction will be we can only conjecture. Factional politics and partisan politics are not troubled by scruples; under the principles of this decision there is nothing to hinder a hostile partisan majority in the legislature from ousting the party in power in Philadelphia, a city of the first class, and placing its government in the possession of the minority power. The time is not very remote in the past in English politics when the victorious political party, as soon as it was seated in power, promptly proceeded to cut off the physical heads of their leading antagonists and confiscate their property; it is not very remote in the future when the victorious party will promptly proceed to cut off the political heads of its opponents when they hold office by the municipal votes of the people."

"I fear the time is not far distant when the pernicious results of our decision will either bring about that constitutional amendment or remedy the mischief or move us to overrule it."

"Every member of this court concedes that this legislation is vicious. Why? They do not answer. But, to my mind, it is apparent that its vice consists in its flagrant violation of the fundamental law. We know its purpose was to oust one set of officers in three certain cities, put in place, either directly or indirectly, by the people, and give their offices to others through the chief executive of the state. This is the inevitable result from the bill itself. Can we assume that our lawmakers do not intend the obvious results of their acts?"

See Gooseberry For New Ships.

It may be ungenerous to dispel a popular delusion, but there is no one among the thousands who witness a ship launch who does not believe that the beautifully garlanded bottle of wine broken against the stem of a ship is anything but the choicest brand of champagne drawn from the admiral's cellar. Whenever a ship is launched in a dockyard, the admiralty generously allow $40 as the cost of the jubilation, and included in this sum of $40 is the item of 3 shillings for wine. Hence it follows that not only is the wine not drawn from the admiral's cellar, but it certainly is not champagne of foreign vintage.—English Navy and Military Record.

If Dame Rumor is to be believed, the dramatization of Mr. Booth Tarkington's novel "Monsieur Beaucaire" was the cause of a temporary deadlock between that distinguished but erratic actor, Richard Mansfield, and Mrs. Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, the lady to whom was intrusted the task of preparing the story for the stage. According to the report, Mrs. Sutherland resented Mr. Mansfield's dogmatic manner of "suggesting" changes in the manuscript. She smothered her wrath for some time, but at length refused point blank to yield a certain point. Now, it is an axiom in the "perfect" that no one can defy Mansfield and live in the same artistic atmosphere with him. Nevertheless the dramatist did defy him, and what is perhaps more to the point, she seems to be doing pretty well, thank you, both physically and professionally. In short, the differences, whatever they may have been, have been amicably adjusted, and "Monsieur Beaucaire" is to be produced according to the original schedule in Philadelphia next October. Thence it will be brought to New York, where it will be given a short run. "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be followed by Mansfield's production of "Herod," Stephen Phillips' poetic tragedy.

The statement with reference to the Mansfield-Sutherland differences is based upon rumor, but the outline of Mr. Mansfield's plans for the two plays is based upon fact.

Miss Maud Jeffries, for many years favorably known as the leading woman of the Wilson Barrett company, has dropped out of sight so far as this country is concerned. Miss Jeffries is an American girl. She was born, I think, in Mississippi and reared in Tennessee, but most of her stage experience has been gained abroad, principally in the English "provinces." She came over here with Mr. Wilson Barrett on his last two trips and created a most favorable impression, although there was a lack of authority in her work which most persons attributed to inexperience. When Mr. Barrett returned to England, Miss Jeffries went along and appeared with him in the "provinces," as well as in London, in "The Sign of the Cross" and in "Daughters of Babylon."

Mr. Barrett once told me that in his opinion Miss Jeffries was one of the coming great actresses of the world, but events have not borne out his estimate of her ability. She has talent and "temperament" beyond a doubt, but there is something about her method which deprives her work of conviction. It is possible that now that Miss Jeffries is freed from the artistic

MAUD JEFFRIES.
Influence of an actor whose limitations are narrower even than her own she will develop into something more than a merely acceptable leading woman.

The acquisition by Harrison Grey Fiske, editor and proprietor of The Dramatic Mirror, of the lease of the Manhattan theater, in this city, is an event of more than passing importance to our theatrical interests. Of even greater import is the announcement by Mr. Fiske that the house will be occupied during the greater portion of each season by his wife, Minnie Madden Fiske. This lady stands artistically head and shoulders above any actress in this country. It is Mrs. Fiske's intention to produce several new plays, beginning next fall. Like the true artist, she does not seek to win a little cheap applause from the unthinking by the announcement that she will present the works only of American authors. Native dramatists will, of course, have "first call" with Mrs. Fiske, but art knows no geographical lines, and the man who writes the good play will be the man to get a hearing at the Manhattan theater.

Mrs. Fiske, because of her independence in refusing to be dictated to by the theatrical powers that be, has been forced in many cities into theaters in which stars of the first magnitude seldom play; but, despite that handicap, there are very few attractions in this country which have made more money this season. This is mentioned merely to show that the public will always pay to see the best acting, the pessimists who assert to the contrary notwithstanding. A few more Fiskes in the United States would make the present well nigh intolerable conditions in the theatrical business impossible.

KICKED TO DEATH

Christian Stahl, of Navarre, the Victim of Masked Burglars Saturday.

Alliance, May 28.—Word reached Alliance yesterday of a brutal murder which occurred near Navarre late Saturday night, the victim being Christian Stahl, a respected citizen and well-to-do bachelor farmer who resided with his sister, Christina Stahl.

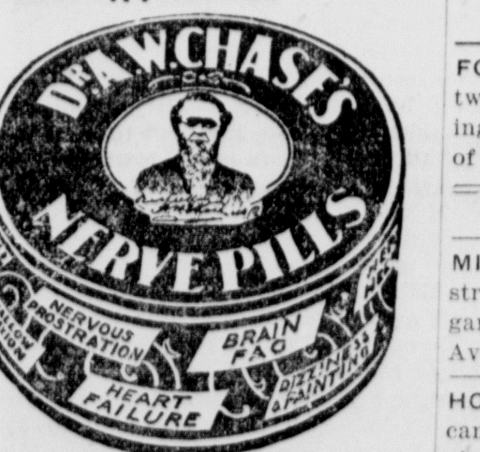

Hearing a knock at the door about 9 o'clock Miss Stahl opened and was at once confronted by two masked men, who pushed their way in, bound the inmates, Miss Stahl and her niece, Flora Stahl, and Mr. Stahl. The men kicked Stahl to keep him quiet and he died of the injury in a short time. A posse and bloodhounds are scouring the country.

Nerve Slavery.

It is present-day conditions—heaping burdens of work upon the nervous system that tells the story—premature breaking up of health.

It tells why so many men and women, who so far as age in years is concerned, should be in the prime of health, find themselves letting go of the strength, the power, the vitality they once possessed. It is because that great motor power of the body, nerve force, is impaired. Every organ depends upon its controlling power just as much as the engine depends upon the steam to put it into action. An engine won't go without steam. Neither will the heart, the brain, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach act right without their proper nerve force supply. Let any organ be lacking in this essential and troubles begin—some of them are:

Throbbing, palpitating heart.
Sleepless nights.
Sudden startings.
Morning languor.
Brain fog.
Inability to work or think.
Exhaustion on exertion.
Flagging appetite.
Digestion slow.
Food heavy.
Easily excited, nervous, irritable.
Strength fails.
Loss of flesh and muscular power.
Settled melancholia.
Utter despondency.

The Astor Butcher Trust.
From the northern end of Chatham square starts the Bowery, and a few steps from its commencement is the building now used as a German theater, which was once the Old Bowery. Before the Bowery theater and previous to the Revolution the same site occupied by a building which has a place in history because Washington slept in it. This was the Bull's Head tavern. Being close by the city slaughter houses, all the butchers who came to town stopped at this inn, making it the first commercial inn of its day. During the Revolution Henry Astor, brother of John Jacob Astor, owned the Bull's Head tavern. He leased it to Richard Varian. But Varian went privateering and left the inn to be conducted by his wife.

Astor was a butcher and conducted his business in the Fly market in Maiden lane. He incurred the enmity of all the butchers in the town by conceiving the brilliant idea of riding far out along the Bowery lane, meeting the drovers as they brought their cattle to town and buying their stock, which he sold to the other butchers at his own price. As the lane was really the only road to the city, Astor in this way formed a trust and prospered for many years. The inn, too, prospered until 1826, when it gave place to the Bowery theater.—Home Journal.

PRESIDENT PLEASED.

Gratified That the Supreme Court Sustained Government's Contention.

OPINION OF GEN. RICHARDS

Tax Provisions of Constitution Decided to Not Apply to Acquired Territory—Dingley Law Cannot Apply to Porto Rico, but Foraker Act May.

Sidney, Neb., May 28.—The president and the cabinet received the official information here that the supreme court had decided the insular cases in accordance with the contentions of the government. The news came in the shape of a telegram from Solicitor General John K. Richards. It was brief, however, and contained no details beyond the bare announcement that the administration had been sustained. Naturally the president and cabinet officers were elated over the victory, although they have never doubted that the decision would be in favor of the government. The members of the cabinet aboard the train declined to express their opinions for publication in advance of a perusal of the text of the opinion.

The court held that the decision simply made Porto Rico and the Philippines domestic territory of the United States, subject to the full control of congress, which control could be exercised without reference to those limitations. This limitation the court held was intended to apply to the states of the union and does not apply to acquired territory, unless by treaty, and by subsequent act of congress it is incorporated within and becomes an integral part of the United States. The decisions are substantially a victory for the government. They sustain to the fullest extent the so-called insular policy of the administration. The government now has the sanction of the supreme court for governing these islands as their needs require. The court holds that the constitution did not of its own force at once apply to those ceded territories, placing their people, their products and their ports on an immediate equality with ours and conferring upon them all the rights, privileges and immunities enjoyed by the people, products and ports of the several states. While their fundamental rights are preserved by those underlying principles of the constitution which apply everywhere the status of their citizens and the nature of the customs and commercial regulations are to be determined by congress in the exercise of the power vested by the constitution in congress to make all needful rules and regulations respecting territory belonging to the United States. Obviously what I have said regarding Porto Rico applies equally well to the Philippines, so that the president is perfectly free under the Spooner act to govern the Philippines as their needs and their interests may require.

Dingley Act Don't Apply.

"At the same time that the court has sustained to the fullest extent the contention of the government in these cases it has decided as a matter of statutory construction that the Dingley act could not be held to impose duties on goods brought from Porto Rico, because by cession Porto Rico became domestic territory of the United States and therefore ceased to be "a foreign country." The decisions of the court call for no change in the administration of the law. The court did not decide what is known as the second Dooley case, which involved the validity of the collection of duties under the Foraker act on goods taken into Porto Rico from the United States. While I have no information on the subject, it may be that the court thinks there is involved in that case another question as to whether such duties would not amount to duties on articles exported from a state. The court also failed to dispose of what is popularly known as the 14 diamond rings case, involving the entry free of duty of rings brought into the United States by a returning soldier from the Philippines. There were no decisions affecting the Philippines today, and I presume both of these cases referred to will go over until the fall term of the court."

Why Buchanan Never Married.
"Mr. Buchanan, who was the first bachelor elected to the presidency, was 65 years of age when elected and had deliberately given himself to a life of celibacy," writes William Perrine in The Ladies' Home Journal.

"In the days when he was a young lawyer of Lancaster, Pa., he had loved Miss Coleman, a beautiful daughter of a citizen of that town. They had been engaged to be married, when one day he was surprised to receive from her a request to release her from the promise. According to Mr. George Ticknor Curtis, the separation originated in a misunderstanding on the part of the lady, who was unusually sensitive, over some small matter exaggerated by giddy and indiscreet tongues. Soon after the estrangement she was sent to Philadelphia and there died suddenly."

"Throughout the rest of his life, or for nearly half a century, Mr. Buchanan is not known to have revealed to anybody the circumstances of this romantic tragedy. He would only say that it had changed his hopes and plans and had led him more deeply than ever into politics as a distraction from his grief. In his old age, long after he had retired permanently to private life, he called attention to a package containing, he said, the papers and relics which would explain the causes of his youthful sorrow and which he preserved evidently with the idea of revealing them before his death. But when he died and his will was read it was found that he had directed that the package should be burned without being opened, and his intention was obeyed."
